3/22/12 6:00PM 2Hrs.

THE ERICKSON SHOW: There was a big rally in Sanford, FL for Trayvon Martin, who was shot by an apparently unprovoked neighborhood watchman. People are demanding action tonight Joe Ruble WDBO reporter & Roland Martin from CNN joined the show to discuss the story. People have been saying WSB and Erick are racist for not digging into this story. Erick tends to avoid racial issues, since conservatives are always labeled as having issues with other races so he stayed away. This is a huge issue – many feel this is a national issue when it comes to social justice. Why hasn't George Zimmerman the shooter arrested? If you have a reason to believe your life is in danger you have the right to shoot to kill and there's no problem. Zimmerman is using that as his defense. But was it self-defense?

3/27/12 11:00AM 1Hr.

THE NEAL BOORTZ SHOW: Boortz focuses on the George Zimmerman case and defines the Stand Your Ground law. If Zimmerman was attacked by Martin, he had the legal authority to defend himself. Zimmerman was in a place he had a legal right to be with a gun he had the legal right to have. But, if he was pursuing Martin, as he says he was the stand the ground law does not protect him. If Martin noticed he was being followed by Zimmerman, he had the right to turn around and confront Zimmerman. Witness "I saw Zimmerman on his back and martin on top beating him." What if Martin was using his right to Stand his Ground. What if Zimmerman had ceased his pursuit of Zimmerman and returned to his car? Martin then became the pursuer instead of the pursue. Then Martin loses protection of stand your ground law.

3/27/12 1:36PM 8Min.

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: The crime of opportunity of the moment is stealing restaurant grease. I read a report in The San Francisco Chronicle that this is a plague in the Bay area. What are the crooks using it for? Converting it to diesel fuel to operate diesel cars or trucks! A lot of diesel vehicles can be easily run on restaurant grease. Fryer grease is something that used to cost restaurants a great deal for disposal. But you run up the price of fuel enough, and that grease goes from being a headache to being a moneymaker, as legitimate haulers pay restaurants to take the grease away and resell it for biodiesel conversion. But now the crooks! This stuff is being called "liquid gold." Who would have ever thought? The reality is when the marketplace pushes up the price of oil and gas people adjust and change what they do. We are going to make a lot happen in the near future in terms of what it costs you to get down the road and how you do it. But one thing you shouldn't do is steal your way because then you won't need to commute at all when you get caught!

3/29/12 9:00AM 1Hr.

THE NEAL BOORTZ SHOW: Boortz is wondering when they are going to arrest the leader of the New Black Panther Party because his statement an eye for an eye and the cash bounty for Zimmerman dead or alive. Offering a cash reward is a violation of the law. It is a felony to threat to abduct and imprison someone without their will. Soliciting someone else to do so is also a felony. Zimmerman's Father says George is a Hispanic. He is not white. Blacks got upset and thought they would lose the white on black crime. Who has ever heard of Zimmerman as a Hispanic name? He is actually a white Hispanic. This is why racial profiling critics upset Boortz so much. The elephant in the room is that when it comes to crime in the US demographically black Americans commit crimes way out of proportion to the general populace. There is more "black on white" crime then there is "white on black" crime. Of all interracial crimes 90 percent of the time it was "black on white" not "white on black". If you are looking to buy a home where there is low crime. What is the single biggest indicator of a high crime rate in a community? A high percentage of black residents. When a cop understands these statistics and acts on them it is racial profiling and its terrible. The same people who yell and scream about profiling have nothing to say about the high levels of crime in the black community. The culture of crime that permeates the urban community is due to culture not race.

HEALTH TALK ATLANTA: In this continuation of last week's show, Dr. Joe discusses the links between sugar and mental health, and not just the white packets of sugar. He also discusses the carbohydrates that convert to sugars in your body such as breads, potatoes and pastas. Sugar is linked to a greater risk of depression and even schizophrenia. "Sugar" not only refers to refined sugar, but many other sources including high fructose corn syrup and starches. Dr. Joe also discusses recent studies on depression in new mothers, citing sugars as a risk factor. Reducing sugar in one's diet can lead to a significant reduction in mental health issues, but you would also want to make sure that you are getting plenty of exercise, eating a diet of foods that you are biologically adapted to eat, and making sure that your nervous system and digestive system are functioning normally. For more information on today's program, listeners can contact our host, Dr. Joe Esposito at 770-427-7387 or on-line at www.drjoesposito.com.

BUSINESS IN THE BLACK: Our first guest was Amanda Havard, Author of The Survivors. Amanda Havard has been telling stories since before she could write. She grew up in Dallas, Texas, where her first book was published in her elementary school library at age 7. Next we spoke to Richard Paul Evans, Author of The Lost December. Each of Richard's eighteen novels has appeared on the New York Times bestseller list; there are more than 14 million copies of his books in print worldwide. The Lost December is a parable of the prodigal son is among the best-known stories from the Bible. A young man, with everything in the world he could ever wish for—wealth, comfort, and most of all, a loving father—leaves his home, taking his inheritance with him. Carelessly, he spends it all, and finds himself left penniless, homeless, and starving, lower than even the pigs. Finally, we spoke to Dr. Naccarelli about Atrial Fibrillation (AFIB) & strokes. Dr. Naccarelli is internationally recognized for his clinical, teaching and research contributions. His research interests are in atrial fibrillation, clinical arrhythmia trials, implantable devices for treating arrhythmias and congestive heart failure, antiarrhythmic drug development and autonomic aspects of arrhythmogenesis. HEART OF ATLANTA: This show was dedicated to briefly highlighting past organizations as a recap of the previous year. Each organization was given a segment to discuss accomplishments and upcoming events. JRD Recycling is a Georgia State registered company located in Atlanta, GA. JRD Recycling is a fairly new business but we continue to grow by leaps and bounds because Mother Nature demands it. We consider ourselves to be an eager source of enthusiasm about recycling. The Cobb County Foster Adoptive Parents Association is a non-profit organization that supports Foster and Adoptive Parents in Cobb County in many different ways. The Association schedules a meeting every month, where parents are able to come together and receive training on different topics that may help them with the different types of placements in their home. The parents are also able to socialize and network among themselves for support. The Diaper Bank of Greater Atlanta, Inc. exists to meet the ever increasing need of families who are in financial crisis and are unable to provide diapers for their children or purchase adult disposable undergarments for themselves. Our vision is to service hundreds of low income families in need in the Greater Atlanta area by supplying diapers for children and incontinence supplies for adults. By hosting diaper drives and partnering with local community agencies we will be able to help by providing a basic necessity for children and adults in need. For more information on today's program, listeners can contact our host, Mo Reilley at heartofatl@gmail.com.

