

ISSUES AND PROGRAM REPORT FOR

STATION KGMZ FM & KGMZ FM HD1 (and all streams associated with these signals)

1st QUARTER, 2024 (January – March 2024)

Prepared by: Tim Jordan, Operations Manager Audacy San Francisco

PUBLIC AFFAIRS PROGRAMS

KGMZ FM PROGRAMS THAT ADDRESS COMMUNITY ISSUES

KCBS In Depth

Sundays at 6am and 6:30am. Locally-produced commercial-free half-hour news interview program produced by KCBS staff with various authors, professors, public officials, and community organizations regarding issues of local and national concern. Show produced by KCBS News San Francisco and hosted by Mary Hughes.

ISSUES OF CONCERN TO THE SAN FRANCISCO BAY AREA ADDRESSED IN RESPONSIVE PROGRAMMING IN THE 1st Quarter, 2024

Taking A Closer Look At Fentanyl And Its Rise As One Of The Deadliest Drugs.

A Large Source Of Ca's Water Is At Its Lowest Level In A Decade: The Effects On The State

As The Anniversary Of Roe V Wade Nears, Reproductive Rights Remain A Hot Topic -Legally And Politically.

Looking At The 2024 Political Landscape, In California And Beyond.

What's Being Done About California's Housing Crisis?

Looking At The Transgender Experience, In The Bay Area And Beyond.

What Is The State Of Immigration In The United States?

Reparations: Digging Into Family History Lead Two People On The Past To Right A History Of Wrongs.

Destigmatizing Mental Health Conversations Amongst Loved Ones.

Struggles Continue When It Comes To Universities, Museums Returning Native Remains To Tribes.

Eyes Are Turning To Professional Women's Sports Here In The Bay Area.

How Ready Is California For An Electric Vehicle Future?

QUARTERLY ISSUES/PROGRAMS REPORT

1st Quarter 2024 (January - March 2024)

MOST SIGNIFICANT ISSUE-RESPONSIVE PROGRAMMING

ISSUE: Eyes are turning to professional women's sports here in the Bay Area

KCBS In Depth (replay from 12/31/23)

Jan 7, 2024 6:00am 30 Minutes

Being a sports fan and being a woman is not always the easiest road to walk. Although there have been countless teams to pull for, and an endless parade of superstars to be in awe of, for a lot of women that meant watching men, and only men play. Now, that doesn't mean that women were not involved in sports. In the world of college basketball, women took to the court for the first intercollegiate women's basketball game, right here in the bay area. Stanford vs UC

Berkeley in 1896, and around that same time in 1895, the British

Lady's Football Club played their first match in London. So the fact is, women have always been in the sports universe, but compared to their male counterparts, they've always been more in the shadows. But there has been progress along the way with more eyes turning to women's pro sports teams, and that turns us to 2023. A year that has shown that the appetite for womens sports is growing, and in particular, growing here in the Bay Area.

For more on this, KBS Radio's Mary Hughes spoke with Rita Liberti, Professor of sport history in the department of kinesthesiology at Cal State East Bay.

ISSUE: Taking A Closer Look At Fentanyl And Its Rise As One Of The Deadliest Drugs

KCBS In Depth

Jan 7, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

In 2022 a report by the Stanford Lancet Commission stated that "the opioid crisis stands out as one of the most devastating public health disasters of the 21st century in the United States and Canada."

Not much has occurred since then to shift that belief, the opioid crisis, involving fentanyl in particular, continues to dominate our conversations. The end of 2023 saw over 750 drug overdose deaths in San Francisco alone, with fentanyl making up more than 81% of those deaths.

So, how did we get here? How did fentanyl take over the drug market and become so devastating to so many?

For a closer look at all this, KCBS's Mary Hughes is joined by Sam Quinones, freelance journalist and author of books about the opioid epidemic. His most recent book is The Least of Us: True Tales of America and Hope in the Time of Fentanyl and Meth

ISSUE: Taking A Closer Look At Fentanyl And Its Rise As One Of The Deadliest Drugs

KCBS In Depth (replay from 1/7/24)

Jan 14, 2024 6:00am 30 Minutes

In 2022 a report by the Stanford Lancet Commission stated that "the opioid crisis stands out as one of the most devastating public health disasters of the 21st century in the United States and Canada."

Not much has occurred since then to shift that belief, the opioid crisis, involving fentanyl in particular, continues to dominate our conversations. The end of 2023 saw over 750 drug overdose deaths in San Francisco alone, with fentanyl making up more than 81% of those deaths.

So, how did we get here? How did fentanyl take over the drug market and become so devastating to so many?

