Why home care workers struggle with low wages: With most aging Americans wanting to stay in their own homes, the need for in-home caregivers is skyrocketing. But unlike most other jobs, there's no federal guarantee that these workers get minimum wage or overtime. Special correspondent Kathleen McCleery reports on the challenge of getting care that's reasonably priced while still paying caretakers a living wage.

Hollywood -- it is stamped as a virtual imprint on our imaginations, a celluloid image frozen in time. Judy Garland also had one of the most frequently recorded voices of the last century. She was magic, almost mythical. She is as iconic as she is misunderstood. There were her problems, to be sure, but the proof is in the performances. From "The Wizard of Oz" to the Palladium, from the Oscars to the Grammys. With singular entree to the MGM library, including vaulted screen tests and rehearsal footage, the film is wrapped in Judy's voice, actually telling her story in her own words. So many outsiders have tried to tell this story and so many friends and family have weighed in -- now Judy gets center stage, all to herself. This is her ultimate comeback.

Review the story of a remarkable politician and statesman. James A. Baker III, now 84, helped elect three presidents, served in top posts for two of them and was a central player in momentous events of the late 20th century. With candid testimony from Baker and firsthand accounts from former presidents Clinton, Carter and Bush Sr., former Secretaries of State Rice and Kissinger, former Vice President Cheney, other Washington insiders, journalists and historians, this is an eye-opening story of power, persuasion and diplomacy at the highest levels.

- As White House chief-of-staff he masterminded the Reagan Revolution and got much of Reagan's ambitious agenda through a hostile Congress.
- As Treasury Secretary, Baker negotiated the Tax Reform Act of 1986, a legislative feat no one believed possible in a divided government, and arguably the last time we saw significant tax code revisions all sides could agree on.
- As Secretary of State Baker brought the Cold War in for a soft landing - working with Mikhail Gorbachev and Eduard Shevardnadze to maintain stability in Eastern Europe. Almost simultaneously, he put together the unprecedented coalition of nations to fight the first Gulf War. On the heels of that success, he organized the Madrid Peace Conference bringing Arab nations and Israel to the table for the first time in modern history.

With candid testimony from Baker, and first hand accounts from former presidents Clinton, Carter, and Bush Sr., former Secretaries of State Rice and Kissinger, former Vice president Cheney, as well as a host of other Washington insiders, journalists and historians, THE MAN WHO MADE WASHINGTON WORK is an eye-opening behind-the-scenes story of power, persuasion and diplomacy at the highest levels.

Selma Civil Rights March 50th Anniversary (March 6, 2015): Fifty years ago, civil rights activists organized a march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama to demand the right to vote in that deeply segregated state. When they were violently beaten by police on the Edmund Pettus Bridge, an event now known as Bloody Sunday, many faith leaders were moved to action. "When you saw black and white moving forward to get rid of segregation, get rid of misuse of people, it made a difference in all America," says movement and march organizer Rev. C.T. Vivian, who famously confronted Selma's notorious sheriff, Jim Clark, on the city's courthouse steps.

The American Dream is alive in the Twin Cities, but not for everyone: In the United States, the best cities for making a living are usually the least affordable. Minneapolis-St. Paul has been an exception, thanks in part to progressive laws on education, tax sharing and housing. But even in the Twin Cities, there's a sharp racial inequality gap. Judy Woodruff interviews writer Derek Thompson as part of a collaboration between The Atlantic and the PBS NewsHour.

Selma Civil Rights March 50th Anniversary (March 6, 2015): Fifty years ago, civil rights activists organized a march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama to demand the right to vote in that deeply segregated state. When they were violently beaten by police on the Edmund Pettus Bridge, an event now known as Bloody Sunday, many faith leaders were moved to action. "When you saw black and white moving forward to get rid of segregation, get rid of misuse of people, it made a difference in all America," says movement and march organizer Rev. C.T. Vivian, who famously confronted Selma's notorious sheriff, Jim Clark, on the city's courthouse steps.

