Title: Raising Ms. President
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 4/13/17, 9pm; 4/15/17, 11pm
Format: Documentary
Description: Women make up more than half of the American population and workforce. Yet, the United States only ranks 97th out of 190 countries when it comes to the number of women in elected office. According to research conducted by Jennifer Lawless, director of the Women & Politics Institute, and Richard Fox, political science department chair at Loyola Marymount University, women are less likely than men to run for office, and often consider themselves under-qualified to serve, despite their success in business and education. In the documentary RAISING MS. PRESIDENT, filmmaker Kiley Lane explores why more women don't run for office. Through interviews with elected officials, scholars, high school students and leaders of two non-profits dedicated to raising the next generation of female leaders, the program investigates where political ambition begins and why society should encourage more women to lead. Interviewees include Anne Moses, founder of IGNITE; Senator Lisa Murkowski, Republican of Alaska; Tiffany Dufu, former president of the White House Project; Melissa Deckman, professor of public affairs at Washington College; Susannah W. Shakow, founder of Running Start; Emiliana Simon-Thomas, cognitive, affective and behavioral neuroscientist at UC Berkeley; and Amanda Adkins, GOP state chair, Kansas; among others.

Title: Rikers
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 5/25/17, 9pm; 5/27/17, 11pm
Format: Discussion
Description: The United States is facing a crisis of mass incarceration with over 2.2 million people packed into its jails and prisons. To understand the human toll of this crisis, Rikers Island is a good place to start. Of the more than 7,500 people detained at Rikers Island on any given day, almost 80% have not yet been found guilty or innocent of the charges they face. All are at risk in the pervasive culture of violence that forces people to come to terms with what they must do for their own survival. RIKERS, a riveting new documentary from Bill Moyers, brings you face to face with men and women who have endured incarceration at Rikers Island. Their stories, told direct to camera, vividly describe the cruel arc of the Rikers experience—from the shock of entry, to the extortion and control exercised by other inmates, the oppressive interaction with corrections officers, the beatings and stabbings, the torture of solitary confinement and the many challenges of returning to the outside world.

Title: Oceans of Pink
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 5/6/17, 9pm; 5/27/17, 2pm
Format: Documentary

Description: OCEANS OF PINK is an inspirational one-hour documentary that highlights the explosive growth of dragon boat racing among breast cancer survivors globally, and the growing participation in the sport among Hispanic women. The film follows the efforts of Miami boat leader and breast cancer survivor Kim Bonomo to expand the movement with new teams throughout Florida and her campaign to make the state the host of the Fourth International Participatory Dragon Boat Festival. It's an emotional journey that tells the stories of several Latina women whose struggles with the disease became more desperate because of their advanced-stage diagnosis. Their stories speak to a widespread problem in the Hispanic population: women tend to seek breast scans much later than other groups, preventing early detection. The stories in OCEANS OF PINK build to the international race event in Sarasota, Fla., the first of its kind in the United States. Thousands of survivors from around the globe celebrate the sisterhood of dragon boaters, who have found a community of support that is helping women overcome the challenges of cancer.

Airdate: 5/18/17, 9:30pm; 5/19/17, 8:30am; 5/20/17, 11:30pm
Format: Documentary
Description: Two nations, Mali and Kenya, racked by war and poverty, are weaning themselves off foreign food aid and feeding their school children using locally grown food, providing a living to local farmers. Every country in the world feeds its schoolchildren. Many of the poorest countries in the world rely on western donors to provide their food for school children. But some of the very poorest countries are turning the whole thing on its head. As some of the world's intense wars, terrorist attacks, even famines carry on about them - these two desperately poor African nations are feeding their own school children, using food grown locally, by local farmers. It not only feeds children, but it provides a successful way of life for small farmers who can't compete with free food from overseas. Feeding Africa's Children is the story of how low-income countries have taken control of feeding their school children. How children who eat enough, learn better. And, how improved learning reduces poverty. Beautifully filmed in Kenya's western lake regions and Mali's war-torn north, Feeding Africa's Children also features never before seen footage of the remote city of Timbuktu - proving that home-grown school feeding can work anywhere. It's possible to put the world's poorest nations in control of their children - and their future.

Title: Media Coverage and Female Athletes
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 4/9/17, 10am
Format: Documentary
Description: Forty percent of all sports participants are female, yet women's sports receive only 4% of all sport media coverage and female athletes are much more likely than male athletes to be portrayed in sexually provocative poses. To highlight why this matters and address these disparities, the Tucker Center for Research on Girls & Women in Sport at the University of Minnesota, in partnership with tptMN, have produced "Media Coverage and Female Athletes," a groundbreaking documentary that uses research-based information to examine the amount and type of coverage given to female athletes. You won't want to miss hearing from expert scholars and award winning coaches and athletes who discuss this timely issue from a variety of perspectives, as they help dispel the common-but untrue-myths that no one is interested in women's sport and that "sex sells" women's sport. Effective strategies are also discussed for increasing media coverage and creating images which reflect the reality of women's sports participation and why this is so important.

