KMGV MORNING SHOW: Interviews on the KMGV morning show with representatives of community groups covering issues of concern and interest to the Valley. Dates, times, and subjects are listed under pertinent issue headings.

KMGV PUBLIC SERVICE ANNOUNCEMENTS: :30 & :60 second recorded or live announcements scheduled to run 7 days a week at various times during the day for the entire 1st quarter. If the announcements covered a significant issue of concern to the Valley and ran for a significant amount of time, it is listed under the pertinent issues heading with details. A complete list of these and all other PSAs broadcast during the third quarter can be found in the public service announcement list included with this report.

CRIME

A TOTAL OF 1 HOUR & 24 MINUTES DEVOTED TO THE TOPIC DURING THE 1st QUARTER.

MEGA MORNING SHOW

CRIMESTOPPERS MINUTE WITH SHERIFF MARGARET MIMMS

2 minute segment airing at 7:35am every Tuesday from January 8th, 2019 to March 26th, 2019. Total of 24 minutes.

Crimestoppers Minute is a segment that airs on the KMGV morning show every Tuesday with Fresno County Sheriff Margaret Mimms highlighting a particular crime/criminal with details about the event, suspects, rewards, and how to get in touch with authorities.

COMMONWEALTH CLUB

Sunday, February 3rd, 2019.

6am to 7am. 60 minutes of a 60 minute program. No commercials

The Business of Prison

Shane Bauer-Senior Reporter, Mother Jones

Judge LaDoris Hazzard Cordell (Ret.)-Chair, Santa Clara County Jail Commission

In 2014, Mother Jones journalist Shane Bauer made national headlines when he went not-so-undercover as a guard at Winn Correctional Center, a private prison in Louisiana. He used his real name, and due to lack of any real background checks, remained employed for four months. In that short time, Bauer witnessed firsthand the horrific conditions both prisoners and guards faced at the hands of the billion-dollar private prison industry and wrote an exposé that became Mother Jones' most read piece of all time. He argues that the private prison system is rarely held accountable for the atrocities that happen quietly within its concrete walls.

Join Bauer as he discusses his unique experience, the for-profit prison industry's past and present in American history, and the state of justice at that intersection of our legal system, capitalism and mass incarceration.

ANIMALS

TOTAL OF 1 HOUR & 5 MINUTES DEVOTED TO THE TOPIC DURING THE 1ST QUARTER.

KMGV MORNING SHOW

"Wednesday Waggers"

Humane Education volunteers, CCSPCA

January 2nd, 2019 - March 27th, 2019. 5 minute in-studio interview Wednesday mornings at 8:35am, 65 minutes of airtime total in the quarter.

Volunteers from the Central California SPCA bring in one of the shelters "adoptables" Wednesday mornings to introduce them to the Mega audience and encourage people to save animals by adopting rather than buying their pets. They also offer valuable information on spaying, neutering, fostering animals, education and training classes, and more. KMGV also features "Wednesday Waggers" on the Mega website- mega979.com.

POLITICS

A TOTAL OF 4 HOURS DEVOTED TO THE TOPIC DURING THE 1st QUARTER.

COMMONWEALTH CLUB

Sunday, January 6th, 2019.

6am to 7am. 60 minutes of a 60 minute program. No commercials

The Corrosion of Conservatism

Max Boot-Senior Fellow, Council on Foreign Relations; Columnist, The Washington Post; Author, The Corrosion of Conservatism: Why I Left the Right

In Conversation with Marisa Lagos-Political Reporter, KQED

When Donald Trump announced his presidential bid in 2015, conservative historian Max Boot couldn't help but think he was watching a dystopian science-fiction movie. He couldn't fathom that the party of Lincoln, Roosevelt and Reagan could endorse a reality TV star with no prior political experience and a laundry list of controversies.

This created an ideological dislocation so shattering that Boot's transformation from Republican foreign policy adviser to celebrated anti-Trump columnist is the dramatic story of his new book, The Corrosion of Conservatism.

After joining other prominent conservatives such as David Frum, Rick Wilson and Ana Navarro in denouncing Trump's candidacy and subsequent presidency, Boot left the Republican Party. No longer a Republican, but also not a Democrat, Boot's journey from a movement conservative to a man without a party is one worth hearing about. While 90 percent of his fellow Republicans endorsed President Trump's agenda in the aftermath of the 2016 election, Boot stood his ground, enduring the criticism of conservative colleagues.

Join us for this important conversation about a party at a never-ending crossroads and the movement by people such as Max Boot to reclaim the Republican Party in the name of conservative fiscal and national security principles.

COMMONWEALTH CLUB

Sunday, January 20th, 2019.