DOJ's Ferguson Report; Supreme Court's Obamacare Challenge; Hillary Clinton's Private Emails; Netanyahu's Critical Iran Policy Speech: The Justice Department released a "scathing" report on the systemic racial bias of the Ferguson Police Department. One person has already been fired, but what lasting changes will be made? At the Supreme Court, the justices are once again considering a challenge to the Affordable Care Act. This challenge centers are just 4 words but could impact millions of Americans. Will this be another 5-4 decision? Reuters' Joan Biskupic reports. Plus, Hillary Clinton came under fire this week for exclusively using a private email server during her tenure as secretary of state. What regulations were broken? And why are concerns just now being raised? And LA Times' Doyle McManus reports on Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's speech to a joint session of Congress where he publicly challenged the Obama administration's negotiations with Iran over their nuclear program.

Secret Service Security Breaches, Hillary Clinton's Email Troubles & Political Controversy over Iran Nuclear Negotiations: In the latest embarrassment for the agency tasked with protecting the president, two Secret Service agents are being investigated for driving a vehicle into a White House security barricade while under the influence of alcohol. The agents allegedly drove into an active bomb investigation, nearly missing a suspicious package. The Washington Post's Carol Leonnig details the latest troubles for the Secret Service. Plus, former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton spoke out publicly for the first time about her exclusive use of a private email address and server during her tenure as the nation's top diplomat. Clinton called the decision one of "convenience," but her explanation hasn't calmed her critics. CNN's Jeff Zeleny explains the impact on Clinton's presumed presidential campaign. And 47 Republican senators this week outraged the White House when they circumvented President Obama's foreign policy by reaching out to Iran to warn the regime of agreeing to a nuclear deal. The New York Times' Peter Baker reports on the political controversy.

How African musician Salif Keita went from social outcast to international superstar: Salif Keita is known today as the "golden voice" of Africa, but in his youth he was an outcast, unaccepted by his community because he was born with albinism. Turning to music as an outlet, Keita rose to be one of Mali's biggest stars, bringing traditional African rhythms and instruments to a broader audience. Jeffrey Brown meets Keita and other Malian musicians who blend activism with their art.

Review the story of a remarkable politician and statesman. James A. Baker III, now 84, helped elect three presidents, served in top posts for two of them and was a central player in momentous events of the late 20th century. With candid testimony from Baker and firsthand accounts from former presidents Clinton, Carter and Bush Sr., former Secretaries of State Rice and Kissinger, former Vice President Cheney, other Washington insiders, journalists and historians, this is an eye-opening story of power, persuasion and diplomacy at the highest levels.

- As White House chief-of-staff he masterminded the Reagan Revolution and got much of Reagan's ambitious agenda through a hostile Congress.
- As Treasury Secretary, Baker negotiated the Tax Reform Act of 1986, a legislative feat no one believed possible in a divided government, and arguably the last time we saw significant tax code revisions all sides could agree on.
- As Secretary of State Baker brought the Cold War in for a soft landing - working with Mikhail Gorbachev and Eduard Shevardnadze to maintain stability in Eastern Europe. Almost simultaneously, he put together the unprecedented coalition of nations to fight the first Gulf War. On the heels of that success, he organized the Madrid Peace Conference bringing Arab nations and Israel to the table for the first time in modern history.

With candid testimony from Baker, and first-hand accounts from former presidents Clinton, Carter, and Bush Sr., former Secretaries of State Rice and Kissinger, former Vice president Cheney, as well as a host of other Washington insiders, journalists and historians, THE MAN WHO MADE WASHINGTON WORK is an eye-opening behind-the-scenes story of power, persuasion and diplomacy at the highest levels.

