Title: Fleeced: Speaking Out Against Senior Financial Abuse
Length: 30 minutes
Airdate: 1/20/15, 7:30pm; 1/24/15, 12:30pm
Format: Documentary
Description: FLEECED: SPEAKING OUT AGAINST SENIOR FINANCIAL ABUSE examines the timely yet often under-reported topic of elder financial exploitation. Nearly 7.3 million older Americans - one of every five adults over the age of 65 - have fallen victim to various scams and predatory lending practices, including identity theft, reverse-mortgages, pyramid schemes, sweepstakes, "good-faith" payments and bank "advances." Financial losses resulting from the bilking of older adults total $2.9 billion a year, often leaving depleted retirement funds and foreclosed homes in its wake. The hard-hitting and informative documentary illuminates both the legal and illegal businesses that prey upon vulnerable senior populations. The most common scams typically originate overseas and inundate seniors with information through the mail, computer or phone. They often target the victim's hard-earned home equity with the promise of a low-risk, high-reward return-on-investment.

Title: Moyers & Co. 352

Length: 30 minutes

Airdate: 1/5/15, 9am

Format: Discussion

Description: With so many in Congress and state legislatures in denial or simply missing in action, and with the very agencies created to protect our environment hijacked by the polluting industries they were meant to regulate, it may turn out that the judicial system, our children and their children will save us from ourselves. The new legal framework for this crusade against global warming is called atmospheric trust litigation. It takes the fate of the Earth into the courts, arguing that the planet's atmosphere - its air, water, land, plants and animals -- are the responsibility of government, held in its trust to insure the survival of all generations to come. It's the brainchild of Bill Moyers' guest this week on the final broadcast of the series Moyers & Company. Mary Christina Wood is a legal scholar who wrote the book, "Nature's Trust," tracing this public trust doctrine all the way back to ancient Rome. It is, she writes, "a robust set of legal footholds by which citizens can hold their government officials accountable." Wood tells Bill Moyers, "If this nation relies on a stable climate system, and the very habitability of this nation and all of the liberties of young people and their survival interests are at stake, the courts need to force the agencies and the legislatures to simply do their job." "Climate is not just an environmental issue," she continues. "This is a civilization issue. This is the biggest case that courts will get in terms of the potential harm and in terms of the urgency." Mary Christina Wood teaches law at the University of Oregon and is founding director of that school's Environmental and Natural Resources Law Program. Her theories are being used in several legal suits filed by the advocacy group Our Children's Trust.

Title: Independent Lens "Rich Hill"
Length: 90 minutes
Airdate: 1/15/15, 8pm' 1/17/15, 10pm
Format: Documentary
Description: Rich Hill, Missouri was once a thriving mining town, but shortly after World War II, the coal was gone -- mined out. Stores closed, people moved away, farms were sold. It's a story that could be told in hundreds of towns across America. But people still live here. "Rich Hill" is a journey into the lives of Andrew, Harley, and Appachey, three Rich Hill boys navigating the often-treacherous road between childhood and adolescence. Despite the isolation and deprivation of their individual circumstances, they long for the same things we all want: a nice house, dinner on the table and a healthy, loving family.

Title: African Americans: Many Rivers To Cross #105 Rise
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 2/22/15, 7:05pm; 2/28/15, 5pm
Format: Documentary
Description: "Rise!" examines the long road to civil rights, when the deep contradictions in American society finally became unsustainable. African Americans who fought fascism in World War II came home to face the same old racial violence. But mass media — from print to radio and TV — broadcast that injustice, planting seeds of resistance. The success of black entrepreneurs and entertainers fueled African-American hopes and dreams. In 1955, Rosa Parks refused to give up her seat on a city bus in Montgomery, Alabama, heralding the dawn of a movement of resistance, with Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. as its public face. Before long, masses of African Americans practiced this nonviolent approach to integrate public schools, lunch counters and more. Nonviolence, however, was often met with violence. In 1968, Dr. King was assassinated, unleashing a new call for "Black Power" across the country.

Title: Zipcode: Your Neighborhood, Your Health
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 1/24/15, 11am
Format: Documentary
Description: "If you look at the health of a population it's only determined about 10% by what we do in hospitals, clinics and doctor's offices. 90% of the health of a population is determined by other factors." Dr. Claire Polmeroy Health starts where we live, learn, work and play. In fact, some experts say the lifespan of a child is determined more by his zip code than his genetic code. Why is there such a divide in the health of the American people? In the documentary Zip Code we look at how the environment in which we work, live and play is the ultimate determinant of how healthy we are. Poverty, where we live, education, access to healthcare, the food we eat, the water we drink and the air we breathe - all of these and other so-called "social determinants" play a huge role in our health. Place matters. In the documentary we meet up with a family, 3 generations, to talk about how they think about health and health care. According to CDC statistics, in South Carolina alone there are approximately 1 million people that do not have access to healthy affordable food. That's 20% of the population. We travel to North Charleston to talk about these food deserts. What was once one of the highest crime areas in the nation is now a beacon of hope and change. East Baltimore is making huge strides in transforming the health of their community. We talk to doctors and neighborhood leaders about the initiatives that are saving lives. In the program we hear from clinic doctors and neighborhood leaders that are helping to change the way people think about health care. We look at how unsafe neighborhoods, poor transportation and trust play a role in this complex issue. What does it take to make a change for the better? We talk with doctors on the front lines about what we can do to create a brighter future for everyone.

