Schools/ Education/Youth/ Senior Citizens/Veterans	News	3/15/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	120sec	Two local veterans groups are combining forces to help out needy veterans and their families. Leslie C. McLean VFW Post #1454 in Alma and Veterans4usa based in Mt. Pleasant are hosting monthly distributions of food and other necessities at the Alma post, located at 1302 Wright Ave. "We have done a couple of them but only gotten

					around 20 families at each one and we are sure that there are probably more in our area who are in need of some help but don't really know about the project." Alma VFW member Doug Yarnell said. He and Mike Rodgers, the CEO and founder of nonprofit Veterans4usa, are hoping to get the word out so more veterans can be served. "We would like to get more participants," said Rodgers, who is heading the distribution effort. "We usually have about 75 boxes to give out, each one weighing between 30 and 40 pounds." The boxes feature dry and canned foods, vegetables and other products. Organizers also supply necessities such as toiletries, hats, gloves and other items when available. There are no income requirements and any veteran in the mid-Michigan area is eligible to participate, Rodgers said. The distributions take place the fourth Thursday of every month. The next is from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. March 25. Rodgers, a retired U.S. Army sergeant, founded Veterans4usa after he retired from the service in 2014. "When I first started this I had no clue what I was doing," Rodgers said. "But now it's grown and we try to add new events and programs each year." One of the primary missions of Veterans4usa is to spread awareness of suicide and PTSD among former military service members. It offers monthly meetings where veterans can discuss these issues among other veterans. Rodgers' organization also offers a number of other programs including toiletry drives with the next two taking place from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. April 3 at Graff Chevrolet and from noon to 3 p.m. April 10 at Sam's Club, both in Mt. Pleasant. The next big event, Light the Path for Suicide Awareness, is scheduled from 5 to 11 p.m. Saturday, June 26 in Shepherd. Rodgers hopes to hold it at the Shepherd High School track but those plans are still pending. It will include individuals creating luminary bags, which will be left along a pathway, then taking 22 laps in remembrance of the 22 veterans who die from suicide each day. Then on Oct. 9 at 8 a.m. Corvette owners from around the state will meet at the Alma Elks Lodge to take veterans on a color tour to Traverse City and back. "It's called Vettes for Vets," Rodgers said. "The way 2020 and 2021 have been there's a need for a stress free day." For more information on Veterans4usa, check out its website at www.veterans4use.com or its Facebook Page. For additional details on the monthly food drives call the Alma VFW at 989-466-5454.