Netanyahu Re-Elected in Israel, Nuclear Talks with Iran, GOP Budget Battles and Big Money in 2016: Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu pulled off a strong victory in his re-election bid this week. POLITICO's Michael Crowley reports on Netanyahu's win and the impact on Palestinian peace talks and Obama's fractured relationship with Netanyahu. Meanwhile, Secretary of State John Kerry continued negotiations with Iran over the nation's nuclear program. With just two weeks left until the deadline, will there be a deal? Will Congress support it? The New York Times' David Sanger reports. Plus, Republicans in Congress are debating a budget proposal. CNBC's John Harwood has the details. And as the 2016 presidential election heats up, candidates are angling for support from key billionaires who could pump millions into the election. How do Republicans Jeb Bush and Scott Walker stack up, and can Democrat Hillary Clinton compete? Bloomberg's Jeanne Cummings shares the numbers.

The Shannon is Ireland's greatest geographical landmark and longest river. It is both a barrier and highway – a silver ribbon holding back the rugged landscapes of the west from the gentler plains to the east. On its journey south, the Shannon passes through a huge palette of rural landscapes, where on little-known backwaters, Ireland's wild animals and plants still thrive as almost nowhere else. For a year, wildlife cameraman Colin Stafford-Johnson lives on the river – camping on its banks, exploring its countless tributaries in a traditional canoe, following the river from dawn to dusk through the four seasons, on a quest to film the natural history of the Shannon as it has never been seen or heard or experienced before.

The search for a "cure" for cancer is the greatest epic in the history of science, spanning centuries and continents. This episode follows that centuries-long search, but centers on the story of Sidney Farber, who, defying conventional wisdom in the late 1940s, introduces the modern era of chemotherapy, eventually galvanizing a "war on cancer." Interwoven with Farber's narrative is the contemporary story of a 14-month-old diagnosed with T-cell acute lymphoblastic leukemia. The film follows her as she and her parents struggle with the many hardships and decisions foisted upon a cancer patient.

This episode picks up the story in the wake of the declaration of a "war on cancer" by Richard Nixon in 1971 and the search for a cure. In the lab, rapid progress is made in understanding the essential nature of the cancer cell, leading to the revolutionary discovery of the genetic basis of cancer, but few new therapies become available. Not until the late 1990s do advances in research begin to translate into more precise targeted therapies with breakthrough drugs. Following the history during these fraught decades, the film intertwines the contemporary story of an oncologist diagnosed with breast cancer. Her emotional and physical struggles provide a bracing counterpoint to the historical narrative.

DOJ's Ferguson Report; Supreme Court's Obamacare Challenge; Hillary Clinton's Private Emails; Netanyahu's Critical Iran Policy Speech: The Justice Department released a "scathing" report on the systemic racial bias of the Ferguson Police Department. One person has already been fired, but what lasting changes will be made? At the Supreme Court, the justices are once again considering a challenge to the Affordable Care Act. This challenge centers are just 4 words but could impact millions of Americans. Will this be another 5-4 decision? Reuters' Joan Biskupic reports. Plus, Hillary Clinton came under fire this week for exclusively using a private email server during her tenure as secretary of state. What regulations were broken? And why are concerns just now being raised? And LA Times' Doyle McManus reports on Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's speech to a joint session of Congress where he publicly challenged the Obama administration's negotiations with Iran over their nuclear program.

Selma Civil Rights March 50th Anniversary (March 6, 2015): Fifty years ago, civil rights activists organized a march from Selma to Montgomery, Alabama to demand the right to vote in that deeply segregated state. When they were violently beaten by police on the Edmund Pettus Bridge, an event now known as Bloody Sunday, many faith leaders were moved to action. "When you saw black and white moving forward to get rid of segregation, get rid of misuse of people, it made a difference in all America," says movement and march organizer Rev. C.T. Vivian, who famously confronted Selma's notorious sheriff, Jim Clark, on the city's courthouse steps.

DOJ's Ferguson Report; Supreme Court's Obamacare Challenge; Hillary Clinton's Private Emails; Netanyahu's Critical Iran Policy Speech: The Justice Department released a "scathing" report on the systemic racial bias of the Ferguson Police Department. One person has already been fired, but what lasting changes will be made? At the Supreme Court, the justices are once again considering a challenge to the Affordable Care Act. This challenge centers are just 4 words but could impact millions of Americans. Will this be another 5-4 decision? Reuters' Joan Biskupic reports. Plus, Hillary Clinton came under fire this week for exclusively using a private email server during her tenure as secretary of state. What regulations were broken? And why are concerns just now being raised? And LA Times' Doyle McManus reports on Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's speech to a joint session of Congress where he publicly challenged the Obama administration's negotiations with Iran over their nuclear program.