Description: Eliaichi Kimaro is a mixed-race, first-generation American with a Tanzanian father and Korean mother. When her retired father moves back to Tanzania, Eliaichi begins a project that evocatively examines the intricate fabric of multiracial identity, and grapples with the complex ties that children have to the cultures of their parents. Kimaro decides to document her father's path back to his family and Chagga culture. In the process, she learns more deeply about the heritage that she took for granted as a child. Yet as she talks to more family members, especially her aunts, she uncovers a cycle of sexual violence that resonates with her work and life in the United States. When Kimaro speaks with her parents about the oppression that her aunts face, she faces a jarring disconnect between immigrant generations on questions of patriarchy and violence.

Title: Boy Scouts of Harlem 759
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 1/9/15, 9pm
Format: Documentary
Description: The power of this transformative organization is revealed in "Boy Scouts of Harlem 759." The film is a charming and gentle exploration of how the Boy Scouts - along with two weeks at a magnificent summer scout camp -- can change a group of boys from Harlem into young men. Through these boys' eyes, we see camaraderie, structure, and personal growth in a world that is quite removed from their homes in Harlem. But the real story is the personal growth they experience, and how one formative week can change a boy's outlook on life forever. The images are enhanced by the haunting and emotional music soundtrack of a soloist performing a traditional spiritual. Over fifty million Americans have had connections to, or have been members of, this formative organization. "Boy Scouts of Harlem 759" celebrates one hundred years of the Boys Scouts of America.

Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 1/18/15, 9am ; 1/23/15, 8pm
Format: Documentary
Description: Narrated by Oscar-winning actor Morgan Freeman, THE EDITOR AND THE DRAGON tells the story of Pulitzer Prize-winning publisher Horace Carter (1921-2009) and his bold reporting on the Ku Klux Klan in the pre-Civil Rights era. Carter, the 29-year-old editor of the weekly Tabor City Tribune, stood against the Klan and risking life, livelihood, friendships and his family's safety to protest the Klan's racist rhetoric and vigilantism. His courageous reports and the unwavering integrity of his weekly editorials helped lead to the first FBI investigation of the Klan during that era, and to the arrest and conviction of nearly 100 Klansmen. Archival footage and interviews with Carter, his family, Tabor City (North Carolina) residents, journalists and historians help piece together this dark chapter in American history.

Title: STAND! Untold Stories of the Civil Rights Movement
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 1/18/15, 12pm & 5pm; 1/19/15, 8pm
Format: Documentary
Description: STAND! chronicles the key events which led to Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr and the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), selecting Birmingham, Alabama as the site for the now famous 'Project C' (Project Confrontation) in 1963. Bringing to light often overlooked and unknown facts about the system of segregation in Birmingham, Alabama, STAND! features the brave men and women who risked all to bring about its demise. STAND! dispels many myths that the Birmingham Civil Rights Movement was all Black, all Male, and led by ministers who rallied in 1963 and liberated a city. In the spring of 1962, a group of students from Miles College led by Frank Dukes, their 31-year-old Student Government Association President, created and launched a Selective Buying Campaign. Supporting the students were Miles College President Dr. Lucius H Pitts, selected faculty, local housewives, and members of Birmingham's White community. These factions brought about significant desegregation before Dr. King's arrival to the city in 1963. STAND! features interviews from heroes and heroines of the movement, who have, until now, been inexplicably unsung. The music of jazz legend Cleve Eaton, who played with Count Basie, Ramsey Lewis and many others, is seamlessly interwoven with hip hop beats from King B Low and gospel music by Nims Gay and Pat Fields. This authentic combination of music gives STAND! the true feeling and power that was the Movement.

As African Americans won political office across the country and the black middle class made progress, larger economic and political forces isolated the black urban poor. When Barack Obama was elected president in 2008, many hoped that America had finally transcended racism. By the time of his second victory, however, it was clear that many issues, including true racial equality, remain to be resolved. How will African Americans help redefine the United States in the years to come?

Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 3/9/15, 8:30am
Format: Documentary
Description: @HOME journeys through the landscape of a forgotten America, introducing the invisible communities of people living without permanent housing. The one-hour documentary examines the crisis of homelessness through the lens of e-activist Mark Horvath, who harnesses social media's potential to democratize and empower the less fortunate. @HOME follows Horvath on a whirlwind road trip across the country, from Las Vegas to Arkansas to Pittsburgh, as he interviews newly and chronically homeless people in tent cities, under bridges and at by-the-week motels. These individuals challenge stereotypes by sharing their stories and revealing their simple but life-changing wishes for a place to live, a job and the ability to help others. The film also explores the toll homelessness took on Horvath, too, as he shares his fight to rebuild his life while devoting himself to helping others. Horvath experienced the highs and lows of the American dream; he went from a successful career in television to barely surviving, homeless and addicted, on Hollywood Boulevard. He found his voice again when he hit the streets, armed with a digital camera and a smartphone, to talk to homeless people about their experiences. Today, he brings their stories to millions of followers on Twitter, Facebook and YouTube.

Title: Extraordinary Women (105) Martha Gellhorn
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 1/10/15, 8pm
Format: Documentary
Description: Martha Gellhorn became a war correspondent almost by accident when her lover, Ernest Hemingway, urged her to file a report from Madrid during the Spanish Civil War. She wrote about the innocent victims of the war: the civilians who lived in daily fear of being killed by bombs. It was the beginning of a remarkable career spanning some sixty years. Until Martha entered the field, war reporting was dominated by male journalists but, through her fearlessness and dedication, she earned a place at the top. Unlike many of her contemporaries, she was motivated to write - not about tactics and statistics - but about the devastating effects of war on the lives of civilians. It was a theme she carried from Spain throughout World War Two, to Vietnam and, much later, to America's wars in Guatemala and Panama. But Martha's success came at great cost to her personal life. Her relationships were disastrous and short-lived. Her first marriage, to the writer Ernest Hemingway, ended acrimoniously when it became clear that she could not put her husband before her job. She had several affairs with married men and a painful and difficult relationship with her adopted son. Although American, Martha fell out with her government and spent her whole life looking for somewhere else to settle. She had homes in Mexico, Africa and Britain, ending her life in an apartment in London. She carried on reporting well into her eighties when, half-blind, she travelled alone to Brazil to report on the plight of street-children who were being murdered by death-squads. Martha Gellhorn was committed to reporting the truth and she worked hard for her reputation as one of the greatest war correspondents of the twentieth century.

Title: Extraordinary Women (101) Madame Chiang Kai-Shek
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 1/16/15, 8pm
Format: Documentary
Description: In a remarkable life that touched three centuries, Madame Chiang Kai-Shek rose to become one of the most powerful women in the world. She positioned herself at the forefront of Chinese politics and held extraordinary influence in world affairs for a woman of her time. She was, for five decades, a source of invaluable support for her China's ineffective Nationalist leader, her husband, General Chiang Kai-Shek. With charm, diplomacy and an American education on her side, Madame Chiang Kai-Shek secured huge international support for a war-torn poverty-stricken China. When Japan invaded and the Communists advanced, Madame Chiang Kai-Shek successfully appealed to America for millions of dollars of financial and military aid. Yet her ambition and hunger for power was nearly her downfall. An affair with a man who could have been the American President almost destroyed her marriage and her reputation. In the end though, she triumphed over every adversity, and continued to fight both for Chinese democracy and her country's place on the world stage. In one of the most turbulent times in China's history, Madame Chiang Kai-Shek had spoken for millions of her people at home and across the world. She was the greatest leader China never had.

Title: Extraordinary Women (102) Coco Chanel
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 1/16/15, 9pm
Format: Documentary
Description: She was an illegitimate child, born into a poorhouse and abandoned in an orphanage, but Coco Chanel rose from unimaginable poverty to create the most iconic fashion brand of the 20th century, The House of Chanel. With steely ambition, she took advantage of wealthy lovers, rose to the top in a male-dominated world, and created a style of clothing that changed the face of women's fashion forever. She encouraged women to dress comfortably, with simplicity and for themselves, rather than their men. Starting with a modest hat shop in Paris, an Empire grew and the House of Chanel came to epitomize luxury and style. Yet behind the success, lay a hidden story of wartime collaboration with the Nazis and a lifetime of disastrous affairs with unsuitable lovers, including the Duke of Westminster, Russian composer Igor Stravinsky and Nazi spy Hans Gunther von Dincklage. Always a mistress, never a wife, Coco's longing for love nearly cost her everything. Yet at the age of 88, when she died at her Ritz apartment in Paris, Coco Chanel was officially still working. She triumphed over the adversity of her lowly birth and two world wars, and clung onto her fashion empire which, to this day, continues to be successful and respected the world over.

