ISSUES COVERED: Environment

PROGRAM: News Cast

LENGTH: :30

DATE / TIME AIRED: 1/5/24 Multiple times throughout the day

DESCRIPTION: Laboratory tests show the bird flu is likely what killed nearly three-dozen geese last month at Duck Creek Quarry in Howard. Some of the dead birds were sent to Madison to be tested by the Department of Natural Resources. The test results are back now, and Howard's animal control officer says they point to suspected bird flu. The quarry and trails around it are closed, and will stay closed until at least five straight days of no sick or dead birds.

ISSUES COVERED: Education

PROGRAM: Newscast

LENGTH: 30 seconds

DATE / TIME AIRED: 1/8/24

DESCRIPTION: Tonight could be an important night for the future of the De Pere school district. The school board is set to meet tonight to discuss two referendums that could go on the ballot this year. Voters could be asked in April for four-point-75 million-dollar a year for five years to pay for salaries, extracurricular activities, utilities, technology, and security. A capital referendum in November would seek money for renovations, blacktop repairs, roofs on schools, and new heating and air conditioning.

DATE / TIME AIRED: 1/8/24 Multiple times throughout the day

DESCRIPTION: Environmentalists are urging people to use less salt this winter. The Fox-Wolf Watershed Alliance notes it only takes one teaspoon of salt to make five gallons of water toxic in lakes, streams, and groundwater. Salt is bad for pets, too, and it costs more than five-billion dollars a year to fix salt-damaged infrastructure. The group Wisconsin Salt Wise is hosting daily livestreams on proper salting from the 22nd through the 26th on YouTube.

ISSUES COVERED: Education

PROGRAM: Newscasts

LENGTH: 30 seconds

DATE / TIME AIRED: 1/9/24 Multiple times during day

DESCRIPTION: Voters in De Pere will decide if the school district can increase spending this spring. The school board last night scheduled a four-point-75-million-dollar referendum for April 2nd. The school district expects a three-million-dollar deficit in the next school year. School officials say the deficit will grow to almost seven-million after that, if nothing's done. The district may go back to voters in November to ask for 22-million dollars for building projects.

---

ISSUES COVERED: Public Health

PROGRAM: Newscasts

LENGTH: 30 seconds

DATE / TIME AIRED: 1/10/24 Multiple times throughout the day

DESCRIPTION: COVID-19 transmission is running high in Appleton, where wastewater evidence shows the highest levels in almost two years. A pediatrician at ThedaCare tells Channel 5 that viruses tend to thrive in cooler weather. The holiday season peaked at more than 727-million. That compares to more than 844-million in early 2022. The spike has tapered off, but numbers could climb again. Doctors say getting vaccinated and practicing good hygiene are the best protection.

ISSUES COVERED: Public Health

PROGRAM: Newscasts

LENGTH: 30 seconds

DATE / TIME AIRED: 1/11/14 Multiple times throughout the day

DESCRIPTION: Officials in Howard, and with the federal government, want to know if there are any lead pipes in the village. About a-thousand property owners in Howard just got letters asking them to identify what kinds of service lines are in their homes or businesses. They want property owners to take pictures of their service lines and email those pictures to village hall. Village officials say they want to have the inventory done before the end of the year.

ISSUES COVERED: Crime Prevention

PROGRAM: Newscasts

LENGTH: 30 seconds

DATE / TIME AIRED: 1/16/24

DESCRIPTION: Green Bay police say the city is getting safer. The police department reports a little more than 61-hundred crimes were reported in the city last year. That's down from more than seven-thousand in 2022; a 13-percent drop. The number of homicides held steady at six each year. Assaults dropped 17-percent, and the number of thefts fell by 23-percent. Retail theft went down 30-percent. Police Chief Chris Davis says he's pleased to see crime-reduction efforts paying off.

PROGRAM: Newscasts

LENGTH: 30 seconds

DATE / TIME AIRED: 1/16/24 Multiple times throughout the day

DESCRIPTION: The Martin Luther King holiday is more than a day off from work or school for many in northeast Wisconsin. Some chose to honor Doctor King's memory through acts of service, like employees at Feeding America Eastern Wisconsin. They tell Channel 5 they've been volunteering at the Oshkosh Area Community Pantry for the last five MLK days. Lawrence University held its King Day celebration at its Memorial Chapel for the first time since 2019.

ISSUES COVERED: Taxes

PROGRAM: Newscasts

LENGTH: 30 seconds

DATE / TIME AIRED: 1/18/24 Multiple times throughout the day

DESCRIPTION: Brown County leaders are reminding homeowners having trouble paying their property taxes that there's help. The statewide, federally-funded Wisconsin Help for Homeowners Program provides money for homeowners hit financially by the COVID-19 pandemic. Tax delinquencies in Brown County went up about 13-percent last year, over the year before. About 330 Brown County households are eligible, but homeowners are urged to act quickly.