Health/Safety/ Drugs/Alcohol	News	3/3/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	120sec	Restaurants and bars can increase guest capacity and nursing homes have expanded visitation under changes to two state health department epidemic orders. The changes were announced during a press conference by Gov. Gretchen Whitmer. Under the changes, bars and restaurants can now operate at 50 percent capacity, a doubling of what it has been, up to 100 people. The 10 p.m. curfew was changed to 11 p.m. Tables must still be kept six feet away from each other, and no more than six people are allowed at each one. Nursing homes are now permitted visitors if the facility hasn't had a positive COVID-19 test within 14 days and rapid testing indicates that visitors 13 and older aren't infected. She announced the changes based on improvement in three critical metrics: Cases weighted for population, test positivity and hospital capacity. Michigan's cases per 1 million people is currently 91.2, similar to where the state was at the beginning of October, according to a Michigan State Police press release. The percentage of diagnostic tests that return a positive result has 3.7 percent, a slight increase from last week but also close to where the state was in early October. Hospital capacity dedicated to COVID-19 is now at 3.9 percent. Isabella, Gratiot and Clare counties have been better than statewide averages in all three for at least a week. The press release also touted increased vaccine availability. The Food and Drug Administration approved the emergency use of a third vaccine on Monday, this one from Johnson & Johnson. It is a one-shot vaccine that uses weakened adenovirus, a virus not known to cause severe disease in people, to stimulate an immune response. In addition to only requiring one shot, it also doesn't need to be kept in freezers. Tuesday, the administration of Joseph Biden announced that Johnson & Johnson has partnered with Merck, which abandoned its own COVID-19 vaccine program, to manufacture more vaccine doses. That is expected to ramp up availability of the vaccine drastically. Just four new confirmed cases of COVID-19 were reported in Isabella County on Tuesday. Three were in Isabella County, which now has a cumulative total number of 3,576 confirmed cases, with 72 deaths. One new confirmed case was reported in Gratiot County, which now has a cumulative total number of 2,461 cases, with 99 deaths. No deaths were reported in either county. Community Events/ Charities/ Volunteerism	News	1/20/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	120sec	Although it's more than four months away, organizers of the Alma Highland Festival and Games have decided to once again cancel the event due to COVID-19 restrictions. Until 2020, the festival had been held for 52 consecutive years over the Memorial Day weekend. "It is never easy to make decisions that involve removing from our lives something we love and enjoy being a part of," stated a letter signed by the event's six-member executive board and posted on the festival's Facebook page. "Especially with the past year that has taken so much from us." The Highland Festival is one of mid-Michigan's largest events, annually drawing thousands of visitors and competitors from all over the Midwest and Canada. The 2021 festival was scheduled to take place Friday through Sunday, May 28-30. "We strive to put on an incredible event and it takes upwards of $250,000 to make the Alma Highland Festival quality and inviting," the letter went on to say. "After canceling 2020 in March last year we had already spent dollars that we were not able to replace. We knew that making any decision for 2021 was going to have to be done before March of this year because we could not afford to keep losing (money) when no event was happening." "Are we glad to make this decision? No. Are we sure it is the right decision? Yes." The festival takes several months to plan and to secure judges for the various dancing, piping, drumming and other competitions that take place during the event. The decision to cancel had to be made early "knowing the current status of our world still holds us in limbo," the board's letter stated. The festival also plays host to the Midwest Regional Highland Dance Competition. "If Scotland should allow dancing in 2021 we will move forward with making that event happen," board members said. Other highland games throughout the U.S scheduled after Alma's, are already being canceled, they noted. "We know we made the right call," the letter stated. However, that doesn't mean all is lost. "We are dreamers and want to try to do something," the board said. "We have ideas in the works to host a Highland Experience in Scotland U.S.A, that would allow small tastes of what the Alma Highland Festival is all about should restrictions lift and allow us to gather in some capacity." "Know that we are disappointed too. It seems that everything we enjoy is just out of reach and continues to be. Yet the fact remains that if we want the Alma Highland Festival to have any longevity post-

					COVID-19, we need to be fiscally responsible and postpone until we can gather and ensure a quality event that is one worth supporting and continuing for ages to come."For more details or updates go to the festival's website at almahighlandfestival.com or check out its Facebook page.

Pleasant Craft Beer Festival say they are cautiously optimistic the popular downtown event will return this year, but not at its usual time. The fundraiser, and unofficial kick-off to summer, was canceled last year due to COVID-19. If it happens this year, organizers said in a social media post they are "cautiously optimistic" about rescheduling it. Fall was mentioned in the post as a possible alternative date. The festival committee announced their decision to cancel last year's event outright on May 16, but they replaced it with a late year fundraiser that sold apparel with "The Lost Year" written on it. In addition showcasing local beer brewers, the craft beer festival is a fundraiser than benefits a number of local charities. In 2019, it raised $30,000.

Pleasant is projected to close along with other Family Video locations due to the current COVID-19 pandemic. Family Video has provided customers with DVD, Blue-Ray and video game rentals as well as CBD products. Family Video was one of the last large-chain video stores that survived longer than Blockbuster, Movie Gallery, and Hollywood Video with around 800 locations in the country. However, due to complications that have come with the current pandemic, all stores are projected to close. "The impact of COVID-19, not only in foot traffic but also in the lack of movie releases, pushed us to the end of an era," a letter to Family Video customers and employees said. The Family Video in Alma closed a few months ago and the Mt. Pleasant location is currently open, though a 'For Lease/Sale' sign from Legacy Commercial Property is featured in the window of the store .Before Family Videos locations officially close, a liquidation sale is currently going on in order to sell off movies, video games, and CBD products.

