NBC NETWORK NON-BROADCAST EFFORTS

April - June, 2018

NBCUniversal's The More You Know website:

Since 1989, The More You Know has brought the nation's most important social issues to the forefront, and remains a trusted voice for sharing knowledge to improve lives and inspire action. The More You Know's comprehensive website (themoreyouknow.com) includes in-depth resource and referral information on the campaign's important focus issues including:

- HEALTH – fighting childhood obesity, encouraging nutrition and physical fitness
- ENVIRONMENT – encouraging everyday actions that reduce environmental impact
- EDUCATION – recruiting new teachers and promoting their long-lasting impact
- DIGITAL LITERACY & INTERNET SAFETY - sharing online safety tips and information
- DIVERSITY – embracing differences and promoting inclusion, tolerance and respect

Also featured on site is The More You Know Learning series' Growing Up Online, a free eBook on digital literacy and Internet Safety. Growing Up Online is an important tool to initiate conversation with children about online safety. The eBook is a media-rich, two-part learning resource that provides easy-to-use information about navigating the digital world in a unique and engaging way. Part one includes safety tips, discussion questions and key takeaways for parents and teachers. Part two features four entertaining video comic books for children, focused on real situations that come up when kids go online.

Additional content on the site includes public service announcements, behind-the-scenes videos, a general overview, a talent directory, and a list of the campaign's accolades such as the prestigious Emmy and Peabody awards.

In 1929, famous New York stockbroker Bill Wilson crashes with the stock market and becomes a hopeless drunk. Dr. Bob Smith, a surgeon from Ohio, has also been an alcoholic for thirty years, often going into the operating room with a hangover. Through an astonishing series of events, the two men are brought together and, realizing that "the only thing that can keep a drunk sober is telling his story to another drunk," forge a relationship. They help each other stay sober, and then pass on what they've learned to others. The award-winning play, Bill W. and Dr. Bob, is the inspiring and often humorous story of the two men who pioneered Alcoholics Anonymous, and their supportive wives, who founded Al Anon.

Episode 112 – Taking A Mental Health Day

When was the last time you took a mental health day? Parents are constantly under stress and that can lead to plenty of health problems down the road if you don't take time to deal with everyday stress in a healthy way. This week our Mom panel chats about ways to give yourself a break and the importance of taking a mental health break! Plus, we're showing you a new parenting and childbirth class that's growing in popularity around the world because of its mindfulness lessons. And we find out about a new study that says mindfulness can lead to less stressed parents and babies too! We'll also show you a popular app to help breastfeeding moms. A new father came up with the idea for the app and designed it himself when he and his wife couldn't find what they wanted in the app store!

MomsEveryday Ep.113 is scheduled to air the week of 4/2/18.

Episode 113 – Women In Prison: Special Report

Women are the fastest growing segment of the U.S. prison population. Many of them have suffered from sexual trauma and abuse, are dealing with mental illness or drug addiction and are mothers. This week we bring you an in-depth look at the staggering number of families and children affected by this statistic and we go behind the scenes of prison life where we meet two mothers behind bars. Find out how one US congressman wants to help these families find success when prison life ends. Also this week, are you going over-the-top for your kids? Whether it's a birthday bash, elaborate school project or just everyday life, our panel chats about how our Pinterest culture is pushing many Moms to do even more for their children. Plus, we're making breakfast for dinner with Savory Spinach and Cheese Waffles.

MomsEveryday Ep.114 is scheduled to air the week of 4/9/18.

Episode 114 – Balancing It All (Or Not)

Having trouble balancing it all? Chances are it would be hard to find a Mom who could answer "no" to that question. This week our panel of moms chats about the challenges of keeping up with everything they have on their plates, and the theory that many moms end up picking three and ignoring the rest from a list that includes Family, Friends, Work, Sleep, and Fitness. Plus we hear from a life coach who says you don't have to give up one of those areas and we get tips on how to better manage life's demands. Plus, we celebrate a milestone with the only woman to give birth while serving in the US Senate! Also this week, in the market for a new home or hoping to sell yours? We're looking at the timing of buying and selling a home this spring. Find out how music therapy is helping many aging parents who struggle with dementia. And we're making water walk in a fun do at home science project.