Title: Raising Ms. President
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 4/13/17, 9pm; 4/15/17, 11pm
Format:
Description: Women make up more than half of the American population and workforce. Yet, the United States only ranks 97th out of 190 countries when it comes to the number of women in elected office. According to research conducted by Jennifer Lawless, director of the Women & Politics Institute, and Richard Fox, political science department chair at Loyola Marymount University, women are less likely than men to run for office, and often consider themselves under-qualified to serve, despite their success in business and education. In the documentary RAISING MS. PRESIDENT, filmmaker Kiley Lane explores why more women don't run for office. Through interviews with elected officials, scholars, high school students and leaders of two non-profits dedicated to raising the next generation of female leaders, the program investigates where political ambition begins and why society should encourage more women to lead. Interviewees include Anne Moses, founder of IGNITE; Senator Lisa Murkowski, Republican of Alaska; Tiffany Dufu, former president of the White House Project; Melissa Deckman, professor of public affairs at Washington College; Susannah W. Shakow, founder of Running Start; Emiliana Simon-Thomas, cognitive, affective and behavioral neuroscientist at UC Berkeley; and Amanda Adkins, GOP state chair, Kansas; among others.

Title: Evening with Sheila Johnson
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 4/23/17, 9am and 3pm
Format: Discussion
Description: An Evening with Sheila Johnson is a one-on-one interview with Sheila Johnson, a classically trained violinist, successful entrepreneur, and dedicated philanthropist. Taped at the historic Art Institute of Chicago, and hosted by veteran PBS NewsHour journalist Gwen Ifill, An Evening with Sheila Johnson explores the life and career of one of the nation's most successful businesswomen. At 8 years of age, Sheila Johnson fell in love with the violin, honing her craft throughout her schooling, and graduating from the University of Illinois with a B.A. degree in music. While in school, Sheila met Robert Johnson, whom she would marry and go on to co-found Black Entertainment Television with in 1980. Sheila taught music as the couple worked to turn BET into a successful network, directing what became an internationally renowned youth orchestra, Youth Strings in Action. When she stopped teaching music in 1989, she poured her efforts into BET, serving as Executive Vice President of Community Affairs, and spearheading programming such as Teen Summit. The Johnsons sold BET in 2002 to Viacom for $2.3 billion, and Sheila went on to found Salamander Hotels & Resorts, a hospitality firm that now owns or manages six luxury resorts. Sheila is also owner of the Washington Mystics, and part owner of the Washington Wizards and the Washington Capitals, the first African American woman to be a major stakeholder in three professional sports franchises.

Length: 30 minutes
Airdate: 4/6/17, 9:30pm; 4/8/17, 11:30pm; 4/17/17, 9:30am;
Format: Documentary
Description: Imagine a world where words taste and thoughts feel, where sounds swell with color and leaves on trees change tones visible to the naked eye, where eye contact with another can cause physical pain. This world, both beautiful and overwhelming, exists for those in the film "Spectrum: A Story of the Mind." The first documentary to explore autism as sensory-based experiences, presenting the positive advantages and difficulties of perceiving the world differently. Featuring Dr. Temple Grandin, the film highlights the need for research on sensory issues. The story is told through a series of character-driven portraits from a diverse group of people on the autism spectrum. While poet and author Tito Mukhopadhyay is nonverbal, he articulates his experiences through his writing. Artist Judy Endow uses painting to express her shifting and often chaotic visual perception. Aikido artist Nick Walker finds an unexpected beauty in the art of fluid movement and discovers the advantage of his perception through martial arts. "Spectrum" challenges current views of autism as a social disorder and inspires the viewer to empathize with autistic perceptions.

Title: Roadtrip Nation: Ready to Rise
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 4/17/17, 9pm
Format: Documentary
Description: The travel documentary ROADTRIP NATION: READY TO RISE follows three out-of-work youth - Ryan, Summer and Michael - as they travel across the country to interview inspiring individuals who overcame adversity to build fulfilling lives and careers. Ryan, a 20-year-old from Patterson, Calif., aspires to uplift his community in some way, and believes the opportunity to travel and meet mentors from similar backgrounds will open him up to a whole new world of possibility. Summer, also 20 and a California native, has been looking for a support system her whole life. Raised in a foster care environment without a defined sense of family to guide her, she knows what it's like to feel alone in the world, and dreams of becoming a crisis counselor to help others who face similar challenges. Twenty-four-year-old Michael, who was raised in a poverty-stricken neighborhood, found himself involved in gang life at the age of 12 to get by. A high-school dropout, Michael resolved to turn his life around after he found himself locked up in a juvenile detention center. Once out, he became involved with the program YouthBuild Schenectady, which gave him the support he needed to awaken his potential. Michael hopes the road trip will give him the wisdom and experiences to further develop his purpose and share his story with others. As the roadtrippers embark on their personal journeys for a better way of life, along the way they find hope and inspiration from their interviews with Chris Gardner, author of The Pursuit of Happyness, Father Greg Boule, founder and executive director of the non-profit organization Homeboy Industries, filmmaker Lydia Joyner, and several others.