He defeated District 5 Commissioner George Bailey, who had held the post for the past five years, by a 3-2 vote. In addition to voting for himself, Murphy also received support from District 2 Commissioner Jan Bunting and new District 4 Commissioner John Lemmermann. District 3 Commissioner Sam Smith and Bailey cast the dissenting votes. Murphy, a paraprofessional for Alma Public Schools and chairman of the county's Republican Party, just completed his first two-year term on the board. Bailey, who previously served 22 years on the Ithaca City Council, including 12 years as mayor, had been board chairman for the past five years. Commissioners also elected Bunting, who is beginning her 11th term and 21st year on the board, as finance committee chairperson, and Lemmermann, who defeated incumbent Democrat Tim Lambrecht in the November general election as both board and finance committee vice chairman. The votes for each of those positions was 3-2, with Murphy, Bunting and Lemmermann voting in favor and Bailey and Smith against. With the defeat of Lambrecht, who was the previous finance committee chairman and had served a total of 10 years as commissioner during two separate stints, the board is now comprised entirely of Republicans. The organizational meeting was held remotely, however, Murphy, Bunting and Lemmermann attended in-person at the commission chambers at the county courthouse in Ithaca, while Bailey and Smith joined via Zoom. The board did vote to continue holding its meetings during 2021 at 4:30 p.m. the first and third Tuesday of each month. Currently residents can participate via Zoom or view meetings later on the commissioner's YouTube channel.

Jobs/Economy/ Business Environment/ Government/ Elections/ Poverty/ Shop Local /Housing	News	1/22/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	60sec	Maybe no businesses in Michigan have been hit harder by COVID-19 restrictions enacted by Gov. Gretchen Whitmer and the state Department of Health and Human Services during the past few months than restaurants and bars. Since mid-March all such establishments have either been relegated to take-out service only, or being allowed to open at limited capacity. Those rules have required owners to become a bit creative in trying to make up for lost revenue. One of those is Dana Saurman, owner of the River Rock Bar & Grill, located at 210 N. Mill St. in downtown St. Louis. After her establishment was once again closed to indoor-dining on Nov. 15, and having those restrictions extended by the DHHS several more times until Feb. 1, she decided to do something to not only increase business but get some of her employees back to work. Saurman's plan was to erect four "little pink houses" behind her restaurant to accommodate outdoor dining, which is permitted under current pandemic restrictions. "We looked at enclosing the patio but couldn't make it compliant," she said. "It would have been difficult to do (with the weather) in Michigan this time of year." Instead, she erected four separate eight-foot by eight-foot igloo-style tents that are heated and can each accommodate up to six people from the same household. Service began this past Saturday and so far the tents have proved to be a hit with customers. "I'm very pleased with the way it's going," Saurman said "It's been very popular. We spend the first hour of every day making reservations."

Jobs/Economy/ Business Environment/ Government/ Elections/ Poverty/ Shop Local /Housing	News	1/28/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	60sec	On Tuesday, news broke that the Pizza Hut chain planned to add Detroit-style pizza to its menu nationwide. Tuesday night, it appeared that one of its restaurants appeared unlikely to ever carry it. All the signage has been removed from the company's restaurant at 1216 S. Mission St., in Mt. Pleasant. When employees were asked about Pizza Hut's fate on Wednesday morning, they deferred inquiries to the owners, Ampex Brands. An email seeking confirmation that the restaurant is closed was sent to an email address on the Facebook page for Ampex Brands. The company's website, which might contain media contact information and a phone number, appears to be largely just a holding page right now. As for Pizza Hut itself, there is no way to directly contact the company, so a Tweet seeking comment was directed at @pizzahut, the company's

					Twitter account. The account responded with a media relations phone number. A call to that number was parked in a voicemail and not answered as of press time. In other cases where corporate-related restaurants appear to abruptly close -- the Ruby Tuesday which ghosted Mt. Pleasant soon after the pandemic started last spring related -- the company's website offers a potential clue. On the feature where you can find a nearby store, the Mt. Pleasant location is still listed but even long into Wednesday afternoon it still says, "STORE CLOSED." Pizza Hut would be the latest in a list of semi-dramatic restaurant closures that started with the pandemic and that involve what were once dining staples in town. Last spring, Inspired Concepts, which filed for Chapter 11 reorganization last January, closed Italian Oven and announced plans to close Ponderosa if a buyer couldn't be located. In its reorganization plan filed last year, they reported permanently closing the place.