For a closer look at all this, KCBS's Mary Hughes is joined by Sam Quinones, freelance journalist and author of books about the opioid epidemic. His most recent book is The Least of Us: True Tales of America and Hope in the Time of Fentanyl and Meth ISSUE: A Large Source Of Ca's Water Is At Its Lowest Level In A Decade: The Effects On The State

KCBS In Depth

Jan 14, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

Depending on where you grew up, your conversations concerning snow might not be that different. But with every winter that blew through the East Coast, I always heard the same thing as each year went by... There always used to be more snow in the winter time. Now that's a phrase that people are hearing and saying more often. It's become especially worrisome in the western part of the United States where snow fall seems to have stalled out.

Our first look at the Sierra-Nevada snowpack in 2024, which is the source of ½ of the state's water supply, revealed that it is at its lowest level in a decade... and its consequences of the lack of snow can be dire.

For a closer look, KCBS Radio's Mary Hughes spoke with Dr. Andrew Schwartz, lead scientist at the UC Berkeley Central Sierra Snow Laboratory.

ISSUE: A Large Source Of Ca's Water Is At Its Lowest Level In A Decade: The Effects On The State

KCBS In Depth (replay from 1/14/24)

Jan 21, 2024 6:00am 30 Minutes

Depending on where you grew up, your conversations concerning snow might not be that different. But with every winter that blew through the East Coast, I always heard the same thing as each year went by... There always used to be more snow in the winter time. Now that's a phrase that people are hearing and saying more often. It's become especially worrisome in the western part of the United States where snow fall seems to have stalled out.

Our first look at the Sierra-Nevada snowpack in 2024, which is the source of ½ of the state's water supply, revealed that it is at its lowest level in a decade... and its consequences of the lack of snow can be dire.

For a closer look, KCBS Radio's Mary Hughes spoke with Dr. Andrew Schwartz, lead scientist at the UC Berkeley Central Sierra Snow Laboratory.

ISSUE: As The Anniversary Of Roe V Wade Nears, Reproductive Rights Remain A Hot Topic -Legally And Politically

KCBS In Depth

Jan 21, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

January 22nd will mark the 51st anniversary of Roe vs Wade... where the Supreme Court issued a 7–2 decision in favor of "Jane Roe" in 1973... saying that women in the United States had a fundamental right to choose whether to have abortions without excessive government restriction...

But all that changed in 2022... with the overturning of Roe vs Wade... declaring that the constitutional right to abortion, upheld for nearly a half century, no longer exists...

Now, the conversation about reproductive rights is being had on all levels... federally, in every state... and on the political stage as well...

ISSUE: As The Anniversary Of Roe V Wade Nears, Reproductive Rights Remain A Hot Topic -Legally And Politically

KCBS In Depth (replay from 1/21/24)

Jan 28, 2024 6:00am 30 Minutes

January 22nd will mark the 51st anniversary of Roe vs Wade... where the Supreme Court issued a 7–2 decision in favor of "Jane Roe" in 1973... saying that women in the United States had a fundamental right to choose whether to have abortions without excessive government restriction...

But all that changed in 2022... with the overturning of Roe vs Wade... declaring that the constitutional right to abortion, upheld for nearly a half century, no longer exists...

Now, the conversation about reproductive rights is being had on all levels... federally, in every state... and on the political stage as well...

ISSUE: Looking At The 2024 Political Landscape, In California And Beyond

KCBS In Depth

Jan 28, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

Perhaps you've noticed this when you listen to or watch the news, or as you check various sources online but 2024 already feels like a pivotal year for politics...

There's a presidential election looming which, at this point, appears very reminiscent of 2020 with a possible rematch between President Joe Biden... and former president Donald Trump...

Here in California, we have the race for the late Dianne Feinstein's senate seat... where who wins... and who loses... could set the tone for years to come...

We're going to take a look at the political landscape... in the golden state... and beyond... and even into the future... with David McCuan, professor of political science at Sonoma State University...

ISSUE: Looking At The 2024 Political Landscape, In California And Beyond

KCBS In Depth (replay from 1/28/24)

Feb 4, 2024 6:00am 30 Minutes

Perhaps you've noticed this when you listen to or watch the news, or as you check various sources online but 2024 already feels like a pivotal year for politics...

There's a presidential election looming which, at this point, appears very reminiscent of 2020 with a possible rematch between President Joe Biden... and former president Donald Trump...

Here in California, we have the race for the late Dianne Feinstein's senate seat... where who wins... and who loses... could set the tone for years to come...