MomsEveryday Ep.96R (Repeat) is scheduled to air the week of 4/16/18.

From playing professional sports to working full time, women are doing more than ever while pregnant. This week our mom panel chats about some of these amazing accomplishments and compares notes to their own pregnancies. We'll also explain why you may not know what diastasis recti is, but many women may have it and don't even know it! Feel like you're always nagging the kids? The parenting experts at Boys Town have great advice on how to give children clear instructions so they can better follow directions and make everyone happier.

It's 4th of July week so we're celebrating with a fun science experiment to make "fireworks" in a glass and also a DIY lava lamp. We will share a great make it yourself popsicle recipe that's low in sugar and big on taste and we'll help keep your cookout safe from cross contamination!

MEET THE PRESS TOPICS
Airs Sundays, 8:00am and 12:05am
Various topics covered (Business, violence, cultural)

April 1, 2018

APRIL 1, 2018 – In an interview with “Meet the Press” moderator Chuck Todd, fired Veteran Affairs Secretary David Shulkin says he did not resign and was not asked to submit a letter of resignation, contrary to a White House statement that he had “resigned from his position.”

NPR’s Joshua Johnson, TIME’s Elise Jordan, AEI’s Danielle Pletka and syndicated columnist George Will joined this morning’s roundtable to discuss the week in politics, including policy with Russia. “The administration has represented a stronger line on Russia policy than the Obama administration did,” argued Pletka.

April 8, 2018

Sen. Mike Rounds (R-S.D.) joined the show in an exclusive interview, telling Todd that, on the chemical weapons attack, President Trump “should act decisively, and I think he will hold not just Syria, but I think he will make it very clear that he believes that Russia is also responsible.” Chuck noted: “The Russian Foreign Ministry is saying, “this is fake news,” this idea that there even was a chemical weapons attack [in Syria].”

Christopher Wylie, co-founder of Cambridge Analytica, told Todd the number “could be higher” than 87 million whose personal Facebook data was misused by Cambridge Analytica, and the data “could be stored in various parts of the world, including Russia.”

Charlie Cook of The Cook Political Report, Helene Cooper of The New York Times, presidential historian Doris Kearns Goodwin and Rich Lowry of National Review joined the broadcast’s roundtable for insight and analysis, including on Facebook CEO Mark Zuckerberg testifying on the Hill this week. “If he had immediately gone up to Congress, it would have been bad. Now, I think it’s going to be horrific,” said Cook.

April 15, 2018

In an exclusive interview this morning on “Meet the Press,” Sen. Joni Ernst (R-Iowa) addresses Friday’s airstrikes in Syria, telling moderator Chuck Todd if President Trump “wishes to go any further, he does need to work with Congress.”

House Speaker Paul Ryan, who announced this week he would not seek re-election, spoke with Todd in an exclusive interview on Capitol Hill Friday, endorsing House Majority Leader Kevin McCarthy (R-Calif.) as his successor. On the Russia probe, Ryan said, “I don’t think he’s [Trump] going to fire Mueller,” adding, “I don’t think he should be fired. I think he should be left to do his job." He says that former FBI Director James Comey is a man of integrity "as far as I know."

April 22, 2018

CBN News' David Brody, Democratic strategist Cornell Belcher, The Cook Political Report's Amy Walter and NBC News' Andrea Mitchell joined this morning's roundtable for additional insight and analysis on the week in politics, including Barbara Bush's passing, with Mitchell noting, "Barbara Bush broke through" the Reagan White House's slow response to the AIDS crisis.

April 29, 2018

In an exclusive live Sunday interview this morning, former FBI Director James Comey tells "Meet the Press" moderator Chuck Todd the House Intelligence Committee report released Friday on its controversial investigation into Russian interference in the 2016 election, which led Republicans to conclude there was no evidence of collusion with the Trump campaign, is "a political document" and "not my understanding of what the facts were before I left the FBI," adding the investigation is "just a wreck."