1/8/12 5:06AM 50Min.
HEALTH TALK ATLANTA: This show is a high paced, rapid fire blast of information on a variety of health subjects that Dr. Joe gets questions about on a daily basis. He discusses vitamins and their benefits, and common questions that arise: for example "can too much B-6 hurt me?" or "how much B-12 should I get?" He also discusses vitamin C, the best form of it, and how to determine just how much you should be taking per day. Another vitamin that Dr. Joe discusses is vitamin D, and how the best source of vitamin D is a minimum of 20 minutes in the sun. If you can't get sun on most days, then he discusses which version of vitamin D is the best supplement to take. Dr. Joe touches on other vitamins and goes back to how you can get most of your vitamins from a healthy diet of fruits, vegetables, certain grains, nuts and seeds. Other fun facts that he throws out for the listener touch on things like agave nectar being at least as bad as high fructose corn syrup, and how you need to have more good fats in your diet instead of eliminating all fats from your diet. As always Dr. Joe directs the listener back to the core of his message, which is in order to have good health, you must have three things: a normally functioning nervous system, a normally functioning digestive system and good nutrition. For more information on today's program, listeners can contact our host, Dr. Joe Esposito at 770-427-7387 or on-line at www.drjoeesposito.com.

BUSINESS IN THE BLACK: Today we talked to Tom Blaxland & Todd Gold from Xfinity TV. Tom runs the product team at Comcast Interactive Media and is responsible for the user experience, roadmap and execution of new features for XfinityTV.com, Comcast.net and Xfinity.com. As Executive Editor of Xfinity TV, Todd Gold oversees editorial promotion of TV and movies on XfinityTV.com, as well as the Xfinity Facebook page. He also coordinates editorial promotion between Xfinity On Demand and Xfinity TV's multiple platforms. They discussed the TV viewing trends in 2012. We also spoke to Rich Hamberg, the Deputy Director of Trust for America's Health. Rich talked about the ready-or-not emergency preparedness report. Finally, Ofemo Omilami from Hosea Feed the Hungry joined the program to discuss the organizations needs for donations & volunteers. Listeners wanting more information about this program can contact host Twanda Black at Twanda.black@coxradio.com or by calling 706-884-7509.

1/10/12 2:06PM 7Min.
THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: People are turning to daily deal sites for select medical procedures in the absence of health care coverage. I've talked in the past about how dentists are offering deals and becoming more negotiable in an effort to build traffic. Too many people are neglecting dental care when they don't have enough money after losing a job or having hours cut at work. Now I've read how Groupon, Living Social and their various imitators are one possible new source for finding deals on a variety of dental, eye care and medical care services. Let me make this perfectly clear: This is not a replacement for insurance. But let's say historically you've gone for teeth cleanings twice a year, and now you can't recall the last one because of the tough economy. If you can score a deal, I say take it. How do you know if you will get quality care from a particular doctor on a daily deal site? Check sites like Yelp.com and Kudzu.com that post general consumer reviews, and ones that are dedicated to medical reviews exclusively like RateMDs.com. Again, this is no substitute for having health insurance. When you get back to a job you're happy with again, that's when you want to do what you can to get health insurance, if you can qualify.

1/15/12 5:06AM 50Min.
HEALTH TALK ATLANTA: This is a continuation of last week's show where Dr. Joe continues to throw rapid fire fun facts about health out for the listener to process. He continues discussing supplements and their benefits, probiotics, the link between red meat and increased diabetes risk, the benefits of chiropractic care for treating low back pain (how it is more cost effective than traditional methods), the one life saving low-carb secret that you never hear about – sugar! Sugar feeds cancer cells, contributes to the obesity epidemic, and is derived from all carbohydrates. All carbs convert to sugar in the body. By going on a low carb diet, you quite possibly could be saving your life. This means giving up grains, and starches which is so prevalent in the standard American diet. But is the medical community sending the wrong message when it comes to treating disease. He cites a recommendation from the American Cancer Society that offers the following suggestions on their website for NUTRITIOUS SNACKS for cancer patients: cookies, pudding, custard, sherbet, egg nog (pasteurized), gelatin, muffins and ice cream. SERIOUSLY??? This flies in direct opposition to what cancer patients should be eating! Fruits, vegetables, nuts and seeds! Dr. Joe cites studies that prove that not only are these recommended snacks not nutritious but they will actually feed cancer cells in the body! Dr. Joe wants to teach the listener how to get well and stay well naturally, so that they can have a happier, healthier, better quality of life. For more information on today's program, listeners can contact our host, Dr. Joe Esposito at 770-427-7387 or on-line at www.drjoesposito.com.

