

KAGU Public Affairs Programming

October 1 – December 31, 2017

KAGU-FM is licensed to the Gonzaga University Telecommunication Association and operated by students of the Broadcast Studies division of the Communication Arts Department.

Responding to the needs of our listeners, KAGU originates, monitors and retransmits, and documents transmissions from the Emergency Alert System (EAS). Following the mission and purpose of Gonzaga University, and in support of our commitment to contribute to the fine arts in the Spokane community, the format of full-time classical music meets a significant cultural need.

KAGU Public Affairs Programming

July 1 - September 30, 2017

KAGU-FM is licensed to the Gonzaga University Telecommunication Association and operated by students of the Broadcast Studies division of the Communication Arts Department.

Responding to the needs of our listeners, KAGU originates, monitors and retransmits, and documents transmissions from the Emergency Alert System (EAS). Following the mission and purpose of Gonzaga University, and in support of our commitment to contribute to the fine arts in the Spokane community, the format of full-time classical music meets a significant cultural need. At this time, no other radio station in the Spokane area programs full-time classical music twenty four hours each day, seven days a week. Gonzaga University makes this contribution without directly soliciting funds from KAGU listeners.

KAGU Public Affairs Programming

April 1 -- June 30, 2017

KAGU-FM is licensed to the Gonzaga University Telecommunication Association and operated by students of the Broadcast Studies division of the Communication Arts Department.

Responding to the needs of our listeners, KAGU originates, monitors and retransmits, and documents transmissions from the Emergency Alert System (EAS). Following the mission and purpose of Gonzaga University, and in support of our commitment to contribute to the fine arts in the Spokane community, the format of full-time classical music meets a significant cultural need. At this time, no other radio station in the Spokane area programs full-time classical music twenty four hours each day, seven days a week. Gonzaga University offers this programming as a public service to listeners in the Inland Northwest.

KAGU Public Affairs Programming

January 1 through March 31, 2017

KAGU-FM is licensed to the Gonzaga University Telecommunication Association and operated by students of the Broadcast Studies division of the Communication Arts Department.

Responding to the needs of our listeners, KAGU originates, monitors and retransmits, and documents transmissions from the Emergency Alert System (EAS). Following the mission and purpose of Gonzaga University, and in support of our commitment to contribute to the fine arts in the Spokane community, the format of full-time classical music meets a significant cultural need. At this time, no other radio station in the Spokane area programs full-time classical music twenty four hours each day, seven days a week. Gonzaga University offers this programming as a public service to listeners in the Inland Northwest.

KAGU Public Affairs Programming

October 1 – December 31, 2016

KAGU-FM is licensed to the Gonzaga University Telecommunication Association and operated by students of the Broadcast Studies division of the Communication Arts Department.

Responding to the needs of our listeners, KAGU originates, monitors and retransmits, and documents transmissions from the Emergency Alert System (EAS). Following the mission and purpose of Gonzaga University, and in support of our commitment to contribute to the fine arts in the Spokane community, the format of full-time classical music meets a significant cultural need.

KAGU Public Affairs Programming

July 1 - September 30, 2016

KAGU-FM is licensed to the Gonzaga University Telecommunication Association and operated by students of the Broadcast Studies division of the Communication Arts Department.

Responding to the needs of our listeners, KAGU originates, monitors and retransmits, and documents transmissions from the Emergency Alert System (EAS). Following the mission and purpose of Gonzaga University, and in support of our commitment to contribute to the fine arts in the Spokane community, the format of full-time classical music meets a significant cultural need. At this time, no other radio station in the Spokane area programs full-time classical music twenty four hours each day, seven days a week. Gonzaga University makes this contribution without directly soliciting funds from KAGU listeners.

KAGU Public Affairs Programming

April 1 -- June 30, 2016

KAGU-FM is licensed to the Gonzaga University Telecommunication Association and operated by students of the Broadcast Studies division of the Communication Arts Department.

Responding to the needs of our listeners, KAGU originates, monitors and retransmits, and documents transmissions from the Emergency Alert System (EAS). Following the mission and purpose of Gonzaga University, and in support of our commitment to contribute to the fine arts in the Spokane community, the format of full-time classical music meets a significant cultural need. At this time, no other radio station in the Spokane area programs full-time classical music twenty four hours each day, seven days a week. Gonzaga University offers this programming as a public service to listeners in the Inland Northwest.

KAGU Public Affairs Programming

January 1 through March 31, 2016

KAGU-FM is licensed to the Gonzaga University Telecommunication Association and operated by students of the Broadcast Studies division of the Communication Arts Department.

Responding to the needs of our listeners, KAGU originates, monitors and retransmits, and documents transmissions from the Emergency Alert System (EAS). Following the mission and purpose of Gonzaga University, and in support of our commitment to contribute to the fine arts in the Spokane community, the format of full-time classical music meets a significant cultural need. At this time, no other radio station in the Spokane area programs full-time classical music twenty four hours each day, seven days a week. Gonzaga University offers this programming as a public service to listeners in the Inland Northwest.

KAGU Public Affairs Programming

October 1 – December 31, 2015

KAGU-FM is licensed to the Gonzaga University Telecommunication Association and operated by students of the Broadcast Studies division of the Communication Arts Department.

Responding to the needs of our listeners, KAGU originates, monitors and retransmits, and documents transmissions from the Emergency Alert System (EAS). Following the mission and purpose of Gonzaga University, and in support of our commitment to contribute to the fine arts in the Spokane community, the format of full-time classical music meets a significant cultural need.

KAGU Public Affairs Programming

July 1 - September 30, 2015

KAGU-FM is licensed to the Gonzaga University Telecommunication Association and operated by students of the Broadcast Studies division of the Communication Arts Department.

Responding to the needs of our listeners, KAGU originates, monitors and retransmits, and documents transmissions from the Emergency Alert System (EAS). Following the mission and purpose of Gonzaga University, and in support of our commitment to contribute to the fine arts in the Spokane community, the format of full-time classical music meets a significant cultural need. At this time, no other radio station in the Spokane area programs full-time classical music twenty four hours each day, seven days a week. Gonzaga University makes this contribution without directly soliciting funds from KAGU listeners.

KAGU Public Affairs Programming

April 1 -- June 30, 2015

KAGU-FM is licensed to the Gonzaga University Telecommunication Association and operated by students of the Broadcast Studies division of the Communication Arts Department.

Responding to the needs of our listeners, KAGU originates, monitors and retransmits, and documents transmissions from the Emergency Alert System (EAS). Following the mission and purpose of Gonzaga University, and in support of our commitment to contribute to the fine arts in the Spokane community, the format of full-time classical music meets a significant cultural need. At this time, no other radio station in the Spokane area programs full-time classical music twenty four hours each day, seven days a week. Gonzaga University offers this programming as a public service to listeners in the Inland Northwest.