Title: Our Race Reality: Breaking the Ice

Issue: Minority/Ethnic

Description of program:

Hosted by FOX 29 Reporter Bill Anderson, this special takes an in-depth look at impact today's athletes have in speaking out and protesting against racism and injustice. While those protests have been going on for years, this time things are different, as sports like hockey, with minimal athletes of color, have joined the stand against racism. The discussion and the movement has also expanded into non-traditional sports. "Our Race Reality: Breaking The Ice" explores how hockey and other sports are contributing to diversity and if that diversity is necessary to improve communities and promote equality. We spoke to professional athletes, coaches and young men and women about what sports means to their community and if these sports truly are helping to Break The Ice.

Title: Our Race Reality: Behind the Lens

Issue: Minority/Ethnic

Description of program:

Hosted by FOX 29 photo journalist Sergio Cruel, this special will take viewers on a behind-the-scenes journey into the communities of Philadelphia where neighbors are forced to live with gun violence. Sergio and fellow photo journalist Starling Underwood hold candid interviews with neighbors, including one person who admitted to pulling the trigger in a shooting. Neighbors also give their perspectives on gun violence being a result of poverty, a lack of mental health care access and other community resources. Sergio and Starling also speak with community members who are doing what they can to prevent gun violence. From those who admit to committing crimes, to victims of violence, hear the candid stories shared with Starling and Sergio, from people in the city who say they are simply trying to survive.

Title: Our Race Reality: A Portrait For Justice

Issue: Minority/Ethnic

Description of program:

An emotional and inspirational look at how artists are expressing the feelings of millions through their paintings, sculpture and music. We explore the conversation of racism in our society, the social unrest, and the unique ways people are telling the story of these experiences through art. We look at how art is being used to inspire people- and how we are learning from art what words may not be able to express. Photojournalist Mike Greenidge and host Alex Holley explore this important topic in this half hour special report.
