SUBJECT: House of the Setting Sun

Discussion: Justin with House of the Setting Sun joins Logan Scott in the studio today to talk about their annual haunted house. Follow the pumpkins to 1313 Screaming Hollow Road. They're back at it again every Friday and Saturday in October from 7:30 – 11:30pm. Price for admittance is $15 per person and for their new escape room it is $5 per person. They have everything you need to liven up your boring weekend with pictures, refreshments, souvenirs, music, and of course the promise to scare. Back by popular demand, black out nights. This is where they turn all the lights off in the house and give each group one glow stick while they walk through in complete darkness. Every year they start thinking about what they're going to do next year right after the current year is over. They start setting up every Sunday from 1-6pm starting in April or March. They are a nonprofit organization, and the proceeds go to Community Involvement for Kids. Seniors in high school can donate 100 hours of their time and receive a $100 scholarship. Alongside that, the money also goes back into the community with things like streetlights and local Fire Departments. If anyone wants to get involved, they will need to just message the Facebook page "House of the Setting Sun" and they will find a spot for you.

SUBJECT: Until all their Voices are Heard, 5k run and 1k walk

Discussion: Today we are joined in the studios by Melissa Arnold to talk about “Until all their Voices are Heard a 5k run and 1k walk.” All the proceeds go to help support the Crisis Center. Since the pandemic at home violence has gotten worse and the Crisis Center has been cut 2/3rds this past year. Melissa decided that as an advocate to try and give back to the Crisis Center with hopes to help stop the violence. No matter how much money they earn, this event is here to raise awareness for the Crisis Center. The event is Saturday, October 15th and registration starts at 7:30am with the race itself starting at 9am with a $20 registration fee. There will be metals for first, second, and third place for the 1k walk. There will also be first place male and first place female plaques for the 5k run. The event will be held at the West Virginia Death and Blind school on the field back where the Caboose is, the address is 301 East Main Street in Romney, and there is plenty of parking opposite of the field. Besides the entry fee, they are also collecting person hygiene products at the event. With those donated items they hope to be able to make small care packages for people who need to leave their home in a hurry. For more information check them out on Facebook at “Run until our voices are heard.”

SUBJECT: She Kills Monsters

Discussion: Today we are joined in the studio by Director Kaitlynn from the Embassy Theater. The show they are putting on soon is called "She Kills Monsters," the Embassy's first ever fight show. The show follows a girl named Agnus who losses her whole family in a car accident. So, as she is moving through the grief, she finds her sisters old Dungeons and Dragon's campaign. She decides to take it to a nerdy kid at the comic bookstore to try and figure out what it is about. We learn throughout the story that she spends the show playing through her sisters' old campaign and learns a lot about her younger sister along the way. Throughout the story the audience gets to see sword fighting, monsters, and cool costumes. Starting Friday Oct 21st for only two weekends; the Friday and Saturday show are at 8pm and the Sunday showing is at 2pm. You can order tickets online or call the theater, $14 for students and seniors while adult tickets are $15. The Embassy theater is one of the oldest theaters in the area that use to be a movie theater. They want the theater to be a place for local community members like people who have done theater before as well as people who want to try it out for the first time. A place where people can come and express themselves and can have the opportunity to be in a show or work behind the scenes. Proceeds go towards funding for future shows. You can find them on Facebook at Embassy Theater or at their Embassy Theater website.

SUBJECT: Western Maryland Food Council

Discussion: DATE: Theresa Stahl joins us in the studio to talk about the Western Maryland Food Council. Western Maryland Food Council is a group of diverse stake holders in our food system like farmers, vendors, community workers with the idea to sustain the environmental, economic, social, and nutritional health of western Maryland. They also help with a Buy Local project in Allegany County. It is a local initiative intended to make it easier for people to find and buy locally sourced farm products. The project is assisted by the University of Maryland extension, Garret County Business Development, and funded by Grants from the Maryland agriculture council and western Maryland food council. The pandemic has opened our eyes to see that our grocery shelves will not always have what we want or need. Their goal is to strengthen the local community with food so that when it is needed, it is available. Buying local has many benefits for consumers: Buying food while it's in season tastes better, helps save on gas, you support local businesses, keeps us healthier, more nutritious, get plenty of vitamins and minerals, and it also makes you feel better. To find out more about Western Maryland Food Council or Buy Local you can check out their websites at WMDFoodCouncil.com and BuyLocalAllegany.org.

SUBJECT: Burlington United Methodist Foster Family Service

Discussion: Today we are joined in the studio by Crystal Haggerty, Burlington united Methodist family services foster care home evaluator. They are looking for foster families. To be a foster parent: it takes a lot of skill to provide care for a child in a vulnerable time in their lives. They need people who can create a safe stable temporary place for them to call home. Be their safety net by adding an extra member to your family. What are some qualifications? Must be 18 years or older, nurturing, patient, good morals, adequate finances prior and during, pass a background check, home evaluated for health and safety, income is not a requirement, don't have to be married, good physical standings, adequate space with furniture, pass an interview, and will need to take a training. To find out more go to www.bumss.org, open the foster care tab, and scroll down to where there in an inquiry link. This link will help filter through people from the county and area to help best match foster families.