Jobs/Economy/ Business Environment/ Government/ Elections/ Poverty/ Shop Local /Housing	News	3/9/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	120sec	Losing a state tax break won't stop a developer from completing work on the historic Wright Mansion in Alma. Recently the city commission voted unanimously to revoke the Obsolete Property Rehabilitation Exemption Certificate granted by the state tax commission in May 2013 for the property located at 503 N. State St. Under terms of the exemption the property tax value was frozen for up to 12 years as long as the building was renovated and restored to commercial use. The developer, Alma native Kurt Wassenaar, had hoped to complete the project by the end of 2013. However, that didn't happen, and because little work has been done during the past seven-plus years city commissioners decided it was time to rescind the tax break. "The City Commission of the City of Alma finds and determines that the completion of the rehabilitation of the subject

					facility has not occurred within the time limit indicated by the City Commission in the resolution approving the Obsolete Property Rehabilitation Certificate," stated the new resolution revoking the tax exemption. Wassenaar, now based in Virginia, purchased the 133-year-old, three-story rundown mansion built by one of Alma's founders, lumber baron Ammi Wright, out of foreclosure in 2012 with the intention of converting it into a 10-room, upscale hotel. Although those plans have not materialized he's not giving up on the project. "The continuation of its tax status would have been helpful if we had applied at a better time, but it really does not alter the feasibility of the renovation or my desire to move ahead," Wassenaar said. "Although the building does not present well, my goal was to stabilize and protect it until an economically feasible plan for its use could be found. We have considered a lot of options and a small guest hotel is still likely one of the best options." He does, however, understand why city commissioners revoked the tax exemption. "It was appropriate since the project was delayed so long," Wassenaar said. "We should have deferred requesting this status until a full development plan was in place and ready to go and we obviously got ahead of ourselves on our original application timing."

Jobs/Economy/ Business Environment/ Government/ Elections/ Poverty/ Shop Local /Housing	News	3/23/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	120sec	Three organizations are seeking input regarding ways they can help retain and attract new businesses to mid-Michigan. Greater Gratiot Development Inc., Clinton County Catalyst and the University Center for Community and Economic Development at the University of Michigan-Flint are gathering information regarding the current needs of area businesses. The online 2021 Business Climate Survey was sent out earlier this month to owners of all types of the businesses and industries in Gratiot and Clinton counties. "It will ask businesses how current programs and agencies are doing in meeting their needs, allowing us to evaluate which programs are working well or which need improvement," GGD Director of Business Development Kasey Zehner said. "For example, one of the largest ongoing needs for businesses is workforce, which is a need that has been seen across the state and beyond. This has been a need for many years but it was further exacerbated by the pandemic. "As a result, many economic development tools at the state and regional levels have been focused on this issue. This included organizing job fairs, providing training assistance and enhancing quality of life in the area to make talent recruitment more likely, to name a few." The survey will allow the agencies to gauge how successful the current programs they provide are and what others may be needed, she added. "Gratiot has many similarities with the rural portion of Clinton County in terms of types of businesses, workforce, demographics, etc." she explained. "So we felt it made sense to work with them and create economies of scale in conducting the survey." The two-part survey asks about demographics, customer base and how various factors impact their businesses. It takes between 10 and 15 minutes to complete. "We recently put out a final push for respondents to complete the survey by early April," Zehner said. "U of M Flint will be compiling the data and I anticipate results will be available sometime in May." She admitted that conducting a survey during a pandemic "has definitely been interesting." "But we feel the timing may be beneficial," Zehner noted. "The pandemic has introduced many of these businesses to assistance from different programs and agencies that they may not have been aware of in the past. Thus, they may be more familiar with many of these programs now than they were before." The survey can be accessed on the Gratiot Development Inc. or Gratiot Area Chamber of

Jobs/Economy/ Business Environment/ Government/ Elections/ Poverty/ Shop Local /Housing	News	3/29/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	120sec	Area disc golf enthusiasts will soon have a new venue to play. The Alma Disc Golf Club is in the process of constructing a course just off Bridge Street behind the city's transportation center at 1105 Willow Run Drive. Work on the $30,000, 18-hole course is due to be completed in late spring or early summer, according to Assistant City Manager Aeric Ripley City officials approved a Revocable Limited Use Agreement for the site last August. It's the same type of deal the city has with the Alma Grand Prix of Cyclocross to hold its annual weekend of bicycle races on a portion of the same property. "The Alma Disc Golf Club raised all of the monies, which included a generous grant from the

