Gabe Beatty- SAFY Preserving Families, Securing Futures

SAFY Preserves Families and Secures Futures. Through their Model of Care, they provide coordinated, community-based programs that ensure the physical and emotional safety of each individual while improving family functioning.

Beth Roalstad, Executive Director of Homeward Pikes Peak

It's a tough and uncomfortable topic, but Homeward Pikes Peak is at the forefront of homelessness, addiction and mental illness services. The services provided by HPP help clients dig deep, help them build long-term sustainability by addressing each individual's underlying challenges, and help them build accountability to themselves and their independence. They help clients become good employees, good neighbors, and sober living advocates. Their outreach workers meet unsheltered people where they are, connecting them to available community services and the possibility of home.

Leslie Oliver- Comcast/ Internet Essentials Program

Internet Essentials has an integrated, wrap-around design that addresses each of the three major barriers to broadband adoption that research has identified. These include: a lack of digital literacy skills, lack of awareness of the relevance of the Internet to everyday life needs, and fear of the Internet, the lack of a computer, and cost. As a result, the program includes: multiple options to access free digital literacy training in print, online, and in person, the option to purchase an Internet-ready computer for less than $150; and low-cost, high-speed Internet service for $9.95 a month plus tax. The program is structured as a partnership between Comcast and tens of thousands of school districts, libraries, elected officials, and nonprofit community partners.

Lori Jarvis, Executive Director of NAMI (National Alliance on Mental Illness) also Dr. Leon Kelly, M.D., the county coroner and NAMI's board vice president

At a time when our community is wrestling with the issue of teen suicide, NAMI Colorado Springs is helping connect students with free, 24/7, confidential professional counseling — by text. “Below the Surface” campaign raises awareness of Colorado Crisis Services’ text support line. The text line allows anyone to reach a master’s-level counselor simply by texting the word “TALK” to 38255.

Together, local teens, the Design Rangers and NAMI created a series of posters, mini cards, stickers, a website (need2text.com). Though representing diverse backgrounds and various high schools, the teens have been unified in describing how fine the line is between being “OK” and “not OK.”

Jessica Lieber, Operations Manager with Kids on Bikes

Kids on Bikes inspires and empowers all kids to lead healthy, active and happy lives through bicycling. Programs provide free bicycles and training to under-served kids through the Pedal Station.

Andrew Zeigler, Youth Team Coordinator with Hear, Here! Poetry

Hear Here helps youth and adults to sharpen their writing skills and turn past or present hardships into growth through poetry.

Hear, Here! Poetry shows how people are using their skills to help each other become more resilient. In fact, just this past year, a youth poet was able to take the pain of losing a child and turn it into a powerful piece about loss and the growth that can result despite the pain so long as that person can experience their grief in a supportive community. Part of this community takes place as youth poets spend their summers writing and performing together to get ready for an annual poetry festival.

Sarah Stacy, Transitional Specialist for the families, Ithaka Land, Inc.

Ithaka Land - One leading cause of homelessness is a loss of relationships. Ithaka provides the community and support necessary to recover. The relationships at Ithaka helped a resident “feel human again.

Ashley Perry, Board member, Catamount Institute

Catamount Institute mission is to connect kids to the outdoors. Creating a positive relationship with being outside through education and adventure. Their programs work with over 8,000 kids each year connecting them to nature in their backyard and in Colorado's beautiful back-country. Kids today are only spending about 7 minutes a day outside.

Greg Morris, Executive Director, Ascending to Health Respite Care

Ascending to Health is the only facility in the Pikes Peak region offering homeless individuals a safe place to recuperate after a hospital stay. Their respite services assist with meds management, benefits enrollment, connections to primary care and supportive housing options. They partner with hospitals to provide a vital safety net to our community's most vulnerable, because no one should have to recover on the street.

Deb Walker, Executive Director Citizens Project

Citizens Project is a watchdog that monitors local and state governments. We report back to citizens on legislation that affects equity and inclusion and encourage them to engage.
