Narrative Description of Program/Segment

Live interview with Gretchen Peters about a brand new home schooling curriculum that she had developed. This curriculum is designed for all ages of students and was especially useful for many during the past year for those whose children were not able to attend in person school. We discussed the advantages and disadvantages of home schooling and the extra resources available in the area for those who chose that education option.

Narrative Description of Program/Segment

Discussed on the First Connection morning show details on how listeners could make donations to help the Ronald McDonald's homes in Springfield, MO. We noted that 104 Camden County residents received services from the RMC House in the Ozarks in the past year. We also talked about the James family from Buffalo, MO, and the premature birth of their daughter, Mary. She was in NICU for 6 weeks and the Ronald McDonald House was the only way they could be close to their daughter.