BUSINESS IN THE BLACK: Dr. Rani G. Whitfield, M.D., a board certified family physician with a Certificate of Added Qualification in sports medicine, has become known as "Tha Hip Hop Doc" or "H2D" to many of the young adults in his hometown of Baton Rouge, Louisiana where he practices medicine was our first guest. He joined the program with the 2011 winner of the most powerful voice competition presented by the American Heart & stroke Association to discuss this year's contest. We also spoke to Dr. John Thomas, a Chiropractor; and Parnisia Duckworth, a licensed massage therapist at the Performance Health Center of Atlanta. They are offering free massages for police, firefighters, and educators. HEART OF ATLANTA: On Thursday, January 19, 2012, JCT. Bar is hosting an event with Betty and Billy Hulse, the makers of Cobbie's Sauce, to raise funds for the Shepherd Center in Atlanta, which is a private non-profit hospital specializing in medical treatment, research and rehabilitation for people with spinal cord and brain injuries. Throughout the evening, JCT. Bar will be serving pork sliders with Cobbie's Sauce (three sliders for $9), and all the proceeds from the sales of this dish will be donated to Shepherd Center! Cobbie's Sauce is an all-natural, gluten free sauce that was originally created by Mary Cobb "Cobbie" Hulse, Billy Hulse's mother, more than 60 years ago. This recipe has been used on chicken, pork, beef, fish and shrimp ever since. The Shepherd Center holds a special place in the hearts of the Hulses; Billy Hulse sustained a spinal cord injury in 2009 and received great care and treatment from the dedicated team at the Shepherd Center. The Hulses share proceeds from Cobbie's Sauce with this hospital that continues to give the family hope for the future. Cobbie's Sauce can be purchased at retail locations around Atlanta, or online at www.cobbieessauce.com. Founded in 1975, Shepherd Center is ranked by U.S. News & World Report among the top 10 rehabilitation hospitals in the nation. Shepherd Center is 132-bed facility and sees more than 6,000 people annually on an outpatient basis. Patients at Shepherd Center get more than just medical care; they gain an experience that brings healing and hope. For more information, visit www.shepherd.org. 1/18/12 2:35PM 7Min.

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: How do you actually control your weight? Everybody knows its diet and exercise, right? The latest studies published in the Journal of the American Medical Association suggest that all those fancy diets that are all about controlling this or that in your food intake may have it all wrong. The only thing that matters is how many calories you consume, in spite of all the claims by all the diet people about eat this, not that. In other words, the studies in JAMA are saying that portion control leading to reduced overall caloric intake is really the only thing that matters. Adding another wrinkle to this confusing question, I was reading in The New York Times that if you lose weight and want to maintain your new, lower weight, you will need to take in fewer calories than someone of equal weight who never had a weight problem before. Imagine that! Looks like calories are front and center to controlling what you weigh, period.

HEALTH TALK ATLANTA: In this show Dr. Joe discusses your hormones, and how to reset your hormone switch to "normal". The technical term for this "normal" is called homeostasis, which is a fancy way of saying that your body is reacting to its environment and trying to get back within its natural chemical, hormonal and temperature ranges. Dr. Joe discusses how the Standard American Diet is filled with processed foods, sugars, starches, hormone and pesticide laden meats and dangerous preservatives. These foods lack the nutrition your body needs, they contribute to the epidemic of obesity and they keep your hormones from functioning normally. He discusses leptin resistance and how when you are hungry, you are not necessarily hungry for food, you are hungry for nutrition, and if you are leptin resistant, your body may not be getting the signals when it is full. He gives the listener some simple tips for possibly reversing the effects of years of the Standard American Diet by eating certain foods, avoiding others, and making sure the nervous system and digestive system are functioning to the best of their ability. HEART OF ATLANTA: The Torch Gala is the most important fundraiser of the year for the Georgia Chapter of the Crohn's & Colitis Foundation of America (CCFA-GA). For twenty years, this annual dinner dance continues to attract Atlanta's finest and most generous philanthropists. The Gala includes dinner, dancing, silent auction and recognition ceremony. Monies raised will be used to support medical research, patient education and support services in its mission to cure and prevent Crohn's disease and ulcerative colitis. HEALTH TALK ATLANTA: Have you ever had a doctor tell you that "your fine" when you know you are not fine? They can't seem to find any visible cause for the aches, pains and fatigue. Well, your endocrine system may be to blame. Your endocrine glands emit hormones, and in this show, Dr. Joe discusses these hormones, what they do, and how they are affected by artificial hormones found in everything from soda can liners to lotions and perfumes. He also discusses iodine that completes your thyroid hormone, and how it is affected by fluoride, chlorine, and bromine (a fire retardant found in breads and other baked goods). Dr. Joe also discusses estrogen dominance and low testosterone that can lead to precocious puberty in little girls and infertility. As always though, Dr. Joe brings the listener back to the three things you must have for good health: a normally functioning nervous system, a normally functioning digestive system and good nutrition. In this show, Dr. Joe gives you tips on natural ways to counteract the effects of these chemicals on our hormones. More specifically, estrogen and how estrogen dominance affects your health and how to balance out your estrogen levels. He also discusses thyroid hormones and how they affect thyroid diseases. As always, Dr. Joe brings the listener back to the basics of good health: a normally functioning nervous system, a normally functioning digestive system, and good nutrition. 2/6/12 2:36PM 8Min.

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: Two entrepreneurs out of Orange County are aiming to make it easier for you to get rid of old electronics. Matt Miller and Jaime Gonzalez have created the Green Box, a 6-by-5-foot box being placed in several locations around Southern California with an eye to expand the idea to other states, according to The Orange County Register. Once you dump your e-waste in, the Green Box folks have a de-manufacturing plant where they take it apart. They sell what they can (plastic, steel and aluminum) to make money and then they see to the safe recycling of heavy metals with the help of third party contractors. So often people view recycling startups like Green Box as just good works and it becomes a non-profit opportunity. But that's not how you scale up a business to the point of expansion; you scale it up by figuring out how to make money doing it. That's where Miller and Gonzalez are right now and I wish them great success because it's a help to us all. Meanwhile, USA Today reports that more and more companies are going to zero landfill use. DuPont is taking its old shipping pallets and shredding them into chips for animal bedding; scrap Corian is being used for new countertops or landscape stone; and food waste is composted or turned into energy.