We're going to take a look at the political landscape... in the golden state... and beyond... and even into the future... with David McCuan, professor of political science at Sonoma State University...

ISSUE: What's Being Done About California's Housing Crisis?

KCBS In Depth

February 4, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

A recent report from Harvard's Joint Center for Housing Studies found that over 650,000 people reported experiencing homelessness in America in January of 2023, up nearly 50% from 2015...

Even if the numbers are staggering, hearing this probably isn't a huge shock... Here in California, the housing crisis has long been an issue... with rents going higher and higher... and not enough affordable options to go around... there's even been an exodus of people leaving the state, hoping to find solid ground on which to have a place to call home...

So, what's being done about this crisis? Where do we stand on a state level - and on a local one?

We're going to turn first to Chris Martin... policy director for Housing California, a statewide advocacy nonprofit focused on the production and preservation of affordable housing and addressing homelessness...

To see how the state works with local governments... and vice versa... we turn to Sarah Karlinsky, Research Director at SPUR... the San Francisco Bay Area Planning and Urban Research Association, a nonprofit public policy organization...

ISSUE: What's Being Done About California's Housing Crisis?

KCBS In Depth (replay from 2/4/24)

February 11, 2024 6:00am 30 Minutes

A recent report from Harvard's Joint Center for Housing Studies found that over 650,000 people reported experiencing homelessness in America in January of 2023, up nearly 50% from 2015...

Even if the numbers are staggering, hearing this probably isn't a huge shock... Here in California, the housing crisis has long been an issue... with rents going higher and higher... and not enough affordable options to go around... there's even been an exodus of people leaving the state, hoping to find solid ground on which to have a place to call home...

So, what's being done about this crisis? Where do we stand on a state level - and on a local one?

We're going to turn first to Chris Martin... policy director for Housing California, a statewide advocacy nonprofit focused on the production and preservation of affordable housing and addressing homelessness...

To see how the state works with local governments... and vice versa... we turn to Sarah Karlinsky, Research Director at SPUR... the San Francisco Bay Area Planning and Urban Research Association, a nonprofit public policy organization...

ISSUE: Looking At The Transgender Experience, In The Bay Area And Beyond

KCBS In Depth

February 11, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

After almost two years of data gathering, the National Center for Transgender Equality recently released the largest-ever survey on the experiences in those in the trans community...looking at everything from satisfaction and support...to the spaces where discrimination and fear are still being felt...

So...what is the state of things for the transgender person in America? And is life any better - or worse - in the Bay Area?

We're going to take a broad view with Mike White... who works with the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, one of the primary funders of the U.S. Transgender Survey 2022...

And for a look closer to home, we'll speak with Honey Mahogany... chair of the San Francisco Democratic Party, district director for Assemblymember Matt Haney...and co-owner of the Stud bar in San Francisco...

ISSUE: Looking At The Transgender Experience, In The Bay Area And Beyond

KCBS In Depth (replay from 2/11/24)

February 18, 2024 6:00am 30 Minutes

After almost two years of data gathering, the National Center for Transgender Equality recently released the largest-ever survey on the experiences in those in the trans community...looking at everything from satisfaction and support...to the spaces where discrimination and fear are still being felt...

So...what is the state of things for the transgender person in America? And is life any better - or worse - in the Bay Area?

We're going to take a broad view with Mike White... who works with the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, one of the primary funders of the U.S. Transgender Survey 2022...

And for a look closer to home, we'll speak with Honey Mahogany... chair of the San Francisco Democratic Party, district director for Assemblymember Matt Haney...and co-owner of the Stud bar in San Francisco...

ISSUE: What Is The State Of Immigration In The United States?

KCBS In Depth

February 18, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

It's been more than week since the bipartisan $118 billion dollar border and national security bill stalled out in the Senate... Most of the GOP opposed the bill, saying that legislation wasn't going to do enough to address needs at the U.S-Mexico border... there were some Democrats who voted to block the bill as well...

With this bill now standing still, the possibility of huge changes to U.S. immigration policy seem to be out of reach...

To take a closer look at where things went wrong with this bill and at the state of immigration reform, we're speaking with Bill Hing, professor of law and migration studies

ISSUE: What Is The State Of Immigration In The United States?

KCBS In Depth (replay from 2/18/24)

February 25, 2024 6:00am 30 Minutes

It's been more than week since the bipartisan $118 billion dollar border and national security bill stalled out in the Senate... Most of the GOP opposed the bill, saying that legislation wasn't going to do enough to address needs at the U.S-Mexico border... there were some Democrats who voted to block the bill as well...

