This is what you call hands on training ...high school students getting a head start on a possible career in veterinary care.

I wanted to go to anesthesiology and I'm still gonna look into that but walking around I just saw the way the ICU works and I saw all the different radiology scans here and it was really nice because I've always seen veterinarians to be really boring job it's just shots in my dog is sick but you got some real action in here.

The Up-close encounter taking place at the Arizona Veterinary Emergency & Critical Care Center.

Chad eichenlaub met professional academy. approached us earlier this year and really wanted to help us build her career pathway for veterinary sciencesapproached us earlier this year and really wanted to help us build her career pathway for veterinary sciences.

Muna dallal junior dunruse mountain high school. It will help me find the career that I am interesting in which is like why I love being here.

The students spent a few hours asking questions ...observing rotations ...
Researchers at Mars Vet Health say a boom in pet adoptions and a high rate of retiring vets about 2000 each year...has led to a nationwide shortage. It's estimated nearly 41,000 additional veterinarians will be needed by 2030 to meet the growing demand... What's more 21 of the students who visited today will have opportunity for an internship next fall.

it's a structured curriculum they're going to have every opportunity to observe to learn to help to help hands on as they're comfortable and as you know regulation permits when they go in to apply for future they're gonna a leg up as far as that experience they're going to be top of the list honestly for applications in consideration in the future

4/12/23	7PM	PKG	A BREAST CANCER SURVIVOR IS TRYING OUT A NEW VACCINE TO MAKE SURE SHE STAYS IN REMISSION. THE TRIAL TREATMENT COULD SIGNAL A BREAKTHROUGH IN TREATING THE DISEASE...FOX'S MARIE EDINGER HAS THE STORY.

Jenni Davis was diagnosed with triple-negative breast cancer in 2018.

She went through chemo, a double-mastectomy, 26 rounds of radiation, and finally, reconstruction.

Jenni Davis/First Woman to Take Breast Cancer Vaccine: “With triple-negative, when you’re done with treatment, that’s kind of it. There’s nothing that I take long-term. There’s no pill. There’s nothing I take to make sure it won’t come back.”

That’s what interested her in the vaccine, and why she agreed to try it out.

Jenni Davis/First Woman to Take Breast Cancer Vaccine: “This is going to provide women with peace of mind that they’re not going to have a recurrence and then the broader scale of not worrying about triple-negative ever again is truly amazing.”

The vaccine is developed by a company called Anixa BioSciences, and studies are being done at the Cleveland Medical clinic.

This has been in the works for two decades.

In that time, the scientists have seen 0% recurrence rate in their animal studies. They’ve never had a single instance of anaphylactic shock in response to the vaccine, either.

Dr. Amit Kumar/CEO of Company Developing Breast Cancer Vaccine: “We train their immune systems to destroy these cancer cells and the cancer cells will never become a tumor... Ideally, the woman will never even know this is happening in their body.”

The study has focused on triple-negative breast cancer, which is its deadliest form.

The company thinks it’ll work on other types of breast cancer as well.

Jenni Davis/First Woman to Take Breast Cancer Vaccine: “It’s going to take a long time, of course, for everything to progress, but I’m excited.”

NEWSMAKER SUNDAY

2nd Qtr. 2023

DATE	GUEST(S)	SHOW SYNOPSIS/TOPIC
4/2/2023	Dr. Dennis Hoffman, Director of the L. William Seidman Research Institute, and Dr. Dennis Hoffman, Dir. Of ASU's Office of the University Economist	NewsMaker: Bank collapses and a change in the Phoenix City Council The collapse of Silicon Valley Bank and Signature Bank has caused a huge stir in the U.S. What are the long-term implications of those failures? We're going to answer some of those questions in the second half of the program with Dr. Dennis Hoffman, Director of the L. William Seidman Research Institute at the W. P. Carey School of Business at Arizona State. First, the Phoenix City Council is in the midst of a political sea change. Recently elected Kevin Robinson is a former Phoenix Police officer, professor at ASU, and the new councilman for District 6.
4/9/2023	Arizona Rep. Debbie Lesko, Sheriff Mark Lamb	Thank you for joining us for this week's NewsMaker Saturday with John Hook. We're talking with Pinal County Sheriff Mark Lamb about the border crisis later in the program, but we begin with Arizona Congresswoman Debbie Lesko, a Republican who's represented Arizona's 8th district since 2018. These are the suburbs north and west of Phoenix, and the district that includes several retirement communities, including Sun City West.
4/16/2023	Roger Pielke, Jr., a professor of environmental studies at the University of Colorado Boulder	What do we really know about climate change? In this episode of John Hook's NewsMaker Saturday, we're looking into the science surrounding climate change. It's the singular issue that seems to be driving nearly all our big public policy decisions right now from energy to national security to our relationship with the planet. The questions are, do we really have a handle on warming? What's causing it? How big of a problem is it? Are the dire warnings outpacing the actual threat? Roger Pielke, Jr. is a professor of environmental studies at the University of Colorado Boulder, one of the world's leading authorities on natural disasters and climate change.
4/23/2023	Xavier Gutierrez, President and CEO of the Arizona Coyotes, and Dawn Penich-Thacker	Coyotes entertainment district: Yea or nay? Tempe residents will be getting their mail-in ballots to decide if they want to build a new hockey arena for the Arizona Coyotes in a massive entertainment district on the banks of the Salt River, just west of Tempe Town Lake. It's a $2.1 billion project. In the second half of this program, we will hear from Dawn Penich-Thacker, representing the group that opposes the plan, but let's begin with the president and CEO of the Arizona Coyotes, Xavier Gutierrez.
4/30/2023	Austin Aslan, Vice May of Flagstaff and FOX 10's Justin Lum	Flood-ridden Arizona areas, Lori Vallow case In this episode of John Hook's NewsMaker Saturday, we're first hearing from Vice Mayor of Flagstaff, Austin Aslan, as the beautiful northern Arizona city is experiencing water cascading in the neighborhoods, parks, and developments ever since fires burned in the mountains over the last several years. On top of that, we're talking about the unbelievable winter snowpack that's accumulated in that part of the state that's greatly improved drought conditions all across Arizona. In the second half, we're catching up with FOX 10's Justin Lum on the "doomsday mom" murder trial. The trial of Lori Vallow, the Arizona mom accused of killing her kids, JJ Vallow and Tylee Ryan. He spent two weeks in Boise, Idaho getting a feel for the trial's impact on the community, hearing and seeing graphic testimony and evidence, all while getting to see Lori's reaction, or apparent lack thereof, to these testimonies while in the courtroom with her.