THE ERICK ERICKSON SHOW: Former Georgia Secretary of State and friend of RedState Karen Handel has resigned from the Komen foundation in the wake of the left-wing outcry over the future of the organization's funding of Planned Parenthood. THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: The price of gas these days is a real pain for most of us consumers. But what about those who own trucking companies, or do deliveries for a living? For them, it's far more than a pain; it could destroy their business. But what if we could lower the cost of gas cut our energy dependence and reduce air pollution at the same time? That would be win-win all around. Natural gas vehicles accomplish all of the above. But the challenge for their owners has been finding places to fuel up. Navistar, a major truck manufacturer, is launching a line of trucks that run on natural gas. And they've worked out a deal with the Pilot and Flying J truck stops to build a network of natural gas fueling stations to help with fleet fuel-ups. And in many states, you can have a natural gas refueling station installed at your home or business. We have about a 75-110 year supply of natural gas here in the U.S. The price is low, and it's an inexpensive way to break our dependence on foreign oil. Navistar is doing it on their own, without any help from the government. The rest of us just have to get with the program!

This is a fun one for the month of love, and he keeps it light, humorous and family safe. He reminds the listener that even bones pinching nerves in the low back can affect the sex organs and making sure that the nervous system is working properly is key to keeping "romance" healthy! 2/13/12 1:33AM 24Min.

HEART OF ATLANTA: Dr. Sweeting from Dental One joined the program to discuss dental health. Dental caries, also known as tooth decay or cavities, is the most common disorder affecting the teeth. The main factors controlling the risk of dental caries are oral hygiene, exposure to fluoride and a moderate frequency of consumption of cariogenic foods. The health of our teeth and mouth are linked to overall health and well-being in a number of ways. The ability to chew and swallow our food is essential for obtaining the nutrients we need for good health. Apart from the impact on nutritional status, poor dental health can also adversely affect speech and self-esteem. Dental diseases impose both financial and social burdens as treatment is costly and both children and adults may miss time from school or work because of dental pain. Some of the earliest signs of diabetes, cancer, pregnancy, immune disorders, hormone imbalances and drug issues show up in the gums, teeth and tongue—sometimes long before a patient knows anything is wrong. There's also growing evidence that oral health problems, particularly gum disease can harm a patient's general health as well, raising the risk of diabetes, heart disease, stroke, pneumonia and pregnancy complications. Recent studies also show that treating gum disease improves circulation, reduces inflammation and can even reduce the need for insulin in people with diabetes. Such findings are fueling a push for dentists to play a greater role in patients' overall health. Some 20 million Americans—including 6% of children and 9% of adults—saw a dentist but not a doctor in 2008, according to a study in the American Journal of Public Health this month. THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: Performance-enhancing supplements for workouts are all the rage. One of the most popular supplements is called DMAA, a substance that supposedly ups the results of fitness training by increasing your metabolism and strength. The product has been very popular with soldiers in particular. But according to the U.S. Army, it can also cost you your life. The New York Times recently did an article revealing that the Army has pulled all DMAA products from their bases following a sudden rash of deaths that appear to be associated with it. They claim the product raises one's heart rate too drastically and can kill. The vitamin stores and manufacturers are up in arms, refuting any and all safety concerns with it. The FDA is limited in their control of supplements, leaving manufacturers to make almost any claim they wish about their products. But please, heed Clark's warning: Working out is great. It's essential to our health. But taking work-out supplements—not so much. The goal is to live better—not to be the best looking person in the morgue!

THE ERICK ERICKSON SHOW: Should the Southern Baptist Church change its name? The nation's largest Protestant denomination will definitely remain "Baptist," but leaders are thinking about whether it will be "Southern" for much longer. Southern Baptist Convention President Bryant Wright was expected to present the recommendation of a task force assigned to study a name change to the denomination's executive committee at a meeting tonight. The name isn't what people avoid the church over. Every Baptist Church is different in doctrine. What drives people away is that the Baptist churches stand for values that are Bible-centric. If because people are driven away you're going to change your name, then what's next? Changing what you stand for?

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: In what's believed to be a first, an elderly woman has been implanted with a prosthetic jaw made by a 3-D printer. CNET reports that a company called LayerWise used a computer-assisted drawing to make an exact titanium replica of the woman's jaw and then "print" it up on the spot before the surgery. It may sound like science fiction, but it's happening right now. And as you can probably tell, a 3-D printer is machine that instead of making a photocopy of a piece of paper actually makes an item by creating it layer by layer out of plastic, metal or other material. Meanwhile, another company called Bespoke Innovations is planning to make artificial limbs that are highly customized to the individual with the help of 3-D printers. Best of all, these prosthetics can be made at a mere one-tenth their usual cost. Yet another company called LGM has developed a type of 3-D printer that goes on the back of a flatbed truck and can go around to build a home for you on-site wall by wall. In addition, there are implications here for women's clothing. Women want clothing that's as flattering as possible and right for their body types. 3-D printers that can make custom clothing fitted exactly to a woman's contours should give boutiques a real run for their money. HEALTH TALK ATLANTA: In this show< Dr. Joe discusses cholesterol, and alternative or natural ways to balance your cholesterol without using drugs. As always, Dr. Joe reminds the listener that he can't tell them to take drugs or not take drugs, but instead, teaches ways to get the body healthy so that you might not need the drugs. He discusses HDL or high-density lipoproteins, LDL or low-density lipoproteins, and something you may not have heard of VLDL's or very low-density lipoproteins. Another issue that Dr. Joe addresses is the studies that show that cholesterol lowering drugs do not reduce the risk of heart disease despite all the "conclusive" studies that indicated otherwise. Going back to the basics, Dr. Joe reminds the listener that the safest and usually most effective option is following a plant based diet, keeping the nervous system healthy, and making sure the digestive system is functioning normally. For more information on today's program, listeners can contact our host, Dr. Joe Esposito at 770-427-7387 or on-line at www.drjoesposito.com.

