On January 4, 2023 the following individuals were identified by me as being “active members of the community” that I feel have a great understanding of local community issues.

- Luke Fodor, Rector at St. Luke’s Episcopal Church
- Kirk Young, VP of Student Affairs at Jamestown Community College
- June Dietrich, Retired from Chautauqua Community Foundation
- Paul Lombardo, Retired Teacher of Jamestown Public Schools
- Dan Heitzenrater, President of Chautauqua County Chamber of Commerce
- Savannah Zimmerman, Administrator of Warren County Chamber of Commerce
- Blake Tarana, Owner/Operator of Tim Hortons in Jamestown, NY
- John Jablonski, Executive Director of Chautauqua Watershed Conservancy
- Mark Eckendorf, Retired CEO of Jamestown Area Y.M.C.A.
- Kim Holt, Executive Director of Family Services of Warren County
- Jeff Eggleston, Community Member in Warren County Pennsylvania
- Benjamin Chase, Chief of Sugar Grove Volunteer Fire Department

Each was sent the following text in the form of an email: The Federal Communications Commission mandates that we identify and air a certain amount of programming that is responsive to “significant needs, issues and problems within the local community.” Most of these issues are covered in our weekly public affairs program that is produced by our News Director, Terry Frank. Would you be willing to submit a list of (5) FIVE issues that you feel we should be aware of? They may be obvious ongoing issues or perhaps something you have a closer connection with. As you are probably aware, our staff is very involved in the community and although we are confident in our own determination of what problems there are, we feel it is in our best interest to reach out to active community members, such as yourself, that may have their own insight as to what community issues we should focus more on.

I believe this effort will help our stations provide programming that addresses true issues within our communities of license.