Title: Extraordinary Women (103) Wallis Simpson
Length: 60 minutes
Airdate: 1/30/15, 8pm
Format: Documentary
Description: Branded a frivolous socialite, a gold digger and even a Nazi-sympathizer, Wallis Simpson, a twice-divorced American, became embroiled in a deep constitutional crisis when she embarked upon one of the most talked-about marriages of the 20th century. To the horror of the British government and the Royal Family, on 10th December 1936, King Edward VIII gave up the British throne to marry her. As a young lady, Wallis was a die-hard socialite - and lived for the parties, the champagne, the dances, and the men. But she made bad choices. Her first husband, Win Spencer, was a dashing American pilot, whose drunken rages left her beaten and abused. Her second husband, Ernest Simpson, took her to London where she felt bored and isolated - that is, until she broke into the aristocratic social scene. Wallis Simpson soon caught the roving eye of the charismatic playboy and the future King of England, Prince Edward. With Edward's accession to the throne, the British government and the Church of England were adamant the King could not marry a divorcee. And so, in a move that shocked the nation, Edward VIII abdicated - to marry the woman he loved. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor, as they were then titled, were forced to live in exile and endure relentless snubs from the Royal Family for the rest of their lives. But, they made the best of it. It was not the life they wanted but hey had each other. Throughout the Second World War they worked tirelessly for the war effort; they established charitable institutions during their posting to the Bahamas; they created a happy, social life for themselves in Paris in the years that followed, and Wallis became known as one of the world's best dressed women. But, for all that, Wallis Simpson's reputation remained forever tainted - she was the woman who caused a much-loved King to abdicate.

Philadelphia, in fact, she was born to be a princess. Even her maternal grandfather was born in a German Castle. But the young Grace was quiet and sensitive and spent her childhood struggling to win her Irish-American father's approval. She was determined to find the success and independence that she hoped would impress him. By her teenage years, Grace had blossomed into a beautiful woman, picking up modeling jobs in order to finance her acting studies. Never short of wealthy male suitors, Grace was at the heart of New York's social scene and even received a marriage proposal from the Shah of Iran. As her acting and movie career flourished, so she began a string of affairs with her co-stars including Gary Cooper, Clarke Gable, Ray Milland and Bing Crosby. She was attracted to older men who were often married. Three successful performances sealed her place as Alfred Hitchcock's favorite actress; the definitive Hitchcock blonde who was the image of virginal beauty yet brimming with sexuality. Her decision to play a dowdy housewife in The Country Girl would reward her with the Best Actress Academy Award in 1955. But Grace's life would take an even greater step up when she caught the eye of the eligible Prince Rainier of Monaco, that same year. In 1956, the couple was married in a spectacular MGM-produced Wedding. Grace Kelly looked every inch the princess... but the marriage wouldn't live up to the fairy-tale. Over the coming years there would be moments of happiness including the birth of two daughters and a son. Grace helped revive the ailing principality, as Monaco became a thriving hub for the rich and famous. Princess Grace's charity work was widely respected and she gained the enduring love and adoration of the Monegasques. But there would also be persistent rumors of affairs on both sides, and as the children grew up, they only added more stress to a troubled marriage. Grace's untimely and mysterious death in 1982 brought a tragic end to the life of the Princess of Monaco and a Hollywood icon.

Format: Documentary
Description: The power of this transformative organization is revealed in "Boy Scouts of Harlem 759." The film is a charming and gentle exploration of how the Boy Scouts - along with two weeks at a magnificent summer scout camp -- can change a group of boys from Harlem into young men. Through these boys' eyes, we see camaraderie, structure, and personal growth in a world that is quite removed from their homes in Harlem. But the real story is the personal growth they experience, and how one formative week can change a boy's outlook on life forever. The images are enhanced by the haunting and emotional music soundtrack of a soloist performing a traditional spiritual. Over fifty million Americans have had connections to, or have been members of, this formative organization. "Boy Scouts of Harlem 759" celebrates one hundred years of the Boys Scouts of America.

Title: Independent Lens "Rich Hill"
Length: 90 minutes
Airdate: 1/15/15, 8pm; 1/17/15, 10pm
Format: Documentary
Description: Rich Hill, Missouri was once a thriving mining town, but shortly after World War II, the coal was gone -- mined out. Stores closed, people moved away, farms were sold. It's a story that could be told in hundreds of towns across America. But people still live here. "Rich Hill" is a journey into the lives of Andrew, Harley, and Appachey, three Rich Hill boys navigating the often-treacherous road between childhood and adolescence. Despite the isolation and deprivation of their individual circumstances, they long for the same things we all want: a nice house, dinner on the table and a healthy, loving family.