May 6, 2018

Kimberly Atkins of The Boston Herald, Robert Costa of The Washington Post, presidential historian and author Jon Meacham, and Danielle Pletka of the American Enterprise Institute joined the "Meet the Press" roundtable to discuss the week in politics, including reacting to a new book excerpt from Sen. John McCain (R-Ariz.).

May 20, 2018

Sen. Bernie Sanders (I-Vt.) reacts to Friday's Texas school shooting in an exclusive interview, telling Todd: "It is unspeakable, it really is, to see that kids all over this country, who go to a place where they should feel safe, where they can focus on learning, are now worrying about things that we've seen Texas or in Florida a few months ago." When asked if there has been enough done in the Senate to prevent gun violence, the Vermont senator replies, "Of course not. ... It's a three-letter word, it's the N-R-A! And it's Trump and the Republicans who don't have the guts to stand up to these people, and that's pretty pathetic."

PBS' Yamiche Alcindor, The New York Times' David Brooks, MSNBC's Hugh Hewitt and NBC News' Hallie Jackson joined the broadcast's roundtable this morning to discuss the week in politics, including Friday's Texas school shooting. Jackson reports, "I spoke with a top White House official just last night. There's not an appetite to do something on this [gun violence]."

May 27, 2018

Sen. Jeff Flake (R-Ariz.) joined "Meet the Press" in an exclusive interview this morning, telling moderator Chuck Todd that he hasn't ruled out a possible 2020 presidential run: "It's not in my plans, but I have not ruled anything out. I do hope that somebody runs on the Republican side other than the president, if nothing else, simply to remind Republicans what conservatism is."

Washington Free Beacon's Matthew Continetti, NBC News' Andrea Mitchell, The Washington Post's Eugene Robinson, and The Cook Political Report's Amy Walter joined the broadcast's roundtable for insight and analysis on the week in politics, including the NFL's new anthem policy. "I don't think this was an issue until Trump made it an issue," says Walter. "I don't think Americans were sitting around thinking, 'This is what is dividing this country.'"

June 3, 2018

President Trump pardoning himself "would lead to, probably, an immediate impeachment" as terminating Special Counsel Mueller's Russia probe also "could lead to impeachment," warned Rudy Giuliani, the president's personal lawyer, this morning on NBC News' "Meet the Press with Chuck Todd."

Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau sat down with Todd in an exclusive interview from the Parliament of Canada, responding to the White House's claim that new tariffs on Canadian steel and aluminum are to protect national security interests: "Our soldiers who had fought and died together on the beaches of World War II...and the mountains of Afghanistan, and have stood shoulder to shoulder in some of the most difficult places in the world, that are always there for each other, somehow – this is insulting to that. ...The idea that we are somehow a national security threat to the United States is quite frankly insulting and unacceptable."

President Obama "took it as a given that some of the opposition to him was rooted in racism," shared Ben Rhodes, former deputy national security adviser for Obama and author of the new book, "The World As It Is," in a conversation with the roundtable. Rhodes joins NBC News and MSNBC as a political contributor.

"We know where every single child is" and "the adult they came with," Sen. James Lankford (R-Okla.) tells "Meet the Press" moderator Chuck Todd of migrant families separated at the border in an exclusive interview.

The violence, drug cartels, gangs and poverty ravaging Central America, including countries like El Salvador, have been driving people to the United States for years. El Salvador "felt, in some ways, very much like a war zone," says NBC News chief foreign correspondent Richard Engel, after reporting from the country, which has one of the highest homicide rates in the world. "We went to a prison and we met some very hardcore gang members, and one of them bragged to us that he had killed 35 people, just himself. And when you have that number of dangerous people who feel that emboldened, it is not surprising that people want to leave the country and seek different opportunities and don't want their children to get sucked into the gang life and have them become the next generation of killers or victims."

The Resurgent's Erick Erickson, The Weekly Standard's Stephen Hayes, NBC News' Kasie Hunt and Demos' Heather McGhee join the broadcast for insight and analysis on the week in politics, including President Trump's retreat this week on separating families at the border. Hayes notes, "It was the public pressure. I mean, the president didn't do this easily. This is an ad hoc president with an ad hoc decision-making process, leaving his staff and congressional Republicans to scramble in his wake and try to make things right."
