Joel Osteen – Sunday 10:00AM and 2:00AM

God is doing amazing things through our television ministry. We are reaching over 100 million homes in the U.S. and tens of millions more in 100 nations. Lives are being changed, relationships are being restored and communities are being transformed by the power of God and the message of hope that is being broadcast through this ministry.

In Touch Ministries- Sunday 6:30AM

It all began in 1972, when a half-hour program called "The Chapel Hour" was launched on Atlanta-area television stations. Today, "In Touch with Dr. Charles Stanley" can be heard around the world via radio and television broadcasts, podcasts, the handheld In Touch Ministries Messenger, In Touch Apps, and right here on the Web. Our programs are seen and heard around the world on more than 2,600 radio and television outlets in more than 50 languages. In addition to broadcasting, the ministry continues to produce books, studies, discipleship resources, and the award-winning In Touch magazine to more than 1.5 million households every month.

WASHINGTON - A boy is in custody after a double shooting late last month near the National Zoo.

D.C. police say they arrested a 15-year-old boy on Saturday following the attack Nov. 30 in the 2800 block of Connecticut Avenue, Northwest.

Police say the shooting happened around 8:30 p.m. Nov. 30 near Cathedral and Connecticut avenues, just steps from the zoo. Police found one victim at the scene and another near the Duke Ellington Memorial Bridge on Calvert Street nearby. Both victims were boys who recovered from their injuries at area hospitals.

A loud burst of fireworks, which many zoo guests believed were gunshots, preceded the shooting. Police say a group of teenagers set off the fireworks at the zoo, inciting panic. Detectives are still investigating whether the two incidents were related.

The suspect now faces an assault with dangerous weapon charge.

The shooting prompted the National Zoo to step up its security precautions through the rest of the holiday season.

House committee raises prospect of more impeachment articles

House committee raises prospect of more impeachment articles

The House Judiciary Committee is holding open the possibility of recommending additional articles of impeachment against President Donald Trump.

WASHINGTON - The House Judiciary Committee held open the possibility Monday of recommending additional articles of impeachment against President Donald Trump as it pressed anew for the testimony of former White House counsel Don McGahn. The committee wants a federal appeals court to order McGahn to testify as it examines potential obstruction of justice by the president during special counsel Robert Mueller's Russia investigation. The committee says McGahn's testimony could also be useful for any Senate impeachment trial.

A judge last month directed McGahn to comply with the House Judiciary Committee subpoena, and a Washington-based appeals court is scheduled to hear arguments Jan. 3.

In a court filing Monday, lawyers for the committee said McGahn's testimony remains essential even though the House has already voted to impeach Trump on two charges related to his interactions with Ukraine rather than on actions uncovered during Mueller's Russia probe.

“If McGahn’s testimony produces new evidence supporting the conclusion that President Trump committed impeachable offenses that are not covered by the Articles approved by the House, the Committee will proceed accordingly — including, if necessary, by considering whether to recommend new articles of impeachment,” lawyers for the Democratic-led committee wrote.

The committee also said McGahn's testimony is important for the committee's oversight role of the FBI and the Justice Department, “including in determining whether those agencies are operating free from improper political interference.”

Democrats on the Judiciary Committee subpoenaed McGahn well before the start this fall of an impeachment inquiry centered around Trump's request to Ukraine's president that he investigate Democratic rival Joe Biden and his son, as well as an unsubstantiated conspiracy theory alleging Ukraine's interference in the 2016 U.S. presidential election.

The Justice Department has asked the appeals court to dismiss the case, saying there's no reason for judges to become involved in a political dispute.

The department also says the need for resolving the case is less urgent now that the House has moved ahead with impeachment articles even without McGahn's testimony.

But the committee disagrees.

“The House’s vote on the Articles of Impeachment against President Trump underscores the Committee’s urgent need for expedited consideration of this appeal,” lawyers for the panel wrote.