					Gratiot County Community Foundation, donations from businesses and individuals," Ripley said. "Within the property use agreement the Alma Disc Golf Club is responsible for all maintenance of the course and their designated parking area. The city has provided the space for the course." The only other disc golf course in Gratiot County is at Reed County Park in North Star Township. "The Alma city commission and the Alma parks committee felt this was an appropriate use of the land until there is a need to develop it for housing," Ripley said. "A disc golf course was a goal within the city of Alma Parks and Recreation Plan. "The major obstacle for this course and all recreational facilities is space, development costs and the ongoing maintenance of the facility. The Alma Disc Golf Club has taken on a great responsibility to develop and maintain the course." The sport is played much like traditional golf, but instead of using clubs to hit a ball into a hole, Frisbee-like discs are thrown into raised metal baskets with chains mounted on poles. Scoring is also similar with players counting the number of throws it takes them to get their discs into the basket. Many courses also have trees, bushes or other obstacles to maneuver around. According to the club's Facebook page each hole on the course will have two tee pads and two baskets, which will allow participants of various skill levels a challenge. The shortest holes range from 217 feet to 880 feet in length, while the longer ones range from 269 feet to 1,005 feet. Each hole has a corporate sponsor. The course, which has been named The Runway DGC in homage to the former airport that was once located on the site, was laid out by professional disc golf course designer Eric McCabe of Kansas. The appeal of the sport is that it can be played by pretty much anyone, from children to senior citizens with no experience necessary. It also requires a minimal amount of equipment with discs starting at about $10 each. Once the course is open it will be free to play, Ripley noted. Although disc golf was once considered somewhat of a niche sport it has grown in popularity. There are now nearly 500 courses in Michigan and more than 6,000 nationwide .For more details or to keep up with the progress of course construction check out the club's Facebook page.

Agriculture/ Environment	News	1/27/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	120sec	Consumers Energy announced Gratiot Farms Wind Project is operational and contributing 150 megawatts of clean, renewable energy to customers in Michigan. "We are excited to have completed construction and bring Gratiot Farms online to serve customers. Each kilowatt we generate from renewable sources such as the wind gets us closer to our Clean Energy Plan goal of a net-zero carbon energy future," said Dennis Dobbs, vice president of enterprise project management, engineering and services for Consumers Energy. "We are committed to be good neighbors in Gratiot County, where our project is providing substantial local tax revenue and well-paying jobs." Gratiot Farms Wind Project went online December 16 and features 60 turbines with a 150-megawatt capacity, enough to power about 58,000 residents. Consumers Energy acquired the project from Enel Green Power America, which started the development of the wind farm. Consumers Energy took ownership and responsibility for completing construction of the project in September 2019. Approximately 250 workers were employed during the construction of Gratiot Farms. A team of 10 highly trained full-time employees will operate the electric generation facility from a newly established service center in Middleton, Michigan, scheduled to be completed by late February. Gratiot Farms represents a $260 million investment in Michigan's clean energy infrastructure. It joins Lake Winds Energy Park in Mason County and Cross Winds Energy Park in Tuscola County as wind energy projects Consumers Energy owns and operates. Combined, the three Consumers Energy wind energy parks produce enough clean, renewable energy to power about 185,600 residents. Officers also found meth on both, highlighting what the Isabella County sheriff called an explosion in the presence of that drug. The 31-year-old Lake man was driving the car when it was spotted by the Mt. Pleasant officer on South Bradley Street. He had a 37-year-old Mt. Pleasant woman with him. The officer recognized him from a Department of Corrections tip after he'd jumped parole. He pulled the Taurus the Lake was driving over on Burch Street, after seeing activity in the front seat. The Lake man was arrested immediately for jumping parole. While the officer was removing him, he saw a cell phone and a hypodermic needle in the car, which the Lake man told him might be dirty with heroin. The Mt. Pleasant woman with him was arrested on a warrant for failing to appear at a court hearing. While searching the vehicle, the officer -- who by this time had been joined by a second -- discovered Zip-loc baggie with methamphetamine in it, and a purse and lockbox. Eventually the woman copped to owning both, and a search of the lockbox uncovered more meth in another Zip-loc baggie and a paper bindle containing a compound of meth and heroin. They also discovered a pipe that, according to the police report, tested positive for meth. The two were arrested for possession of meth, with the woman also arrested for possession of heroin. Local law enforcement has warned of an increased meth problem in Isabella County in recent months. "I can tell you that we have had an explosion of meth, almost everything we are dealing with involves the possession or use of meth the last couple of months," said Isabella County Sheriff Michael Main. The county had its first deaths possibly related to drug use last week. In one, a 22-year-old Howell man was found dead in the city of Mt. Pleasant, said Autume Balcom, spokeswoman for Mt. Pleasant Police Department. The man was discovered by a roommate. The department declined further comment pending the outcome of a toxicology screening, which could take up to six weeks.

