An early diagnosis can give you and your family more time to plan together, allows participation in care decisions, you and your family will be able to review and update legal documents, discuss finances and property, and identify your care preferences. The website Alz.org/TimeToTalk and Olz.org/Tiempo for Spanish speakers offers families helpful tools and resources, including information on the disease and the benefits of an early diagnosis.

Families that adopt teens provide them with stability during a critical period of their lives. Teens that have been adopted are more likely to graduate, go to college and more emotionally secure than their peers that have ‘aged out’ of the foster care without the security and encouragement of family. Inspired by real family’s stories, this honest and heartfelt campaign reveals the remarkable value of adoption for both teens and parents. With the tagline, “you can’t imagine the reward,” these emotional messages reassure prospective parents and inspire them to consider adopting a teen. Mental/Health ICOMECORRECT-70225	:30 – UFN	AUTISUM AWARENESS - Though autism can be reliably diagnosed in children as young as 18 months, most aren't diagnosed until they're between four and five—and studies indicate that age is even higher for low-income and minority children. Research shows that early diagnosis and early intervention is crucial; it can translate to a lifetime of impact by supporting healthy development, improved communication, and overall positive outcomes later in life. Our bilingual campaign featuring Julia, the four-year-old Sesame Street Muppet with autism, shows viewers that the more her family and friends understand her world, the brighter she shines. We all want to feel safe and included in the community we call home, but today too many of our neighbor's experience exclusion, isolation, harassment, and even violence on the basis of their identity. Most caregivers are family members or friends who are working, managing their own families and caring for their loved ones at the same time. For many, the caregiver role doesn't start all at once, it starts with simple things like scheduling a doctor's visit or helping with daily

Since 2011, we have encouraged caregivers to care not only for their loved ones, but also for themselves. To date, the campaign has targeted several audiences: general market women age 40-60, male caregivers age 35-60, and Hispanic/Latino and African American/Black caregivers with emphasis on women ages 35 to 60. The campaign directs viewers to AARP's Family Caregiving site, where caregivers can find free Care Guides, self-care tips, planning resources, legal and financial guidance, and more.

Community HARD AT WORK-70351	:30 – 12/31/23	DISASTER AND CRISIS RELIEF – The best way to help those affected by a humanitarian crisis is by donating money rather than goods. Financial donations help support communities in crisis and in the immediate aftermath of a disaster. Financial donations are also critical for longer-term recovery efforts – they can respond to changing needs as people move to safety, resettle, or rebuild. This campaign enables us to get into market quickly, usually within a few days of a disaster or other crisis, when funds are needed most. It's been

Our latest creative work highlights the power of authentic storytelling to showcase the forest as a place where families can deepen their connection with each other and with outdoors, while making the forest part of their story. Stories come to life at local parks and forests. They’re places full of wonder, where imagination thrives, stories come to life, and memories are made. Our campaign encourages Latino and Black parents and caregivers to make the forest part of their family story by experiencing nature firsthand.
