Pam shared her story of growing up in a family with an alcoholic father and how this impacted her life as well as her siblings and mother. Peggy explained that when the marital relationship splits, it's a trauma. And then the thinking part of the woman's brain goes offline and into trauma mode. And trauma mode is fight, flight, freeze, or please. In that, you're reacting, you're not responding, and there's no way to get out of that except to have someone either help you or walk through some steps or something where you can finally trigger your brain to come back online and start thinking again.

ISSUE 8: PARENTING STRONG WILLED CHILDREN

PROGRAM TITLE: Focus on the Family

PROGRAM SOURCE: Focus on The Family, Colorado Springs, Colorado

PROGRAM DATE, TIME, AND DURATION: February 20th and 21st 9:30 AM/PM, 30 minutes.

PROGRAM HOST: Jim Daly and John Fuller

PROGRAM GUEST: SPEAKER: Cynthia Tobias, educator and author.

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION: Cynthia began by noting that many times a mother can tell that even when the child is in the womb, they may be strong-willed. Most, however, can tell by the time the child is 18 months old. At that time, parents can see some patterns emerging, and it's not negative. A strong will in and of itself is very positive, and you want all your kids to have a certain amount of strong will, but how you guide it, how you direct it, is crucial. She shared examples of how she as a mom is strong willed and the many encounters she had dealing with her strong-willed child. She also cited examples of the importance of authority to strong willed children and the best ways to communicate that. Each child wants a bit of control and it's important that the child know that he or she has some, but not total at their young ages.

Meanwhile, Josh was convinced by God that divorce was wrong and he needed to love Katie as Christ loves the Church, which meant pushing through the pain and hoping against hope to rescue his marriage. They created the acronym S.T.A.Y.- S is start with me, T is taking quitting off the table. A is allowing others to be a part of your story. Y is yield to vision, and that's about building a desired future together, having agreement as to where you are headed with the marriage.