HEALTH TALK ATLANTA: In this economy, people want to feel like they are getting the most bang for their buck at the checkout. Food manufacturers are tapping into our concerns about healthier choices and are using sometimes deceptive marketing to get us to buy their products. In this show Dr. Joe discusses some of the terms used that can possibly be misleading. Terms like: no added growth hormones, natural, grass fed, antibiotic free, gluten free, multi-grain, BPA and pesticide free. Dr. Joe goes into detail about how these terms can be misleading. and how to protect yourself. As always, Dr. Joe reminds the listener of his core message, that the nervous system controls everything, and in order to have good health, the nervous system must be functioning normally, the digestive system must be functioning normally, and you must have good nutrition. For more information on today's program, listeners can contact our host, Dr. Joe Esposito at 770-427-7387 or on-line at www.drjoesposito.com.

BUSINESS IN THE BLACK: Our first guest was Dr. Nitza Alvarez. Dr. Alvarez practices cardiology and internal medicine in Leesburg, Florida. Dr. Alvarez discussed the “close the gap” initiative as well as heart health disparities in the minority community. We also spoke to Karinder Richardson-Williamson. He is the Program Director at South West Arts Theatre & Gallery. They have an upcoming actor’s boot camp which is a five-day intensive boot camp for actors age 16 – adult, conducted by dynamic director and lecturer Jade Lambert-Smith. Actors will explore how to expertly grab the text off the page and give a powerful and polished performance during monologues, cold readings and scene work. Finally, we talked to Tia Lynn, the founder of the Pink Kick Starter Project. The Pink Kick Starter Project provides kits to newly diagnosed breast cancer patients. Each kit contains the basic tools for a newly diagnosed breast cancer patient to get organized and become empowered for the journey ahead. Tia focused on the Pink Well Challenge for breast cancer which is a year-long fundraising effort offering $1 million in matching grants to organizations engaged in breast cancer research, prevention, treatment and patient support throughout the U.S. Listeners wanting more information about this program can contact host Twanda Black at Twanda.black@coxradio.com or by calling 706-884-7509.

HEALTH TALK ATLANTA: Ever wondered why people seem to do crazy things when they are in love? It’s because they do! In this show, Dr. Joe explores the science behind what makes people fall in love, and stay in love. There are chemicals that come into play at different stages of each relationship, such as dopamine, norepinephrine, and serotonin. He also discusses different foods that will enhance or detract from romance. Dr. Joe also discusses fertility and the link between nutrition and fertility and the nervous system and fertility. Dr. Joe points out that the nerves in the low back control the colon, sex organs, and bladder, and if the spine is out of alignment in the low back, that can be another factor affecting fertility. HEALTH TALK ATLANTA: Without the listeners, we wouldn't have a show! In this show, Dr. Joe spends time answering questions from listeners, addressing issues like GERD (gastro esophageal reflux disorder), gluten intolerance, HDL's (High density lipoproteins), calcium absorption, and diet. Dr. Joe's advice is always practical and down to earth. The core of his message goes back to the basics that you must put good fuel in your body if you expect it to run properly, avoid the 7 deadly sins of nutrition: alcohol, meat, sugar, dairy, coffee, soda, and artificial sweeteners. Put good fuel in your body in the form of fruits, vegetables, certain grains (gluten free), nuts and seeds. Make sure the nervous system is functioning properly by getting the spine aligned through chiropractic. And make sure the digestive system is functioning normally. Dr. Joe discusses using raw organic apple cider vinegar and stomach adjustments to help this happen. HEALTH TALK ATLANTA: We've all been told that exercising is good for us, well, it is. There are just some hidden dangers to working out that everyone needs to be aware of. Exercise is beneficial in that it gives you energy, protects your heart, improves your sleep, and helps you handle stress better. So where are the dangers? There are hidden toxins in everything from the pool at the gym, the products used to sanitize workout equipment, yoga mats, to your workout clothes. In this show, Dr. Joe tells you what to be careful of, and how to protect yourself when you are working out. He even gives suggestions on safer, more effective ways to work out. He also reminds the listener that when they are working out, he wants them to build up strong muscles around straight bones, not around crooked bones since the nervous system controls everything. THE HEART OF ATLANTA: Money raised from the Fight For Air Climb helps the American Lung Association fight for clean air and healthy lungs. Lung disease death rates continue to rise while other leading causes of death have declined. Over 12% of Georgia's children have asthma. The American Lung Association funds vital research, advocacy and education on the causes of and treatments for lung disease, including research here in Georgia. In addition, the Lung Association provides patient education, teaches children not to smoke, and helps teenage and adult smokers quit. Firefighters can compete in their turnout gear including boots (no air packs/tanks) for the firefighter challenge awards. Firefighters ascend the stairs after all other climbers. THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: The fast food restaurant playgrounds are filthy and one woman is on the warpath to clean them up. Erin Carr-Jordan, a 37-year-old mother of four with a Ph.D. in developmental psychology, has been at war in Arizona and across the country with health departments and restaurants. She's incensed because they're filthy, and she wants county health inspectors to check playgrounds when they do their inspections. This crusade started because Carr-Jordan took her three year old on the slide at a McDonald's playground in Tempe, a suburb of Phoenix. "Inside I saw filth and grime coupled with clumps of dirt, matted hair and rotting food ... the entire structure was riddled with swear words and gang signs," she told The Arizona Republic. So she left and came back next day to do a mother inspection. After complaining to the manager and getting no satisfaction, she hired a lab to come in and test the playground on her own dime. What did they find? "Opportunistic human pathogens" common to fecal material, mucus, matted hair and food. Now Carr-Jordan is a one woman movement who travels around the country and tests samples so she can seek law changes. There are no rules about this kind of stuff.

