Economic Development	Brian & LeeAnn	An early spring warm-up followed by a cold snap in April was enough to hurt Ohio's apple crop this year. There are estimates as much as half of the state's crop fell victim to the early season freeze. It's worse to the north where only about 10 percent of Michigan's crop survived. You could be paying about 25 percent more this year for apples than you did last year.		10/9/12 5:02	1:11
Health and Human Services	Brian & LeeAnn	Get a flu shot or risk losing your job. MetroHealth Medical Center says it is instituting this new policy for the protection of its patients as well as employees. At least 4,000 MetroHealth workers have already been vaccinated. So far, around 60 employees have refused for a variety of reasons. If they don't get an exemption, they could lose their jobs. There are exemptions for allergies and other issues that could be exacerbated by a flu shot.		10/10/12 4:49	:59
