ISSUE	PROGRAM / TITLE	DESCRIPTION	GUEST	DATE/TIME	DURATION
Government / Politics	Brian and LeeAnn	A convicted northeast Ohio killer has a date with death today. State prison officials say Harry Mitts Junior was moved yesterday to the Lucasville death house, where he'll await a lethal injection later this morning. Mitts was sent to death row in 1994 for killing a Garfield Heights police officer and another man	None	10/1/13 6:02am	1:13 during a shooting rampage.

Economic Development	Brian and LeeAnn	The home neighborhood of the West Side Market is being recognized for its housing stock. "This Old House" ranked Ohio City on its top ten list of best old-house neighborhoods in the country. The home improvement magazine's list cites the neighborhood's Victorian-style homes, walkability and value.	None	10/2/13 6:00am	1:10
Diversity	Brian and LeeAnn	The Cleveland Indians' season is over after a win or go home playoff game. The fell four nothing last night to the Tampa Rays touched up rookie pitcher Danny Salazar for three runs in four innings for the only cushion they needed, while the Indians failed to get key hits with runners on base.	None	10/3/13 5:51am	1:00
Government / Politics	Brian and LeeAnn	Downtown Cleveland commuters will be faced with some new headaches on the Innerbelt. The Ohio Department of Transportation closed the Jennings Freeway ramp to I-71 overnight, and will close the I-90 west exits to Carnegie Avenue and East 22nd Street tonight. Those exit ramps will be shut down until the new, eastbound Innerbelt Bridge opens to traffic in 2016. ODOT is urging drivers to use I-490 as an alternate route.	None	10/4/13 5:58am	1:02

Health and Human Services	Brian and LeeAnn	The live-in boyfriend of a murdered Tallmadge woman is behind bars, accused of killing her and her son. Tallmadge police arrested Daniel Tighe [[ TYE ]] yesterday at his home, nearly two months after the bodies of Wendy and Peyton Ralston were found in duffle bags along a creek behind their home. Tighe is expected to appear in court today	None	10/7/13 5:57am	0:58
Government/ Politics	Brian and Leeann	The federal government shutdown is starting to affect private-sector workers. WKYC-TV reports Lockheed Martin is planning to furlough 100 workers in Akron, with more expected if the shutdown continues. Lockheed's Akron office employs more than 400 people, specializing in electronic systems and sensors for aircraft and ships.	None	10/8/13 5:35am	1:00
Health and Human Services	Brian and Leeann	An Amish girl will get the chemotherapy her doctors say she needs to survive a bout with leukemia. A state appeals court ordered Akron Children's Hospital to appoint a medical guardian for ten-year-old Sarah Hershberger, after a Medina County judge twice rejected the hospital's request. Hershberger's parents stopped chemo	None	10/9/13 5:44am	1:03

		earlier this year, saying she was suffering awful side effects, and turned to natural Amish remedies
Diversity	Brian and Leeann	The death penalty will be on the table when a Tallmadge man goes on trial for the murders of his girlfriend and their son. Summit County prosecutors say Daniel Tighe [[ TYE ]] was indicted yesterday on aggravated murder and other charges. Tighe is accused of killing 31-year-old Wendy Ralston and five-year-old Peyton in August, then dumping their bodies in a wooded area behind their home	None	10/10/13 11:56am	3:12
Health and Human Services	Brian and Leeann	A three-year-old Cleveland boy is back home with his mom after being found in a stolen van. Cleveland police say the toddler was sleeping in the back of a minivan early yesterday on Seymour Avenue when someone jumped in and drove away. The van was ditched only blocks away, with the child still asleep. Investigators say the boy's mother left the keys in the van when she ran into a home to talk to her father.	None	10/11/13 5:45am	1:01

Government/ Politics	Brian and Leeann	The federal government shutdown is to blame for the postponement of a local road race. Organizers of the Towpath Marathon say this weekend's race is being moved to November 3rd, because the shutdown closed the Cuyahoga Valley National Park.	None	10/14/13 5:46am	:48
Diversity	Brian and Leeann	A fallen soldier from northeast Ohio will be honored this week. The remains of 27-year-old Army Specialist Angel Lopez were brought back to Cleveland yesterday, accompanied by motorcycle-riding veterans. Lopez was killed last week during combat in Afghanistan. Calling hours are scheduled today from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. at Craciun [[ cray-SEE-uhn ]] Berry Funeral Home in Cleveland, with the funeral tomorrow at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church.	None	10/15/13 3:52 am	3:50
Health and Human Services	Brian and Leeann	The annual signal that the circus has arrived in Cleveland won't be happening next week. Ringling Brothers and Barnum-and-Bailey Circus officials canceled the elephant walk yesterday, amid concerns about cold temperatures. The circus opens next Wednesday at Quicken Loans Arena	None	10/16/13 5:45am	:53