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: The obesity epidemic in the U.S. has made headlines for years. And now a court case is going to decide if one of the culprits is in much of the food you eat. The sugar wars continue, centering on the question of what's worse for you, sugar or high fructose corn syrup (HFCS)? At the core of the issue is the Corn Refiners Association wanting to push 'corn sugar' as the new name for the much-maligned HFCS. So there's a big court case where both camps are actually arguing before a judge which is worse for you, sugar or HFCS. You just can't make this stuff up! It is my belief that having these items in moderation is just fine. The problem is if you overindulge, then you'll gain the weight. And we all know that has been a big problem in our country. People are always looking for what to blame. A lot has been written attacking HFCS, claiming that the chemical makeup of it will cause more weight gain than an equivalent amount of sugar. On the issue of the science of HFCS v. sugar, I don't understand science and will reserve comment. I will leave it to the judge to render a decision

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: All over the country, roll your own cigarette shops are opening that allow you to buy cigarettes at a fraction of the usual cost, according to The Wall Street Journal. The idea is simple: You go in and buy tobacco in bulk. Then you essentially rent time on a machine that rolls your cigarettes. Pop in your tobacco up on the top, and out of the bottom comes rolled cigarettes, just like the kind you'd buy from a name brand company. But the difference is you'll typically pay half the price you would for a normal carton. Having said that, I'm also ecstatic that those graphic cigarette labels the big tobacco companies were trying to ban have been deemed constitutional by an appellate court. That's great news and my hope is that they see the light of day and spur people to quit smoking. So here I am, one side of me is all about the free market to get cheaper cigarettes, and the other side of me is all about the graphic labels to discourage smoking. I am a contradiction, aren't I?

PERSPECTIVES: The perennial New York Times bestselling author helps readers discover how to put money in its place and use wealth-building as a tool for joy and fulfillment. Hill Harper is uniquely poised to guide readers through tough times and offers bestselling advice for reaping the rewards of a truly happy life. With The Wealth Cure, he does more than that: He presents a revolutionary new definition of wealth, motivating readers to not only build financial security but to also achieve wealth in every aspect of their lives. Using his own journey as a parable, Harper inspires the reader to evaluate their values while explaining the importance of laying a sound financial foundation and how to recognize the worth of your relationships and increase the value of your interactions with the people in your life. Drawing on his personal recollections and true stories from family and friends, Harper helps readers begin to see money not as a goal but as a tool that provides freedom for following their passions. The keys include investing in yourself, tapping the resources you need, and taking responsibility for how those resources are used. Far from a get-rich-quick primer, The Wealth Cure brims with inspired wisdom for building a lasting bounty from the experiences, loved ones, and achievements that really matter. BUSINESS IN THE BLACK: Our first guest was Amanda Havard, Author of The Survivors. Amanda Havard has been telling stories since before she could write. She grew up in Dallas, Texas, where her first book was published in her elementary school library at age 7. Next we spoke to Richard Paul Evans, Author of The Lost December. Each of Richard's eighteen novels has appeared on the New York Times bestseller list; there are more than 14 million copies of his books in print worldwide. The Lost December is a parable of the prodigal son is among the best-known stories from the Bible. A young man, with everything in the world he could ever wish for—wealth, comfort, and most of all, a loving father—leaves his home, taking his inheritance with him. Carelessly, he spends it all, and finds himself left penniless, homeless, and starving, lower than even the pigs. Finally, we spoke to Dr. Naccarelli about Atrial Fibrillation (AFIB) & strokes. Dr. Naccarelli is internationally recognized for his clinical, teaching and research contributions. His research interests are in atrial fibrillation, clinical arrhythmia trials, implantable devices for treating arrhythmias and congestive heart failure, antiarrhythmic drug development and autonomic aspects of arrhythmogenesis. She always knew she would become an author, even as she was taking an unlikely path to that destination. With this new book, Bestselling and award-winning novelist Victoria Christopher Murray teamed up with Author ReShonda Tate Billingsley to bring their favorite heroines together in a novel that will delight their legions of fans. Jasmine Larson Bush and Rachel Jackson Adams are not your typical first ladies. But they've overcome their scandalous and drama-filled pasts to stand firmly by their husbands' sides. When a coveted position opens up president of the American Baptist Coalition both women think their husbands are perfect for the job. And winning the position may require both women to get down and dirty and revert to their old tricks. Just when Jasmine and Rachel think they're going to have to fight to the finish, the current first lady of the coalition steps in a woman bigger, badder, and more devious than either of them. Its double the fun with a message of faith, Sinners & Saints will delight readers with two of their favorite characters from two of their favorite authors. THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: In what's believed to be a first, an elderly woman has been implanted with a prosthetic jaw made by a 3-D printer. CNET reports that a company called LayerWise used a computer-assisted drawing to make an exact titanium replica of the woman's jaw and then "print" it up on the spot before the surgery. It may sound like science fiction, but it's happening right now. And as you can probably tell, a 3-D printer is machine that instead of making a photocopy of a piece of paper actually makes an item by creating it layer by layer out of plastic, metal or other material. Meanwhile, another company called Bespoke Innovations is planning to make artificial limbs that are highly customized to the individual with the help of 3-D printers. Best of all, these prosthetics can be made at a mere one-tenth their usual cost. Yet another company called LGM has developed a type of 3-D printer that goes on the back of a flatbed truck and can go around to build a home for you on-site wall by wall. In addition, there are implications here for women's clothing. Piedmont Park's annual Park After Dark benefit returns to the historic Greystone overlooking scenic Lake Clara Meer on Thursday, March 15, 2012, bringing together Atlanta's young professionals for an exciting evening in Atlanta's only lakefront venue. Funds raised from this event will benefit the security and maintenance of an expanded Piedmont Park. Fine Art + Fashion is a fundraising benefit that supports visual arts programs, a juried exhibition, related public programs, as well as marketing and public relations support of major exhibitions of visual artists of African descent from throughout the region. This event provides an opportunity to bring together multi-generational, multi-cultural lovers of art and fashion. Approximately 400 of Atlanta's fashion, business and social community will attend the 6th Annual Event that includes a pre-show cocktail party, art exhibit, fashion presentation and post-show party sponsored by Neiman Marcus. Women's Weekend 2012: A weekend of activities to teach women how to live spiritually and empowered to accomplish their goals. This year's focus is on reaping a harvest through Biblical financial principles and practices. The weekend provides networking activities with attendees and vendors. Events include seminars on saving, giving and the timing your actions. HEART OF ATLANTA: This show was dedicated to briefly highlighting past organizations as a recap of the previous year. Each organization was given a segment to discuss accomplishments and upcoming events. JRD Recycling is a Georgia State registered company located in Atlanta, GA. JRD Recycling is a fairly new business but we continue to grow by leaps and bounds because Mother Nature demands it. We consider ourselves to be an eager source of enthusiasm about recycling. The Cobb County Foster Adoptive Parents Association is a non-profit organization that supports Foster and Adoptive Parents in Cobb County in many different ways. The Association schedules a meeting every month, where parents are able to come together and receive training on different topics that may help them with the different types of placements in their home. The parents are also able to socialize and network among themselves for support. The Diaper Bank of Greater Atlanta, Inc. exists to meet the ever increasing need of families who are in financial crisis and are unable to provide diapers for their children or purchase adult disposable undergarments for themselves. Our vision is to service hundreds of low income families in need in the Greater Atlanta area by supplying diapers for children and incontinence supplies for adults. By hosting diaper drives and partnering with local community agencies we will be able to help by providing a basic necessity for children and adults in need. THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: Today Clark broadcasted live from his Habitat for Humanity build. One topic he discussed was how people often think the houses built by Habitat for Humanity are just given to the homeowners. That couldn't be further from the truth. Families typically get a 25-year mortgage with a 0% interest rate. The typical monthly payment is between $500 and $525 a month. Why so cheap? First, the volunteer labor comes with no costs attached. Second, the Habitat organization follows Biblical scripture that emphasizes a 0% interest rate. Interestingly, the rate of default with Habitat homes is miniscule compared to what's generally happening in the marketplace at large. That's because the homeowners have a vested interest in more ways than one. Families must also do the following: Complete 250 hours of "sweat equity" on other Habitat homes or on their own. Attend 12 homeowner education classes and hands-on maintenance seminars. Make all monthly payments on time as a renter for 1 year before a formal closing takes place. At that point, all the money paid thus far is applied as mortgage payments. This is a hand-up program, not a hand-out one. If you pay, you stay...and if you don't, you go!

