REPORT

2022: First Quarter

Special Programs During Quarter 1:

NEWS SERVICE:

Traverse Talks (NWPB Podcast) 30-minute edited-for-air episodes aired Saturdays at 6 p.m. on the News service during Quarter 1. Occasional excerpts of about 4 minutes also aired on both the News and Classical services. Traverse Talks episodes are interviews with prominent people. They talk about stories about and from the Northwest, such as poets, authors, professors, and so on.

The news service (and Classical Simulcast) featured more local stories than ever before after the addition of a News Director and a few new reporters. Note: below in report, “ATC” and “ME” are simulcast meaning the item aired both Classical and News. Any stories outside of ATC or ME are only on News. “Midday” is News Only from 9AM to 12PM.

“NWPB” means local NWPB-only reporters, paid through the station directly. “N3” means “Northwest News Network”, a regionally journalism collaborative. “AP” means “Associated Press”, which is a nationally distributed news collaborative.

Live special coverage from NPR was also aired about the war in Ukraine and the Supreme Court Justice Nominee committee hearings.

CLASSICAL SERVICE:

On the Classical service (and occasionally on the News service during Simulcast), 2-to-4-minute pieces about underrepresented classical musicians and composers, particularly black and women musicians and composers. This is part of a continuing series of 2-to-4-minute pieces of music history and inspiration called “Music Moments”.

The Classical service has also provided the region with a program called “Sound of 13” in Quarter 1, which focuses on the 13th amendment through music exploration.

For Valentine’s Day, on-air music requests and dedications from listeners were aired.

There was a Women’s History Month special on March 25th and 27th “Homeward Sound” – featuring women composers.