With this bill now standing still, the possibility of huge changes to U.S. immigration policy seem to be out of reach...

To take a closer look at where things went wrong with this bill and at the state of immigration reform, we're speaking with Bill Hing, professor of law and migration studies ISSUE: Reparations: Digging Into Family History Lead Two People On The Past To Right A History Of Wrongs

KCBS In Depth

February 25, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

How much do any of us know about our family's past? If we dig deep enough, what might be unearthed? For Randy Quarterman and Sara Eisner, living thousands of miles apart, what was discovered was an intimate history that binds them together, a history of enslavement in the United States. But what would happen if these two people took on this painful past and worked together to make things right in the present.

To answer that question, KCBS Radio's Mary Hughes spoke with Randy Quarterman, fifth generation descendant of Zeke Quarterman, and Sara Eisner, fifth generation descendant of George Adam Keller. They are the founders of the Quarterman-Keller

Foundation and the Reparations Project. They are also both part of the documentary, "the Cost of Inheritance"

ISSUE: Reparations: Digging Into Family History Lead Two People On The Past To Right A History Of Wrongs

KCBS In Depth (replay from 2/25/24)

March 3, 2024 6:00am 30 Minutes

How much do any of us know about our family's past? If we dig deep enough, what might be unearthed? For Randy Quarterman and Sara Eisner, living thousands of miles apart, what was discovered was an intimate history that binds them together, a history of enslavement in the United States. But what would happen if these two people took on this painful past and worked together to make things right in the present.

To answer that question, KCBS Radio's Mary Hughes spoke with Randy Quarterman, fifth generation descendant of Zeke Quarterman, and Sara Eisner, fifth generation descendant of George Adam Keller. They are the founders of the Quarterman-Keller

ISSUE: Destigmatizing Mental Health Conversations Amongst Loved Ones

KCBS In Depth

March 3, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

When we see someone who may be struggling, we often worry that saying the wrong thing or saying anything may make matters worse with that person, so very often we end up saying nothing.

We'll hear more about reaching out and how to have that conversation with some friends from the American Foundation for Suicide Prevetion to hear a little bit more about their campaign, "Talk Away the Dark."

ISSUE: Destigmatizing mental health conversations amongst loved ones

KCBS In Depth(replay from 3/3/24)

March 10, 2024 6:00am 30 Minutes

When we see someone who may be struggling, we often worry that saying the wrong thing or saying anything may make matters worse with that person, so very often we end up saying nothing.

We'll hear more about reaching out and how to have that conversation with some friends from the American Foundation for Suicide Prevetion to hear a little bit more about their campaign, "Talk Away the Dark."

ISSUE: Struggles Continue When It Comes To Universities, Museums Returning Native Remains To Tribes

KCBS In Depth

March 10, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

Over three decades ago, the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act was created... This act requires institutions that receive federal funding... such as museums and universities... to return human remains, sacred objects, and other items of cultural significance to federally recognized tribes...

However... even now, in 2024... the struggle continues when it comes to the return of ancestral remains and revered belongings. This slowness in repatriation can be found across the country... and here in the Bay Area as well...

So... why is it taking so long to comply with these rules?

For a broader look at all this, we're going to start the conversation off with Logan Jaffe, newsletter reporter at Pro Publica... she worked on the news organization's Repatriation Project

And then we turn to Kerri Malloy... assistant professor of Native American and Indigenous Studies at San Jose State University... He is an enrolled member of the Yurok tribe and is of Karuk descent...

ISSUE: Struggles Continue When It Comes To Universities, Museums Returning Native Remains To Tribes

KCBS In Depth(replay from 3/10/24)

March 17, 2024 6:00 a.m. 30 Minutes

Over three decades ago, the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act was created... This act requires institutions that receive federal funding... such as museums and universities... to return human remains, sacred objects, and other items of cultural significance to federally recognized tribes...

However... even now, in 2024... the struggle continues when it comes to the return of ancestral remains and revered belongings. This slowness in repatriation can be found across the country... and here in the Bay Area as well...

So... why is it taking so long to comply with these rules?

For a broader look at all this, we're going to start the conversation off with Logan Jaffe, newsletter reporter at Pro Publica... she worked on the news organization's Repatriation Project

And then we turn to Kerri Malloy... assistant professor of Native American and Indigenous Studies at San Jose State University... He is an enrolled member of the Yurok tribe and is of Karuk descent...

ISSUE: How Ready Is California For An Electric Vehicle Future?