Review the story of a remarkable politician and statesman. James A. Baker III, now 84, helped elect three presidents, served in top posts for two of them and was a central player in momentous events of the late 20th century. With candid testimony from Baker and firsthand accounts from former presidents Clinton, Carter and Bush Sr., former Secretaries of State Rice and Kissinger, former Vice President Cheney, other Washington insiders, journalists and historians, this is an eye-opening story of power, persuasion and diplomacy at the highest levels.

- As White House chief-of-staff he masterminded the Reagan Revolution and got much of Reagan's ambitious agenda through a hostile Congress.

- As Treasury Secretary, Baker negotiated the Tax Reform Act of 1986, a legislative feat no one believed possible in a divided government, and arguably the last time we saw significant tax code revisions all sides could agree on.

- As Secretary of State Baker brought the Cold War in for a soft landing - working with Mikhail Gorbachev and Eduard Shevardnadze to maintain stability in Eastern Europe. Almost simultaneously, he put together the unprecedented coalition of nations to fight the first Gulf War. On the heels of that success, he organized the Madrid Peace Conference bringing Arab nations and Israel to the table for the first time in modern history.

With candid testimony from Baker, and first-hand accounts from former presidents Clinton, Carter, and Bush Sr., former Secretaries of State Rice and Kissinger, former Vice president Cheney, as well as a host of other Washington insiders, journalists and historians, THE MAN WHO MADE WASHINGTON WORK is an eye-opening behind-the-scenes story of power, persuasion and diplomacy at the highest levels.

The search for a "cure" for cancer is the greatest epic in the history of science, spanning centuries and continents. This episode follows that centuries-long search, but centers on the story of Sidney Farber, who, defying conventional wisdom in the late 1940s, introduces the modern era of chemotherapy, eventually galvanizing a "war on cancer." Interwoven with Farber's narrative is the contemporary story of a 14-month-old diagnosed with T-cell acute lymphoblastic leukemia. The film follows her as she and her parents struggle with the many hardships and decisions foisted upon a cancer patient.

This episode picks up the story in the wake of the declaration of a "war on cancer" by Richard Nixon in 1971 and the search for a cure. In the lab, rapid progress is made in understanding the essential nature of the cancer cell, leading to the revolutionary discovery of the genetic basis of cancer, but few new therapies become available. Not until the late 1990s do advances in research begin to translate into more precise targeted therapies with breakthrough drugs. Following the history during these fraught decades, the film intertwines the contemporary story of an oncologist diagnosed with breast cancer. Her emotional and physical struggles provide a bracing counterpoint to the historical narrative.

Public health scientists and clinicians tout vaccines as one of the greatest achievements of modern medicine. But for many ordinary Americans vaccines have become controversial. Young parents are concerned at the sheer number of shots--some 26 inoculations for 14 different diseases by age 6--and follow alternative vaccination schedules advocated by gurus like Dr. Robert Sears. Other parents go further. In communities like Ashland, Oregon, up to one-third of parents are choosing not to vaccinate their kids at all. And some advocacy groups, like Generation Rescue, argue that vaccines are no longer a public health miracle but a scourge; they view vaccines as responsible for alarming rises in certain disorders, including ADHD and autism. This is the vaccine war: On one side sits scientific medicine and the public health establishment; on the other a populist coalition of parents, celebrities (like Jenny McCarthy), politicians and activists. It's a war that increasingly takes place on the Internet with both sides using the latest social media tools, including Facebook and Twitter, to win the hearts and minds of the public.

