

Quarterly Issues Programs List

WFPG/Atlantic City, NJ; WENJ/Millville, NJ; WSJO/Egg Harbor City, NJ; WPUR/Atlantic City, NJ

January 1 – March 31, 2021

Section 1. - Issues

A. Economy.

The COVID-19 pandemic has hit New Jersey particularly hard, which has impacted the economy in the Atlantic City region, especially since it relies heavily on casinos and tourism. How COVID-19 is handled, including the roll-out of vaccines, will have major impacts on the economy of our region.

B. Climate change.

In a coastal area like Atlantic City, climate change, and more importantly rising sea levels, are of great concern. Some portions of our area now experience significant coastal flooding from relatively minor coastal storms. How this issue is dealt with over the next several decades will, one way or another, have major impacts on the economy and everyday life in Southern New Jersey.

C. Education.

Dozens of school districts in the greater Atlantic City region have been holding classes during this school year remotely, however, as vaccines become more readily available, schools are beginning to reopen for in-person learning. How technology has played a role in learning lately will continue to impact the future of education.

D. COVID-19's impact on community.

COVID-19 has had a major impact on local communities – everything from retail stores closing, empty shopping malls, a reduction in tax revenue for local municipalities, and even emptier office buildings as more people continue to work from home. Are people beginning to reimagine what their neighborhoods should look like?

E. Children and youth sports.

With no professional or semi-professional sports teams to speak of in Atlantic City, the focus shifts to youth and high school sports in our region, which has been made more difficult over the past year due to COVID-19. How children handle the fun of playing sports combined with the pressures of the 'new normal' is a growing concern.

SEGMENT 1:	THE TULSA RACE MASSACRE	Time	Dur.
Synopsis:	In the early 1900's, the Greenwood District in Tulsa, Oklahoma was commonly referred to as the 'Black Wall Street'. It was a predominantly African American town that was booming due to the nearby discovery of oil. It was a wonderful place to live, work and raise a family – but that all changed on May 31, 1921. In a matter of hours, the town was burnt to ashes and it's estimated that up to 300 people were murdered. Historian Scott Ellsworth tells the largely untold story of the 1921 Tulsa Race Massacre.	1:47	10:25
Host:	Gary Price

SEGMENT 1:	A SHIFTING SUBURBIA: THE IMPACT OF COVID-19	Time	Dur.
Synopsis:	Congested roads. Crumbling parking lots. Vacant strip malls. These are some of the challenges that suburbs across the country are facing today. What to do with the vacant retail and office space? How do you make people less dependent on cars and more active? Architect June Williamson is a proponent of mixed-use developments that create more efficient suburbia. This vision creates a 15-minute suburb where basic amenities and activities are walkable, and spaces bring people together rather than dividing them with large, empty lawns, lots, and physical structures.	1:47	8:39
Host:	Gary Price

CULTURE CRASH:	WATCHING PERFORMANCE ART FROM YOUR SOFA	Time	Dur.
Synopsis:	Before the pandemic there weren't so many concerts, theatre performances and other arts available to watch from your living room TV. While the last eleven months have been tough on the industry, it's allowed more people to gain access to shows that they otherwise couldn't afford or travel to. Take Hamilton for instance. We discuss some of our favorite picks available to stream now.	23:16	3:11
Host:	Evan Rook
Issues Covered:	theatre, culture, streaming, art

SEGMENT 2:                      WORKING WITHIN THE OIL SECTOR                      Time      Dur.

Synopsis:                      The oil and gas industry employs millions of workers. In 2018, 6.7 million Americans worked within the traditional energy sector. Yet, when we often hear about the industry, it's entangled in political and environmental news. Rarely does it look at the workers themselves and the challenging and physical barriers of the job. In 2013, Michael Patrick Smith moved from Brooklyn, New York to Williston, North Dakota to work as an oil swamper. He joins us this week on Viewpoints.                      12:35      9:05

Host:                      Marty Peterson

Guests:                      Michael Patrick Smith, writer, author, A Good Hand: A Memoir of Work, Brotherhood and Transformation in an American Boomtown.
