

WWAC 1020AM ISSUES & PROGRAMS

October-November-December, 2022 4th Quarter

By Enrico S. Brancadora, Licensee

All Issues and Programs were aired during this quarter and aired on the stations during all 18 hours of our 24 hour daily clocks. Full spectrum radio issues items were gleaned from phone calls, texts, emails and faxes from listeners regarding issues of primary importance.

OCTOBER-2022

October 5th, 6th and 7th, WWAC-AM conducted a listener survey and call in requests regarding the increasing violence and crime being reported in Atlantic City, Wildwood and Vineland. We interviewed Mayor Marty Small of Atlantic City, addressing the police protection plans his city has introduced. This program, and the following programs were aired at 5:55am, and 5:55pm and their length was 3:23, 2:43 and 2:18. One October, 11th and 12th, WWAC-AM produced a full spectrum Issues program on drug deterrence issues in Somers Point and Hamilton Townships. Our interviews aired at 7:57am and 10:58pm. They included interviews with the Mayor of Hamilton, Charles Cain, and the Mayor of Somers Point, Jack Glasser. Program lengths were 3:18 and 3:29 respectively on those dates.

On October 26th and 27th, we featured a two part series on the inherent dangers of legalization of marijuana and the impact on school children in North Wildwood and Galloway. Listeners strongly encouraged us to expand our coverage of the damaging effects of the pot use among kids and what it means for the educational process. These programs were 3:22 and 3:43 in length and aired at 8:45am and 8:55pm respectively.

In addition to these timely Issues packages, we aired 1488 minutes of public affairs airtime devoted to education and wellness issues, 2 sixty seconds each hour, every hour. Additionally, Our Issues programming included Veterans affairs Gold Star Moms programs 2 hours each week, Saturdays at 2pm with out Director of Veterans Affairs Joe Griffes.

NOVEMBER - 2022

November 2nd and 3rd, WWAC-AM Issues focused on the upcoming General Elections in South Jersey. Paramount to our coverage was listener driven interest in voter integrity and honesty in the Tuesday Generals. We featured a two part series with Lynn Caterson, The Chair of the Atlantic County Board of Elections, and a dual interview with her counterpart, Rita Rothberg, the Clerk in Cape May. In these lengthy interview, both espoused the integrity of the voting process. These interviews were 4:22 and 4:25 each and aired at 5:55am and 6:55pm. They were also streamed on our WIBG.com website. November 13th and 24th, we did a complete rundown on the voter turn out by municipalities, and how Republicans and Democrats fared in the past election. We also interviewed Senator Vince Polistina on the growing and sometimes controversial debate between he and Mayor Marty Small on the execution of governance in Atlantic City.

The sometimes heated exchange on plans to govern lead the Mayor to proclaim that he remains committed to building out the Atlantic City Police Department and bringing it up to its required 325 person staff. November 17th, 18th and 8th, WWAC-AM interviewed Rick Dovey, the Executive Director of the ACUA on new electric powered vehicles in their fleet. WIBG broadcast live from their Egg harbor Township headquarters during the Demonstration runs this week. Rebroadcasts were heard at 7:58am and 11:55pm, and their lengths were 3:22 and 3:02.

November 24th and 25th , WWAC-AM Issues focused on growing homeless population in Vineland and Atlantic City. We interviewed several homeless people now moving to shelters at the Atlantic City Rescue Mission. Its Director

Bill Warner provided answers to questions relating to the home less needs. The programs aired at 6:35am and 10:42pm those respective dates. November 28th and 29th, WWAC-AM Issues programming heralded the new development program for Atlantic Citys Bader Field. Additionally interviews with City councilman Jesse Kurtz and George Tibbit on the memorandum of understanding being discussed by the city to get these programs moving forward. Public Affairs programming for this month, included 1,534 minutes of sixty second Public Service airtime, plus 19 hours of Veterans affairs issues programming on Saturday afternoons with Director of Veterans Affairs Joe Griffes. These programs represent the best two way Issues communications between veterans and the general public.

DECEMBER- 2022

December 2nd, 3rd and 4th , WWAC-AM Issues programming lead the month was a three part series on Ocean Citys plans for new pumping stations around the Island. There are several incoming plans to include new water lines and sewer lines along Bay Avenue. Ocean City Councilman Bobby Barr was featured on these interviews. Additionally, plans to run generator power lines from Oersted Wind generating facility off the coast to the BL England power plant in Upper Township has raised the ire of many residents. We hosted a series of panelists on this subject, fielding calls from listeners.

December 7th, WWAC Listeners suggested we honored the brave men who lost their lives during the attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941. These interviews were developed by our Director of Military and Veterans Arrairs Joe Griffes who assembled several Gold Star families who understood the horrors of battle, plus a 97 year of WWI military Veteran who described that hellish day

The programs aired at 4:33pm and 11:33pm that day.

December 10th and 11th, the growing danger of substance abuse in Galloway is our latest Issues program for this month. In it. Mayor Anthony Coppolla outlines his five point master plan for bringing the issue under control. Copolla says the problem is more widrspead than at had first been believed, bu the growing fentnyl issue is darkening the horizon for many high schooler here. The reports aired at 3:48am and 3:55pm on th. Public Affairs programming for this month, included 1,654 minutes of sixty second Public Service airtime, plus 17 hours of Veterans affairs issues programming on Saturday afternoons with Director of Veterans Affairs Joe Griffes. These programs represent the best two way Issues communications between veterans and the general public on those days respectively