Review the story of a remarkable politician and statesman. James A. Baker III, now 84, helped elect three presidents, served in top posts for two of them and was a central player in momentous events of the late 20th century. With candid testimony from Baker and firsthand accounts from former presidents Clinton, Carter and Bush Sr., former Secretaries of State Rice and Kissinger, former Vice President Cheney, other Washington insiders, journalists and historians, this is an eye-opening story of power, persuasion and diplomacy at the highest levels.

- As White House chief-of-staff he masterminded the Reagan Revolution and got much of Reagan's ambitious agenda through a hostile Congress.
- As Treasury Secretary, Baker negotiated the Tax Reform Act of 1986, a legislative feat no one believed possible in a divided government, and arguably the last time we saw significant tax code revisions all sides could agree on.
- As Secretary of State Baker brought the Cold War in for a soft landing - working with Mikhail Gorbachev and Eduard Shevardnadze to maintain stability in Eastern Europe. Almost simultaneously, he put together the unprecedented coalition of nations to fight the first Gulf War. On the heels of that success, he organized the Madrid Peace Conference bringing Arab nations and Israel to the table for the first time in modern history.

With candid testimony from Baker, and first hand accounts from former presidents Clinton, Carter, and Bush Sr., former Secretaries of State Rice and Kissinger, former Vice president Cheney, as well as a host of other Washington insiders, journalists and historians, THE MAN WHO MADE WASHINGTON WORK is an eye-opening behind-the-scenes story of power, persuasion and diplomacy at the highest levels.

Hollywood -- it is stamped as a virtual imprint on our imaginations, a celluloid image frozen in time. Judy Garland also had one of the most frequently recorded voices of the last century. She was magic, almost mythical. She is as iconic as she is misunderstood. There were her problems, to be sure, but the proof is in the performances. From "The Wizard of Oz" to the Palladium, from the Oscars to the Grammys. With singular entree to the MGM library, including vaulted screen tests and rehearsal footage, the film is wrapped in Judy's voice, actually telling her story in her own words. So many outsiders have tried to tell this story and so many friends and family have weighed in -- now Judy gets center stage, all to herself. This is her ultimate comeback.

Public health scientists and clinicians tout vaccines as one of the greatest achievements of modern medicine. But for many ordinary Americans vaccines have become controversial. Young parents are concerned at the sheer number of shots--some 26 inoculations for 14 different diseases by age 6--and follow alternative vaccination schedules advocated by gurus like Dr. Robert Sears. Other parents go further. In communities like Ashland, Oregon, up to one-third of parents are choosing not to vaccinate their kids at all. And some advocacy groups, like Generation Rescue, argue that vaccines are no longer a public health miracle but a scourge; they view vaccines as responsible for alarming rises in certain disorders, including ADHD and autism. This is the vaccine war: On one side sits scientific medicine and the public health establishment; on the other a populist coalition of parents, celebrities (like Jenny McCarthy), politicians and activists. It's a war that increasingly takes place on the Internet with both sides using the latest social media tools, including Facebook and Twitter, to win the hearts and minds of the public.

When babies die, a disputed diagnosis sends parents to prison for abuse: For decades, when a child appeared in an emergency room with certain symptoms, including bleeding behind the eyes and bleeding around the brain, many doctors assumed violent shaking to be the cause. But in recent years, the Shaken Baby Syndrome diagnosis has come under intense scrutiny, and so have many of the resulting prosecutions and convictions. Special correspondent Jackie Judd reports.

Poet's novel turns young sports lovers into book lovers: How do you get reluctant readers to fall in love with a book? Writer and literacy activist Kwame Alexander says you have to offer them something relatable. In "The Crossover," basketball is the hook to persuade kids to pick up a novel written in poetic verse. Jeffrey Brown sits down with Alexander to discuss his award-winning young adult book.

How the biases in the back of your mind affect how you feel about race: Americans born in the Millennial generation are more likely to say they're not racist and less likely to use racist expressions. But subconscious prejudices still persist. Hari Sreenivasan visits a psychology lab at New York University, where researchers test subjects' instinct and decision-making to learn more about these implicit biases.