Government/ Politics	Brian and Leeann	Life will be getting back to normal for thousands of federal workers in northeast Ohio and the people they serve. The end of the federal shutdown last night means work will resume at the NASA Glenn Research Center and the Cuyahoga Valley National Park will reopen. The park's reopening will help boost small businesses that attract park visitors and jump start the Cuyahoga Valley Scenic Railroad, which was closed during the shutdown.	None	10/17/13 8:20am	3:29
Government/ Politics	Brian and Leeann	Plans are in the works for a new hotel in Playhouse Square. Starwood executives say a 206-room Le Meridien Hotel will take up space in the landmark JHB Building on Euclid Avenue. The hotel operator says the project will include first-floor retail space and a parking garage.	None	10/18/13 6:39am	4:24
Government/ Politics	Brian and Leeann	The state fire marshal is investigating a fire that damaged part of an Erie County marina. Vermilion firefighters say the blaze broke out yesterday inside a storage building at Parson's Marina, causing 300-thousand-dollars in damage. No injuries were reported.	None	10/21/13 8:16am	3:18

Diversity	Brian and Leeann	The Cleveland Browns are losers of two-straight games after falling hard on the road. The Green Bay Packers crushed the Browns yesterday, 31-to-13, by taking advantage of Browns' breakdowns on both offense and defense. The three-and-four Browns have another uphill battle next week, when they travel to play undefeated Kansas City.	None	10/22/13 3:28am	:06
Diversity	Brian and Leeann	The Cleveland National Air Show will return next year with the U.S. Navy Blue Angels as the headliner. Air show officials say the U.S. Defense Department has approved the world-renowned jet demonstration team for the Labor Day weekend festival. Last year's air show was canceled when sequestration canceled an appearance by the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds.	None	10/23/13 4:34am	4:15
Government/ Politics	Brian and Leeann	More women are coming forward to say they were victims of accused cold-case killer Elias Acevedo. Police and prosecution sources say new charges are pending against Acevedo, on top of 293 counts related to the murders of Christina Adkins and Pamela Pemberton and 20-year-old rape cases. Acevedo is being held on five-million-dollars bond.	None	10/24/13 4:18am	3:52

Government/ Politics	Brian and Leeann	The family and friends of a murdered Cleveland teenager will meet tonight to honor her memory. A memorial vigil for Christina Adkins is set for 6 p.m. at the spot where she was last seen alive, West 25th Street and Kinkel Avenue. Adkins was 18-years-old and five-months pregnant when she disappeared in 1995. Her remains were discovered earlier this month along I-90, and her alleged killer is in jail under a five-million-dollar bond.	None	10/25/13 4:16am	4:05
Government/ Politics	Brian and Leeann	Jury selection begins today in the second trial of the man accused of setting Cleveland's deadliest house fire. Antun Lewis is facing an arson charge in federal court for the fire on East 88th Street that killed nine people, including eight children. Lewis was convicted by a jury last year, but the judge overseeing the trial tossed the verdict after declaring the testimony to be suspect.	None	10/28/13 3:26am	3:00

Diversity	Brian and Leeann	An Akron teacher is off the job, suspended for posting a racially-charged rant on Facebook. Akron schools officials say Firestone High School music teacher David Spondike [[ SPON-dike ]] was placed on leave yesterday after used the "N-word" twice this past weekend to describe trick-or-treaters. The district says Spondike failed his responsibility to positively influence children, and has forwarded his comments to the Ohio Department of Education	None	10/30/13 12:24 pm	4:07
Diversity	Brian and Leeann	Accused killer Michael Madison will face the death penalty. Cuyahoga County prosecutors say Madison was re-indicted yesterday for the murders of three women, with specifications that call for a death sentence. Madison is accused of killing Shetisha Sheeley, Angela Deskins and Shirelda Terry, then dumping the bodies in and around an East Cleveland home.	None	10/31/13 12:13 PM	:17

Diversity	Brian and Leeann	Two people are dead after a hostage situation in Huron County. Willard police say it happened last night at a Family Dollar . A 19-year-old man reportedly walked into the store and held two employees hostage before shooting a woman and turning the gun on himself. The woman died at the hospital overnight.	None	11/01/13 8:17am	3:32
Government/ Politics	Brian and LeeAnn	Voters are heading to the polls today to cast ballots in the 2013 general election. State and local officials are expecting generally lower-than-normal turnout, with very few high-profile races or statewide issues on the ballot. The polls opened early and close tonight at 7:30... Meanwhile.. Election monitors will be stationed today at polls in Cuyahoga and Lorain counties. The U.S. Justice Department says a judge ordered the observers to help enforce the voting rights act. There's no word from the feds to why the counties were chosen to document and report any possible discrimination at polling places.	None	11/04/13 3:22am	:44

There's no word from the feds to why the counties were chosen to document and report any possible discrimination at polling places.
Government/ Politics	Brian and LeeAnn	Cleveland Mayor Frank Jackson is preparing to serve a third term in office. The city's voters reelected Jackson yesterday by a wide margin over businessman Ken Lanci [[ LAN-see ]]. Cleveland City Council's incumbents retained their seats except in the redrawn Ward Ten, where Jeff Johnson defeated Eugene Miller in a head-to-head matchup.	None	11/06/13 12:09pm	3:47
Health and Human Services	Brian and LeeAnn	Local and federal authorities are not giving up the search for a missing Cleveland teenager. The FBI's violent crime task force swept the area of west 65th street and Lorain avenue yesterday to get information on Ashley Summers. They were acting on tips that summers might still be alive, six years after she disappeared from that area.	None	11/07/13 4:22am	1:31