Crime	News	1/26/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	120sec	An Isabella County judge heard arguments for whether the city of Mount Pleasant violated the due process rights of one of its applicants for a recreational marijuana license. District Court Judge Eric Janes heard the arguments Friday in a hearing for a lawsuit brought against the city by Cosano, aka Cary Investments LLC. Attorneys for Cosano asked Janes to say that the city violated Cosano's rights to due process and to order the city to not inhibit the company from operating a recreational marijuana. Their argument is similar to one brought by Pure Releaf, the first of the applicants that placed out of the top three to sue the city. The city is accused by both of using an arbitrary scoring system that might have been influenced by a letter that the company that won two of the three licenses sent to the city. Filings in both lawsuits say that while the exact contents of the letter aren't known, members of the city's three-person scoring committee believed the letters might have been veiled threats by Lume. Lume is believed to have hinted at litigation should the city's scoring not go the way Lume wanted. The city ultimately awarded Lume two of its three licenses, which Cosano's attorneys argued in their court filing violated anti-trust laws in giving two-thirds of the local recreational marijuana market to one company. Fire House, of Bay City, was awarded the third license. Pure Releaf placed fourth. Cosano scored near the bottom. Janes told attorneys for both parties that he'll rule soon on Cosano's motion. Earlier this month, he denied a similar request from Releaf. A conference between both parties is scheduled for later this week.

His comments came during what was to be a hearing in which Pitts was expected to request an independent assessment of whether Reid is competent to stand trial. Pitts had asked the court to determine whether Reid was competent; the court found him competent on Feb. 4. Kowalczyk, principal trial attorney for the Isabella County Prosecutor's Office, both told Duthie they felt a deal was likely. Duthie set that conference for 3:15 p.m.

The other was shot twice in the leg and flown to Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids. He was released later in the afternoon. No motive has been identified for the shooting, which took place as a party broke up in the early hours of the morning. During the Sept. 15 preliminary hearing, at which Reid was bound over for trial, a Michigan State Police trooper said that Reid's girlfriend told him that Reid told her that he didn't take his gun to the party to kill anyone, but that it had something to do with a dog shot in the leg. Reid was arrested July 22 and was charged with open murder, assault with intent to commit murder, three counts of felony firearm and possession of a firearm by a felon. An open murder charge means that should a jury find Reid guilty that it would assess degree depending on its finding of the facts.

Reports of an armed man acting irrationally at about 4:30 p.m. prompted state troopers and an Edmore officer to assist in the 9700 block of North Wyman Road, north of Edmore in Montcalm County. "The suspect was firing his weapon near residences and yelling at passing motorists," state police from the Lakeview Post said in a press release. "When troopers and an assisting officer from the Home Township Police Department arrived on scene, (he) fired his weapon at the officers." Crime	News	2/24/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	60sec	A man from the Houghton Lake area lost some $4,000 in a new telephone scam that has prompted a warning from state police. According to a press release from the Michigan State Police (MSP), most scams involve obtaining a victim's personal information under false pretenses or gaining access to their computer or bank information. The scammer usually portrays a sense of urgency, pretending to be an official of a legitimate organization to fool a victim into providing personal information. In a new twist, the suspect contacts the victim advising they have a subscription to something that will be automatically renewed for a couple hundred dollars. When the victim advises they have no subscription or do not want to renew the subscription, the caller tells them they will walk them through cancelling the subscription. The suspect then gets access to the victim's computer by sending them a link to click on and fill out. The suspect now has access to the victim's computer. The MSP Houghton Lake Post reminds residents that scams can take many different forms, and recently two victims of the same scam have contacted the post to make a report. One of the victims was told they were supposed to get a refund of six-hundred dollars and that they were accidentally refunded six-thousand dollars instead. The suspect requested gift cards to refund them the difference. Another victim reported sending $4,000 in gift cards. People can contact their nearest MSP Post if they believe they have been the victim of a scam.