6am to 7am. 60 minutes of a 60 minute program. No commercials

For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Politics

Donna Brazile-Democratic Political Strategist and Commentator; Adjunct Professor, Georgetown University; Former Interim Chair, the Democratic Party; Author, Hacks and Cooking with Grease; Co-author, For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Politics

Yolanda Caraway-Founder, President and CEO, The Caraway Group; Co-author, For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Politics

The Rev. Leah Daughtry-Pastor; Organizer; Political Strategist; CEO, 2008 and 2016 Democratic National Conventions; Co-author, For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Politics

Minyon Moore-Partner, Dewey Square Group; Former CEO, the Democratic National Committee; Assistant to the President, Clinton Administration; Director, the White House Office of Public Liaison; Director, White House Political Affairs; Co-author, For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Politics

Judge LaDoris Hazzard Cordell (Ret.)-Moderator

Donna Brazile, Yolanda Caraway, Leah Daughtry and Minyon Moore have worked behind the scenes of some of the country's most influential and historic presidential campaigns in history, all four beginning their careers with the Rev. Jesse Jackson and eventually working with the likes of Bill Clinton, Al Gore, Barack Obama and, most recently, Hillary Rodham Clinton. Together they form a political supergroup they like to call "The Colored Girls," and, like many other women of color in politics, they are unsung heroes of public service who have dedicated their lives to demanding diversity in American politics.

Brazile, Caraway, Daughtry and Moore paved the way for many women and people of color currently in the political arena, and they will visit The Commonwealth Club on the heels of an exciting midterm election where the topic of diversity was at the forefront. Join us as the four women discuss For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Politics, their new book, which chronicles their incredible stories, sheds light on their successes and offers insight on the many hurdles they faced in getting there.

COMMONWEALTH CLUB

Sunday, February 24th, 2019.

6am to 7am. 60 minutes of a 60 minute program. No commercials

President Trump and Power Politics

Chris Christie-Former Governor, New Jersey (2010–2018); Author, Let Me Finish: Trump, the Kushners, Bannon, New Jersey, and the Power of In-Your-Face Politics

Bill Whalen-Research Fellow, Hoover Institution

As President Trump enters his third year in office, former New Jersey governor Chris Christie remains one of his closest political allies. The first major elected official to endorse then-candidate Trump, Christie had a ringside seat throughout the hectic 2016 campaign. Christie was even close to becoming Trump's running mate. Days after Trump's surprise victory, Trump fired Christie as head of his transition team. Recently, Christie almost became Trump's White House chief of staff but pulled out, saying now is not the right time for him to join the White House.

In his new book, Let Me Finish, the brash former Republican prosecutor discusses running a Democratic state, his 15-year relationship with Trump, what he saw during the 2016 campaign and how his removal from the transition all but guaranteed chaos at the beginning of the Trump presidency.

COMMONWEALTH CLUB

Sunday, March 24th, 2019.

6am to 7am. 60 minutes of a 60 minute program. No commercials

Howard Schultz, Former CEO of Starbucks

Howard Schultz-Former CEO and Chairman, Starbucks; Author, From the Ground Up: A Journey to Reimagine the Promise of America

From the start of his career, former Starbucks CEO Howard Schultz has always been an unconventional businessman. With health insurance and free college tuition for part-time baristas to controversial initiatives about race and refugees, Schultz and his team challenge old notions about the role of business in society.

In his new book, From the Ground Up, Schultz tackles some of America's most important and divisive issues. Schultz introduces a cross-section of Americans transforming common struggles into shared successes. He discusses inspirational stories about lost youth finding first jobs, post-9/11 warriors replacing lost limbs with indomitable spirit, former coal miners and opioid addicts paving fresh paths, entrepreneurs jump-starting dreams, and better angels emerging from all corners of the country.

IMMIGRATION

A TOTAL OF 1 HOUR DEVOTED TO THE TOPIC DURING THE 1st QUARTER.

COMMONWEALTH CLUB

Sunday, January 13th, 2019.

6am to 7am. 60 minutes of a 60 minute program. No commercials

Undocumented Citizen

Jose Antonio Vargas-Founder and CEO, Define American; Author, Dear America: Notes of an Undocumented Citizen; Journalist

In Conversation with Raj Mathai-News Anchor, NBC Bay Area

In Jose Antonio Vargas' own words, his story as an undocumented citizen is "only one of an estimated 11 million in the United States." While the details differ, they all have common threads—a feeling of homelessness in place you call home and the ever-looming fear of an uncertain future. Vargas argues that the psychological trauma attached to those experiences is often felt for generations.