5/7/2023	John R. Modlin, Chief Border Patrol Agent and Kendal Toole, Fitness Instructor	Title 42 end nears; Peloton instructor on mental health Newsmaker In this episode of John Hook's Newsmaker Saturday, we're talking about the impending end of Title 42 with the chief border patrol agent for the Tucson sector, John R. Modlin. John also talks about mental health with one of his favorite fitness instructors, Kendall Toole, who's become an inspiration to millions of Americans suffering from depression and mental illness.
5/14/2023	Visit to "The Zone"	John Hook takes us inside 'The Zone' Newsmaker Saturday This week's Newsmaker Saturday comes to you from downtown Phoenix at 13th Avenue and Jefferson Street inside Old Station Sub Shop. It's been here for 37 years. The only problem is now it finds itself on the edge of the massive homeless encampment known as "The Zone," home to about 1,000 homeless people in Phoenix, and this has created problems for business owners, and nobody knows it better than Joe Faillace. John also heads into "The Zone" to hear the stories of the people living there.
5/21/2023	FOX's Rebekah Castor and Sheriff Mark Dannels in Cochise County	What the end of Title 42 means Newsmaker In this episode of John Hook's Newsmaker Saturday, we're taking on the topic of the end of Title 42. Tens of thousands of migrants from countries all over the world right now are entering our country. They will be processed and, for the most part, released into the country's interior. We're talking with FOX's Rebekah Castor who was in El Paso, Texas. Over in Cochise County, Arizona, we're hearing from Sheriff Mark Dannels about the impact the policy's end will have on his county, which is already seeing hundreds of migrants cross over each day.
5/28/2023	Steve Sanghi, Executive Chair of Microchip Technology, Inc.	Semiconductor boom in Arizona Newsmaker FOX 10's John Hook talks with Steve Sanghi, executive chair of Microchip Technology, Inc., on the continued growth of the semiconductor industry in Arizona.
6/4/2023	Jason Smith's story and Christina Carilla in our nation's capitol	Life-changing journey for Arizonan Newsmaker In this episode of John Hook's Newsmaker Saturday, we begin with the story of a Phoenix man who checked out of his life and decided to live on the streets of America, traveling town-to-town and documenting others who are struggling along the way. This is Jason Smith's story. In the second segment, we're talking with our own Christina Carilla as she embarks on a trip of a lifetime with American veterans from various hard-fought battles. They're visiting our nation's capitol while on an Honor Flight trip to see how they're honored, as well as those who've passed on are being remembered..
6/11/2023	Jeremy Corbell, a UFO expert, and Charlie Minn, filmmaker	UFOs & a controversial documentary In this episode of John Hook's Newsmaker Saturday, we're talking with Jeremy Corbell about UFOs. In the second segment, we hear from filmmaker Charlie Minn who created "77 Minutes: Surviving the Uvalde Mass Shooting."
6/18/2023	Paul Geithner, NASA Deputy Project Manager and Matt Napolitano w/ Fox News Radio	Arizona's water future; PGA-LIV Golf merger Part 1: Paul Gardner, water resources director for the city of Queen Creek joins John Hook to talk about the implications of using less Colorado River water. Part 2: Matt Napolitano with FOX News Radio talks to John about the PGA-LIV Golf merger, which is complicated due to the relationship between the U.S. and the Saudi government.
6/25/2023	Maggie O'Haire and Jason Nelson	K9s for Warriors & a burn survivor's story In this week's Newsmaker Saturday, Christina Carilla fills in for John Hook and chats first with Maggie O'Haire, with K9s for Warriors and the impact our furry friends can have on our vets. We then talk with Jason Nelson who is a burn survivor and the challenges he's faced and overcome.