“As discussed above, McGahn’s testimony is critical both to a Senate trial and to the Committee’s ongoing impeachment investigations to determine whether additional Presidential misconduct warrants further action by the Committee,” they added.

Trump says North Korea may be planning nice 'Christmas gift'

Trump says North Korea may be planning nice 'Christmas gift'

President Donald Trump said Tuesday that North Korean leader Kim Jong Un may be planning to give him a Christmas present such as a beautiful vase rather than a missile launch.

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) - President Donald Trump said Tuesday that North Korean leader Kim Jong Un may be planning to give him "a nice present" such as a "beautiful vase" for Christmas rather than a missile launch.

The president was asked what he will do if North Korea does conduct a long-range missile test.

The North has threatened to take unspecified action if sanctions are not eased by the end of the year, and speculation has centered on the possibility of a new missile test, possibly of an intercontinental ballistic missile capable of delivering a nuclear warhead.

The North has said that its “Christmas gift” to the United States will depend on Washington's actions.

Trump, who is in Florida for the holidays, had just finished thanking service members from each branch of the military via satellite when he was asked about North Korea. He opted for a wait-and-see approach.

"Maybe it's a present where he sends me a beautiful vase as opposed to a missile test," Trump said. “I may get a nice present from him. You don't know. You never know.”

Nuclear talks between the U.S. and North Korea have been stalled since a February summit between Trump and Kim fell apart.

A new satellite image of a factory where North Korea makes military equipment used to launch long-range missiles shows the construction of a new structure.

In New York, U.N. spokesman Stephane Dujarric was asked whether Secretary-General Antonio Guterres had a message for Kim John Un on Christmas Eve regarding a “Christmas gift.”

“Our message is to the leadership of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea to work for peace and stability on the Korean Peninsula and to resume working-level talks with the United States. Diplomatic engagement is the only pathway to sustainable peace and complete denuclearization and verifiable denuclearization of the Korean Peninsula,” Dujarric said.

WHITE OAK, Md. - At least 10 adults and five children were displaced by a fire that ripped through two town-house units in White Oak early Thursday morning.

Investigators are still trying to pinpoint what ignited the blaze on Columbia Pike, but they say it was likely an electrical fire in the ceiling above the second-floor bathroom.

Along with the people who were left without homes, three dogs and one cat escaped the flames.

SILVER SPRING, Md. - Emergency crews evacuated a high-rise apartment building in Silver Spring after a carbon monoxide leak was identified on Monday.

Firefighters investigated the building on Piney Branch Road, and residents were evaluated at the scene.

No one was transported from the scene.

They say welding without proper ventilation caused the problem.

Between 800 and 900 people in approximately 150 units were impacted by the leak.

Apartment building evacuated after early morning fire in Montgomery County

Authorities say an apartment building in Montgomery County was evacuated early Friday morning after fire tore through the building.

MONTGOMERY VILLAGE, Md. - Authorities say 10 people, including four children, were transported and dozens were displaced after an early morning apartment building fire in Montgomery County.

Firefighters responded around 5:30 a.m. to the blaze on Lost Knife Circle in Gaithersburg. Montgomery County Fire & EMS Spokesperson Pete Piringer says the fire is believed to have started in the living room of a third and top floor apartment. Flames then spread to the kitchen.

One man jumped from the third story. Piringer says that man suffered burns, smoke inhalation and may have also broken leg. This man, along with five other adults and two kids, were rushed to the hospital first. All are believed to be part of one family.

Piringer says four more people, two kids and two adults, were rushed to the hospital afterward. Piringer says all 10 people transported are believed to be related but living in different units.

Victoria Ramos told FOX 5 in Spanish that she lives next door and woke up scared, only to run out of the apartment barely grabbing a coat and shoes. Ramos says she went to their kitchen thinking the fire was in their unit. When she opened the door, Ramos says smoke filled her apartment. She and her roommates couldn't see anything.