KCBS In Depth

March 17, 2024 6:30 a.m. 30Minutes

A recent New York Times article did a deep dive into where the shift to electric vehicles is the strongest and it probably comes as no surprise to KCBS listeners that California - and in particular, the Bay Area - is the primary force behind seeing more EVs on the road.

Data shows that electric cars, trucks and S.U.V.s made up almost 40 percent of new auto registrations in the San Jose area last year and about 34 percent in San Francisco.

But with a ban on new gas-powered vehicle sales in California happening in 2035, how ready is the state for a full on EV revolution?

We'll start our conversation with James Bushnell, professor in the department of economics at UC Davis. Before joining UC Davis, he spent 15 years as the Research Director of the University of California Energy Institute at Berkeley. He has also advised the California Air Resources Board on emissions trading and other climate policies.

And we'll also turn to Carleen Cullen, founder and executive director of Cool the Earth, as well as Ride and Drive Clean - a collaborative campaign to rapidly accelerate the switch to zero-emission vehicles. She's based in Marin County.

ISSUE: How Ready Is California For An Electric Vehicle Future?

KCBS In Depth (replay from 3/17/24)

March 24, 2024 6:00am 30 Minutes

A recent New York Times article did a deep dive into where the shift to electric vehicles is the strongest and it probably comes as no surprise to KCBS listeners that California - and in particular, the Bay Area - is the primary force behind seeing more EVs on the road.

Data shows that electric cars, trucks and S.U.V.s made up almost 40 percent of new auto registrations in the San Jose area last year and about 34 percent in San Francisco.

But with a ban on new gas-powered vehicle sales in California happening in 2035, how ready is the state for a full on EV revolution?

We'll start our conversation with James Bushnell, professor in the department of economics at UC Davis. Before joining UC Davis, he spent 15 years as the Research Director of the University of California Energy Institute at Berkeley. He has also advised the California Air Resources Board on emissions trading and other climate policies.

And we'll also turn to Carleen Cullen, founder and executive director of Cool the Earth, as well as Ride and Drive Clean - a collaborative campaign to rapidly accelerate the switch to zero-emission vehicles. She's based in Marin County.

ISSUE: I'm Listening: Men, Military, And Mental Health

KCBS In Depth

March 24, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

On this episode of In Depth, we turn to Audacy's I'm Listening: Talk Away the Dark, a limited series where conversations cover grief, loss, and suicide. Audacy's David Glover will be speaking about men and mental health with Victor Armstrong, vice president of health equity and engagement for the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention and Steve Sipel, longtime AFSP volunteer and advocate. Then David will talk about mental well-being and the military with Alex Silva, AFSP expert and veteran; Dan Miller, Wounded Warrior project guest and marine corps veteran; and Dr. Aaron Fletcher, Wounded Warrior project clinical expert.

ISSUE: I'm Listening: Men, Military, and Mental Health

KCBS In Depth (replay from 3/24/24)

March 31, 2023 6:00am 30 Minutes

On this episode of In Depth, we turn to Audacy's I'm Listening: Talk Away the Dark, a limited series where conversations cover grief, loss, and suicide. Audacy's David Glover will be speaking about men and mental health with Victor Armstrong, vice president of health equity and engagement for the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention and Steve Sipel, longtime AFSP volunteer and advocate. Then David will talk about mental well-being and the military with Alex Silva, AFSP expert and veteran; Dan Miller, Wounded Warrior project guest and marine corps veteran; and Dr. Aaron Fletcher, Wounded Warrior project clinical expert.

ISSUE: The Hidden Costs Of "Greening" Inner Cities.

KCBS In Depth

March 31, 2024 6:30am 30 Minutes

Green gentrification -- what is it? In this in-depth, KCBS's Mary Hughes looks at this version of displacement that's being seen in parts of San Francisco like the Bayview and Hunters Point.

A SAMPLING OF PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENTS AIRED ON STATION KGMZ FM & KGMZ FM HD1

1

(And all streams associated with those signals)
DURING THE 1st QUARTER 2024

ORGANIZATION/EVENT

Audacy's "One Thing"

Audacy's "I'm Listening"

Alzheimer's Association

American Cancer Society

Bay Area Food Banks

Breast Cancer Awareness

Buzzed Driving Prevention

Cancer Prevention

Childhood Immunization

Glide Memorial Food Bank

Guide Dogs for the Blind

Habitat for Humanity

HIV-AIDS

Hunger Prevention

Legion of Honor

Meals on Wheels

San Francisco Legion of Honor

The DeYoung Museum

The Jefferson Awards- KCBS/KPIX TV

The Marin Humane Society

The San Francisco SPCA

United Way

We Can Survive

Oakland First