Join the Pulitzer Prize-winning writer as he chronicles his journey in becoming arguably the most recognizable undocumented figure in the United States and how he also became the voice of those displaced by a highly hostile, anti-immigrant culture. He will also offer insight into the everyday life of those living on the fringes of a society that does not welcome them and the unwavering spirit and generosity that perseveres in that community.

THE HOUSING CRISIS

A TOTAL OF 1 HOUR DEVOTED TO THE TOPIC DURING THE 1st QUARTER

COMMONWEALTH CLUB

Sunday, February 10th, 2019.

New Solutions to the Housing Crisis

Pastor Paul Bains-President and Co-Founder, Project WeHOPE

Fred Blackwell-CEO, San Francisco Foundation

Priscilla Chan, M.D.-Co-Founder, Chan Zuckerberg Initiative

Janet Liang-President, Kaiser Permanente of Northern California

Jennifer Martinez, Ph.D.-Chief Strategy Officer, PICO California

Erika Aguilar-Housing Reporter, KQED—Moderator

There's no doubt about it: The San Francisco Bay Area is in the midst of a housing crisis. But while people may disagree about the root causes, the costs or the most promising legislation, there's one thing everyone agrees on: The only hope of solving it is through monumental multi-sector collaboration.

Join the San Francisco Foundation, the Chan Zuckerberg Initiative, the Ford Foundation, Local Initiatives Support Corporation, corporate leaders and housing advocates for a conversation about bold solutions, hosted at The Commonwealth Club.

This event will also celebrate the launch of an exciting new effort to build a more livable, inclusive and vibrant Bay Area. Come learn how a diverse array of partners will protect up to 175,000 households and preserve and produce more than 8,000 homes over the next 5–10 years. The time for incremental change is over.

Bank of America/Merrill Lynch Walter E. Hoadley Annual Economic Forecast

Brad DeLong, Ph.D.-Professor of Economics, UC Berkeley; Former U.S. Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for Economic Policy Under President Bill Clinton

Stephen Moore-Chief Economist, Heritage Foundation; Former Economic Adviser to Donald Trump; Former Member, The Wall Street Journal Editorial Board; Author, Trumponomics

David Batstone-Professor of Entrepreneurship and Innovation, University of San Francisco School of Management—Moderator

With changes to taxes, trade wars with China and other countries, health care in flux, housing prices continuing to rise, continued governmental gridlock as well as international challenges to the United States, what does all of this mean for your business, your investments and the overall economy for 2019?

As deputy assistant secretary for economic policy at the U.S. Treasury from 1993 to 1995, Brad DeLong worked in conjunction with Treasury Secretary Lawrence Summers on the Clinton administration's budget, the North American Free Trade Agreement, macroeconomic policy and health care reform. In addition to serving as a professor of economics at UC Berkeley, DeLong is a research associate of the National Bureau of Economic Research, a weblogger at the Washington Center for Equitable Growth and a fellow of the Institute for New Economic Thinking. He previously taught economics at Harvard University, where he received his doctorate in economics, as well as at Boston University and MIT.

Stephen Moore served as senior economic adviser to Donald Trump during the 2016 campaign, where he focused on tax reform, regulatory reform and energy policy. With more than 30 years of experience as an economist, Moore focuses on the impact of government on business and analyzes shifts in the global economy. In addition to his role at Heritage, Moore serves as senior economic analyst at CNN. Previously, he served as a senior economist at the United States Congress Joint Economic Committee and as a senior economics fellow at the Cato Institute. He advised the National Economic Commission in 1987 and served as a research director for President Reagan's Commission on Privatization.

Join us for a lively discussion on where the United States and global economies are headed and what should be done to keep them on track.

Inside the Facebook Catastrophe

Roger McNamee-Silicon Valley Investor; Co-Founder, Elevation Partners; Technical Advisor, "Silicon Valley"; Author, Zucked (Forthcoming))

John Markoff-Research Affiliate, Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences, Stanford University; Staff Historian, Computer History Museum; Contributor, The New York Times—Moderator

If you had told Bay Area technology investor Roger McNamee even three years ago that he would soon be devoting himself to stopping Facebook from destroying our democracy, he would have howled with laughter. He had mentored many tech leaders in his illustrious career, but few things had made him prouder, or had been better for his own bottom line, than helping Mark Zuckerberg, the founder of the world's largest social network. Still a large shareholder in Zuckerberg's creation, McNamee had every good reason to stay on the sidelines as the dark side of Facebook came to light. But he couldn't stay quiet.