Red Cross Regional Disaster Officer for the National Capital Region, Paul Carden, says this is the fifth fire they've responded to in the past 72 hours.

Red Cross volunteers were on site Friday morning. They are now helping around 45 people displaced, paying for temporary hotel stay, food and clothing. Cardin says in just a few hours, the Red Cross will spend around $10,000 helping the 45 or more people now out of their homes. The regional spokesperson says anyone who wishes to help can call the Red Cross at: 1-800-RED-CROSS.

“A fire is a loss of a person's sense of family - a sense of loss - that environment that they've created. And to have it happen on this holiday doesn't help it. It even makes it worse because folks are going to be basically starting over, finding a new place going into the Christmas holiday so it's a very difficult, emotional time,” said Carden.

Ramos told FOX 5 she felt nervous and didn't know what to do. She waited in her car several hours after the fire, hoping to be let back inside her apartment. She also said everything in her unit was soaked.

No fatalities were reported. Several pets were also rescued.

The cause of the fire is still being investigated.

Fairfax County special education director no longer working for district

FAIRFAX COUNTY, Va. - Fairfax County Public Schools confirms its special education director, who was on leave for several months, is no longer working for the district.

The confirmation about the leadership shift comes as the district is reeling from its latest controversy surrounding special needs students.

A former principal and two former staff members are facing criminal charges for reportedly assaulting special needs students and not reporting it.

Special Education Director Irene Meier is out, Acting Director Michael Bloom is in — and Bloom was made permanent director about four weeks ago.

Aside from the leadership shift, the apparent abuse of six students with special needs reportedly took place at Freedom Hill Elementary School in Vienna.

READ MORE: Parents sue Fairfax County Schools alleging students with disabilities experience discrimination

The school has since placed posters on campus urging faculty, staff and students to be mandatory reporters of abuse.

Parents are reacting after former principal Scott Bloom and two former teachers, 48-year-old Cylmeera Gastav of Herndon and 59-year-old Cecilia Maria Benavides of Alexandria, were indicted on felony charges.

But is there a larger issue within the district?

Bloom was apparently working at another school.

READ MORE: Fairfax County schools employees charged in case of assault on children with intellectual disabilities

Police say the alarming accusations were first brought to their attention in September after a teacher saw bruising on one of the victims.

This all comes after a year of upheaval surrounding the district's special needs students that FOX 5 has been staying on top of:

- In March, Fairfax County Public Schools was in the hot seat for reportedly not properly reporting hundreds of seclusion and restraint incidents to the Department of Education.
- In May, the district vowed to review its policy.

- In July, Special Education Director Irene Meier went on leave.
- In October, a group of parents reportedly sued the district, accusing it of improperly secluding and restraining special needs students.

And now this. Fairfax County police are asking anyone with information to call them.

WASHINGTON - Great news! The sun is back this Wednesday!

Not so great news: the wind chill is also back and your warm coat, gloves, hat and scarf will be needed all day.

Winds may gust to 25 mph and that will make it feel like it's in the 20s most of the day even as temperatures are in the upper 30s to near 40 degrees.

A reinforcing shot of arctic air arrives in the late afternoon and could even produce some snow showers in higher elevations well north and west and some harmless flurries in the metro.

The big story remains the cold that continues tonight as wind chills fall into the single digits and teens by Thursday morning.

(Children's Science Center)

STERLING, Va. (AP) - A planned science center in northern Virginia is getting a $10 million donation to jump-start its construction.

Northwest Federal Credit Union announced its donation Wednesday at a press conference.

The Children's Science Center will be an extension of the Richmond-based Science Museum of Virginia.

The project is expected to cost $75 million in total, and supporters say the project has now raised 85 percent of what will be needed. State and local funds have also been committed to the project.

The science center will be located in Sterling, a few miles north of Dulles International Airport.

Officials expect it will draw more than 300,000 visitors a year.