EMPLOYMENT / BUSINESS ISSUES:

1/6/12 10:00AM 1Hr.

THE NEAL BOORTZ SHOW: Jobs numbers out today. 8.5%. If you're not out in the workforce (not even looking for a job / relying on Social Security disability benefits) then you do not count when it comes to unemployment. If the workforce was the same size as when Obama took office, if the 8.5 number makes you feel good – hooray. If the workforce was the same as when Obama took office, then the real number would be 10.9%. Obama announced massive cuts in defense spending yesterday; at the same time N Korea is becoming more boisterous, Iran is threatening to close the Straits of Hormuz. He wants to cut back the military but won't cut back the entitlement programs that make us a deadbeat nation! Obama came into the White house with the intention of weakening America because he dislikes America.

1/6/12 2:06PM 6Min.

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: Using the Internet to connect with people who have particular skills sets has become extremely popular in a time of high unemployment. Some months ago, I told you about a service called Fiverr.com, where people share things they're willing to do for $5. You might be able to hire someone to review your resume, design a website, improve a PowerPoint presentation or even write your Maid of Honor speech -- all for $5! The low price is often a loss leader allowing a contractor to develop a client base for their particular area of expertise. I have also talked in the past about eLance.com, which you can use to find freelancing and consulting jobs, or to offer your freelance services to others. Now The San Francisco Chronicle has written up several other sites that offer similar options. TaskRabbit.com allows you to hire someone in your local area to run errands for you. For example, if you buy Ikea furniture, you might hire a "rabbit" to assemble it for you. The service is only available in select areas. RedBeacon.com lets you get price quotes and book appointments for local services, such as those provided by a plumber or electrician. Again, RedBeacon.com may only be available in select areas.

PERSPECTIVES: NetWeaving is a Golden Rule and Pay it Forward form of networking. Most 'networkers' are only listening with a single pair of ears, and their antennae are tuned in on only one frequency – "Can this person help me?" or "Are they a prospect for me?" A genuine NetWeaver is consistently looking and listening for ways to help someone – no strings attached – simply as a way of building trusted relationships. It could be a Need or Problem the person has and for which the NetWeaver can help fulfill or solve. Or it could be an Opportunity for which the NetWeaver can help the person take advantage of. We believe that most NetWeaving is not done entirely out of altruism. Much of it is based on the NetWeaver's belief in the law of reciprocity – 'what goes around, does come back around' and often in ways which the NetWeaver could never have seen or imagined up front. NetWeaver's give first, in order to receive, and they do so mainly out of 'enlightened self-interest'. EMPLOYMENT / BUSINESS ISSUES:

1/9/12 2:06PM 7Min.