McNamee's new book, Zucked, is about the outspoken investor's efforts to come to terms with the serious damage Facebook was doing to our society. McNamee set out to try to change the massive social network and other tech companies that use design tools to addict and manipulate its users. With the election of Donald Trump, and the emergence of one horrific piece of news after another about the malign ends to which the Facebook platform has been put, McNamee has dedicated his energies to have people understand the threat of Facebook and other social networks. He will discuss what we can do to hold the companies responsible and to protect our public health and political order.

Please join us for this important and timely discussion with one of Silicon Valley's most important and outspoken leaders.

Why We Need to Talk About Climate Change

Katharine Hayhoe-Associate Professor, Public Administration Program, Texas Tech University

Noah Diffenbaugh-Professor and Senior Fellow, Woods Institute for the Environment, Stanford University

Greg Dalton-Founder and Host, Climate One

Join us in presenting Katharine Hayhoe with the eighth annual Stephen Schneider award. Established in honor of Stephen Henry Schneider, one of the founding fathers of climatology who died suddenly in 2010, the $15,000 award recognizes a natural or social scientist who has made extraordinary scientific contributions and communicated that knowledge to a broad public in a clear and compelling fashion.

“For many years, Katharine Hayhoe has been a unique voice in the climate communication world. With her patience, her empathy and her abiding Christian faith, she has been able to reach audiences that other climate scientists have not been able to reach,” says juror Naomi Oreskes, professor of the history of science at Harvard University.

Hayhoe will be joined by fellow scientist Noah Diffenbaugh, professor and senior fellow at the Woods Institute for the Environment at Stanford University. They will be in conversation on communicating climate change in a transparent, engaging and accessible manner.

Andrew McCabe, Former Deputy Director of the FBI

Andrew McCabe-Former Deputy Director, FBI; Author, The Threat: How the FBI Protects America in the Age of Terror and Trump

Audrey Cooper-Editor in Chief, San Francisco Chronicle

On March 16, 2018, just 26 hours before his scheduled retirement, FBI Deputy Director Andrew McCabe was fired by then Attorney General Jeff Sessions. President Donald Trump celebrated on Twitter, saying: "Andrew McCabe FIRED, a great day for the hard working men and women of the FBI - A great day for Democracy." Now McCabe is telling his side of one of the most intriguing political episodes of 2018.

In The Threat: How the FBI Protects America in the Age of Terror and Trump, Andrew G. McCabe offers a dramatic and candid account of his career and an impassioned defense of the FBI's agents and of the institution's integrity and independence in protecting America and upholding our Constitution. Under FBI Directors Robert Mueller and James Comey, McCabe led the investigations of major attacks such as the Boston Marathon bombing, a plot to bomb the New York subways, the Benghazi attack and Hillary Clinton's use of a private email server when she was secretary of state.

According to McCabe, the greatest threat to the United States right now comes from within, as he claims that President Trump and his administration ignore the law, attack democratic institutions, degrade human rights and undermine the U.S. Constitution that protects every citizen. Join us for an important and compelling conversation.

The Value of Leaders

General Stanley McChrystal-Retired Army General; Author, Leaders: Myth and Reality

In Conversation with Adam Lashinsky-Executive Editor, Fortune

In an era where strong leadership qualities, for everyone from young college applicants to accomplished CEOs, are seemingly valued above all else, retired four-star General Stanley McChrystal offers his own experienced perspective on leadership. McChrystal has observed his fair share of successful and failed leaders—from his training at West Point to his service as top commander in Afghanistan under President Obama. In his most recent book, Leaders: Myth and Reality, McChrystal digs deeper into the legacies of famed leaders to better understand how particular environments determine what type of leader is needed.

Join us for a thoughtful analysis of well-known leaders and a discussion about personal application with one of today's most decorated military leaders.

Iran

Jason Rezaian-Global Opinions Writer, The Washington Post; Contributor, CNN; Author, Prisoner: My 544 Days in an Iranian Prison—Solitary Confinement, a Sham Trial, High-Stakes Diplomacy, and the Extraordinary Efforts It Took to Get Me Out
In Conversation with David Lang-Co-founder, OpenROV

Only a few years ago, Washington Post journalist Jason Rezaian spent 544 days in an Iranian prison. Rezaian experienced interrogations, trials and the complexity of international negotiations. He was even used as a bargaining chip in the Iran nuclear deal negotiations. In his book Prisoner, Rezaian delves into his dramatic and suspenseful story as an American prisoner of Iran. He describes how friends and family in the United States worked tirelessly to advocate for his release, lobbying John Kerry and President Obama to seek his freedom.

Join us for this fascinating story from Rezaian, a Bay Area native, about hope, international justice, U.S.–Iran relations and the man caught in the middle.