"We just spoke to a resident who received a call from our actual phone number, identifying themselves as the

					Shepherd Police Department," the department said in a social media post. "They requested verification of personal information and then threatened them with arrest if they didn't cooperate." Unlike some scam attempts, the spoofed number may make residents more likely to believe the call is actually from the police. While the scams are not new, the department warned residents to remember: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> •Law Enforcement doesn't inform people they have a warrant over the telephone. •The IRS doesn't work with local law enforcement to arrest those that owe a fake or real debt to them. •The IRS doesn't take iTunes cards, Google Play cards or any other gift cards to collect on a debt. •If you get an automated call from the Social Security Administration saying your SS# has been compromised... that is also a scam. "These individuals will often try to intimidate or scare you into providing your personal information," the department said. "Although it might be fun to 'play their game' your best course of action is to just hang up on them."

Crime	News	3/11/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	60sec	The Clare County Sheriff's Department is looking for help solving thefts that are a part of a growing national trend. Approximately 20 catalytic converters have been stolen in Clare County as of Wednesday, according to a press release from the Clare County's Sheriff Department. The vehicles being targeted include larger trucks, pickups and box van-style. Police agencies

					across the country have reported a growth in thefts of catalytic converters since the state of the COVID-19 pandemic. The reason is that two of the rare earth metals used in them are valuable, two more valuable than gold. As of Wednesday, the price of palladium on international markets was $2,400 per ounce; rhodium was selling for $25,000 an ounce. Gold was $1,718 an ounce. Not all catalytic converters use palladium and rhodium, however. One rare earth metal widely used in catalytic converters is platinum. On Wednesday, it was going for $1,185 an ounce. Isabella County Sheriff Michael Main said his office hasn't handled a reported catalytic converter theft recently."It does occur randomly, typically at the park and rides near the highways," he said. "Seems like a group will travel up and down the expressway and stop at the offramps and steal them." Anyone with information about the thefts in Clare County is asked to call the detective bureau at the sheriff's office at (989)539-7166.
Crime	News	3/18/21	7:30am 8:30am 12:20pm	120sec	A Shepherd woman accused in the November stabbing death of a Mt. Pleasant woman will not face the death penalty, federal prosecutors said in a court filing. Prosecutors on March 2 filed a "notice to not seek the death penalty" against Kaden Elizabeth Gilbert, the 20-year-old accused in a double-stabbing that killed 21-year-old Nangonhs Massey at a Mt. Pleasant apartment."The government will not seek a penalty of death in this case as to Kaden Elizabeth Gilbert," the document filed in the Eastern District Court of Michigan in Bay City said. In another recent filing, prosecutors sought and obtained a court order preventing distribution of any personal medical information regarding Massey or the still-unnamed 22-year-old man injured in the attacks."The government requests an order that counsel for the defendant shall not allow their client, or any other potential witness, to copy or retain any documents that contain personal identifiable information and/or medical records provided by the government in discovery," the request said. Gilbert is accused of murder, two counts of assault with a dangerous weapon, and two counts of felonious assault. Gilbert is held in federal custody under an agreement between her attorneys and federal prosecutors, but has not been officially indicted on the charges. In December, her defense attorney withdrew a request for a psychological evaluation and a federal magistrate added a second attorney because she could have faced the death penalty. A federal magistrate ordered appointment of "learned counsel," a second attorney with expertise in death penalty cases. It is not clear if that attorney will continue on the case now that the death penalty is off the table. Earlier, lead attorney Bryan Sherer sought an evaluation to see if Gilbert is fit to stand trial but later withdrawn the request. Sherer told the court that extensive travel and isolation within the federal prison system could cause harm to Gilbert. Federal Assistant Attorney Roy Kranz opposed skipping the examination and said defense concerns can be addressed by bringing experts to the Isabella County Jail to examine Gilbert, but the court allowed the withdrawal. Both defense and

					prosecutors have cited Gilbert's extensive mental health history, which goes back to childhood and has included recent self-harm and hallucinations while in jail. Gilbert has been jailed since Nov. 16 when police say she stabbed Massey in the thigh with a folding pocket knife, severing her femoral artery. Eyewitnesses told police that Gilbert came to the Oak Street Village Apartments about 2:30 a.m. that day and stabbed both Massey and the 22-year-old man with a knife she had concealed in the sleeve of a sweater. Gilbert is facing federal charges because both of her victims were Native American and the attacks happened within the Isabella Indian Reservation.
