Community Issue- Make a Difference in a Child's Life Month: July was National Make a Difference in a Child's Life Month. Around the world, children are suffering. They are facing an extreme lack of healthcare, food, school supplies, and more. Some of them have never even experienced life without the daily struggle to survive. While we adults have a responsibility to care for children every day of every month, many times, some responsibilities go undone without supplying the extra nourishment and attention that children need for a positive well-being. July is a special time for recognizing both their immediate needs and future aspirations. We reached out to local after school programs and recreation centers to explain how they contribute to the overall well-being of our children.

Community Issue- National Water Quality Awareness Month: National Water Quality Awareness Month is in August, and reminds us to take a long, hard look at what our household and community is doing to protect sources of fresh water. By August, summer is just about over and school starts back, so families within our local community can take the time to focus on what's important by protecting their family, by having clean water. While each household cannot produce enough pollution to affect a local ecosystem, many households together can, thus bringing the need to educate the community about the importance of water quality awareness.
