Note: On October 12, 2013, the closing credits for "Lazytown" inadvertently included a fleeting (one-half second) display of the URL for a web site (www.lazytown.com) that did not conform to the FCC's commercial limits rules for web site displays in children's programming. Even though the display of the URL was fleeting, and therefore barely discernible by viewers, it is possible that the FCC would consider this a violation of the commercial limits rules.

The NBC Network takes precautions to avoid any potential violations of the FCC's web site rules. Specifically, each episode of the "NBC Kids" Saturday morning E/I block is reviewed by Sprout, whose policy is to remove all URLs from program materials. In this case, however, the display of the URL in the closing credits was so fleeting it was missed during the review process. The NBC Network is working with Sprout to develop and implement additional procedures to minimize the possibility of a re-occurrence of this isolated incident.

I certify that the above information is true and valid as of January 9, 2014.