SUBJECT: Allegany Animal Shelter

Discussion: Amy is joined today by Tina Rosa with the Allegany Animal Shelter. They are always in need of volunteers whether it be at their front desk, kitchen, dog walkers, or building maintenance, they could always use the help. The shelter accepts donations like dog food, cat food, treats, toys, bedding, used towels, used blankets, leashes, office supplies, and always cash. They very much encourage anyone who can to come out and adopt because they are full of cats and almost full of dogs. There are programs for students off all ages to come out and read to the animals, spend some quality time with the animals, and help enrich their environment. Students can also come to their cat room and study with the cats/ hang out with the cats. The shelter also has this lovely program called "Hounds Around Town". This is basically where you would "check out" one of their dogs and can take them anywhere. Go for a walk, take them home for a while, or even buy them ice cream; it is a way to get a better idea of the personality of the dogs. If you want to become a volunteer, you can either stop by the shelter or go online to AlleganyAnimalShelter.org where they have an online application.

SUBJECT: New Life Bible Camp

Discussion: Today we are joined by Chris from New Life Bible Camp. New Life Bible Camp began in year 1971 in Buffalo Mills PA as an independent camp governed by a board of directors. Their objective is to share god's word, provide a place for discipleship, and to provide a safe, fun, and healthy environment filled with activities for young people. There is a total of four different camp programs that they provide. Adventure camp: an outdoor rustic program, Kanos: a residential program, Day camp: every day from 9-6, and Sumer camp: a few weeks out of the summer for kids. If you are an active member, they also have year-round trips and different events to attend. What are the benefits to camp? It's an opportunity to away from the stress of life, allows kids to be in nature and explore Gods' creation, learn new things, build a community, develop lifelong friendships, and create fond memories. Coming soon is their "Turkey Event". If you like football come out Saturday November 19th, build a team, have a fun time playing flag football. It starts at 9am, $8 a player up to 25$ max per family. If you have a child that doesn't want to play, there's plenty of other activities as well. TO find more go to NewLifeBibleCamp.com or visit them on Facebook.

SUBJECT: Mineral County Family Network Food Drive & Toys for Joys

Discussion: Dayle Harvey is here in the studio from Mineral County Family Network. “The Voice of Woman” selected MCFN as their charity of choice to help benefit families for them to send Thanksgiving meals. Many families that fall under their radar are not able to get meals during the year let alone during the holidays. The drop off end date is the 22nd of December. They also have “Toys for Joys”. This program allows community members to refer families who need Christmas. MCFN recruits “secret Santa’s” to shop for a family. The secret Santa is encouraged to use a purchase preference list, but they are not limited to the list. They ask everyone to have these items dropped of by December 14th. For more information on Toys for Joys call 304-788-9009 and for the Food Drive call 304-790-7081.

SUBJECT: Toys for Happiness

Discussion: We are joined today by Chuck from Toys for Happiness. Chuck wanted to let us know about the last Spirit night of the year being December 1st. Starting next year as well as this year, they will continue to have their Toys for Happiness family next the first Thursday of every month from 5-8pm at Roy Rogers in Cumberland. Those who want to participate can either go inside or at the drive though. You would only need to mention you're there for the family night and Toys for Happiness would get a percentage of the sales. Throughout the rest of the year Toys for Happiness does raffles and discount cards. If someone would like to apply, they would need to go to their website, under applications, and once the application has been filled out, if there are no issues, then it is good to go. If you want any more information, you can call Chuck at 240-727-0962, go to their Facebook page, or their website at Toys4Happiness.com.

SUBJECT: Lights on the Lake

Discussion: Kirra Shilling the president of Western Maryland JC's is in the studio to talk with us about Rocky Gap State Parks "Lights on the Lake". They are very grateful to get to do this for their second year in a row. This year it takes place 16th-18th and then the 22nd – 24th from 5:30-9:30pm. The display is a drive through display, so bring the family, the kids, and even your pets. They love seeing the dogs look at the lights. Donations are accepted and appreciated; they help go towards the display growing as well as getting to do it every year. While you're there to visit, stop by and take a walk through the Hawk's nest and get some Queen City Creamery hot chocolate. To find out more check out their Facebook at "Lights on the Lake" or the Western Maryland JC Facebook page and you can also check out their website at wmdjc.org.

SUBJECT: Events in the Tri-State

Discussion: As we bring in the new year, we want to let everyone know about the plentiful events in our area. If you live in the Cumberland area you can dispose your Christmas tree at the Mulch Yard Recycling Site, all throughout the month of January. For Frostburg, for two days out of the month the city will be doing a curbside pickup for all Christmas trees if they are not flocked. There are a lot of opportunities to donate blood in our area just visit AmericanRedCross.com to find local areas as well as sign up for an appointment. In Frostburg there is a Children's Clothes Closet where kids can swing by and pick up clothes for free. There will be a band benefit for Dave Broadwater and the Cumberland Outdoor Club. The Cumberland Library is having a My Mini Mart event; this is an event where the kids get to do the shopping with help thanks to the Western Maryland Food Bank. Frostburg is hosting their 5th annual Cocoa Crawl, an event that lets people enjoy the small businesses of Frostburg with some hot cocoa and sweet treats. Lastly an all you can eat wing dinner at the Short Gap VFD; all proceeds go to the fire company.