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: Bank of America is closing credit lines of some business customers at the same time that they're running an ad campaign about how they love small business. Bank of America would not tell a Los Angeles Times reporter how many businesses they've done this to. But it's happening to small business owners who were paying as agreed. They're just being told they have to pay either today or within days. Their line is shut off and all the debt is suddenly due. The sad thing is that Bank of America got hundreds of billions of dollars from us and they're still not truly solvent. They're morally and financially bankrupt. They only exist because of the kindness and generosity of taxpayers. This is just one more sign that the big banks need to be busted up. They have too much power and they're too reckless. For business owners, if you receive notice that Bank of America or anybody else shut down your line of credit, you may not have maneuvering room. But if you have an operating line of credit, run, do not walk, to open business lines for your company with a new bank. Get to a local community bank that specializes in lending to small businesses. If you can establish a relationship, then kick Bank of America to the curb. Don't wait until the hammer drops and your cash flow dries up. Then you have no move at all and may not be able to make it as an existing concern.

1/13/12 10:00AM 1Hr.

THE NEAL BOORTZ SHOW: Americans believe the conflict between rich and poor is growing. Well of course! We have a president who has been promoting class warfare for decades before even becoming President! Dumb masses can't figure out unemployment rate. Government schools are to blame. Unemployment is 8.5%, but it's 8.5% of what? Are we talking percentage of population? That would include children and retired people, so no. Are talking 8.5% of people in working age? That would include stay at home moms, so no. 8.5% of people who had a job before? No. It's the percentage of the workforce, and there is a very clear definition of "workforce". Total number of a country's population employed in the armed forces and civilian jobs, plus those unemployed people who are actually seeking paying work. Our workforce is 64% of working age people who can legally hold a job. The workforce today is smaller, even though our population has been steadily increasing. 50,000 people left the work force last month in Dec. And the workforce number keeps going down. So what would the unemployment rate be if the workforce was the same right now as when Obama took office? It would be 10.9%

1/16/12 1:07PM 7Min.

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: One of the most loathsome fees in banking may have met its match thanks to a 25-year-old entrepreneur in Brooklyn. Free ATMs NYC is a company started by Clinton Townsend. As the name suggests, Townsend's approach is that you can get at your money fee-free (on his end) in exchange for watching an ad at the terminal and then getting some additional promotional messaging on the receipt. One caveat here, though: If you are a customer of a giant monster mega-bank, they may still charge you a fee for using someone else's machine. (That's a different issue altogether and really speaks to why you need to fire them anyway!) So far, there's only such ATM located in Brooklyn, though more are expected in the New York metro area, according to what I read in Time. I hope this kind of idea will take root in other metro areas too.

EMPLOYMENT / BUSINESS ISSUES:

1/17/12 1:36PM 8Min.

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: We talk a good game about how we value our teachers and what they do for our children. But then we as a nation turn around and dis them by giving them some of the worst retirement plans of anybody out there. In its infinite wisdom, Congress set up inferior retirement plans for teachers called 403(b) plans way back in the 1950s. 403(b) plans come loaded with massive commissions and huge ongoing fees from the insurance companies that push them. Unions and even school districts can be complicit in this colossal rip-off of our country's teachers via crummy 403(b) plans in some cases. Now The Wall Street Journal reports that there's a big push in some school systems to give teachers access to the kind of good retirement plans like a 401(k) that many people have. There are couple things I want you to know: If you get new plan info on your 403(b), find out what's in it. Don't be intimidated or confused by the verbiage. If you are offered a 403(b) with TIAA-CREF, go with them. They will charge you as little as one-twentieth in junk fees what you pay to a typical insurance company offering a rotten 403(b) plan. For any teacher saving for retirement, their first step should be to do a Roth IRA on their own. You can contribute up to $5,000 annually ($6,000 for those 50 or older). A Roth is a vastly superior thing to crummy 403(b) plans.

1/24/12 2:35PM 8Min.

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: The National Federation of Independent Business does a small business confidence survey that's closely watched by economists. Right now, small businesses report they're feeling much better about things. Confidence is up a fair amount. Some entrepreneurs say they're looking to hire and expand their business. The reality is smaller businesses were in a crouch position for the last five years just trying to survive. The efficient have survived while their competitors, one by one, fall by the wayside. Those survivors are now poised to grow, although any of a number of small businesses hasn't regained their pre-recession sales numbers. But they are in growing mode again -- not all, of course, but many of them. Think about it like this: Why did dinosaurs go extinct? As they got bigger and bigger, their brains got smaller and smaller, just like big companies. In my experience working for a big company, the bureaucratic quotient is inversely proportion to the IQ of the organization. As the company gets bigger and more bureaucratic, it gets dumber. So if you want to see what gives life to capitalism it's the innovative entrepreneur who risks it all to go out and start a business. His or her productivity, how hard he or she works, is so much greater when it's their own organization and their own money at risk. That impulse, that drive, is so hard to create in a corporate environment.

1/25/12 2:36PM 6Min.

THE CLARK HOWARD SHOW: Allstate is a company that has never had a very good customer satisfaction rating with Consumer Reports or the American Customer Satisfaction Index. In fact, they've typically been at the bottom end of the heap. But in an effort to restore confidence to their brand, the insurer is now offering an auto claim satisfaction guarantee in a reported 31 states. The guarantee reads, in part, "If you're not happy with how your Allstate car insurance claim goes -- for any reason -- Allstate will give you credit on your premium for up to six months. If you're a customer and you find yourself in this situation, you simply have to send a letter to the company at the following address explaining your gripe: Allstate Insurance, CSGP.O. Box 11904 Roanoke, VA 24022-9933. When you're in business, it always pays to remember that you exist to provide a product or service at a price people are willing to pay. Allstate is trying to take that to heart. If you forget that, you lose your way.
