SEGMENT 1: FORCED BEHAVIORAL TREATMENT PROGRAMS
Time Duration

Synopsis: Each year, thousands of young adults are sent to long-term, in-patient behavioral centers that are seen as the last resort for troubled teens. Their parents often sign off on this treatment because they believe that this 'tough love' route is the only answer to turning things around. Journalist and author, Kenneth R. Rosen joins Viewpoints this week to share his own adolescent experience at three of these centers and the long-term damage this type of treatment can wreak on young minds.

1:47 9:07

SEGMENT 1: THE TULSA RACE MASSACRE

Time Duration

Synopsis: In the early 1900's, the Greenwood District in Tulsa, Oklahoma was commonly referred to as the 'Black Wall Street'. It was a predominantly African American town that was booming due to the nearby discovery of oil. It was a wonderful place to live, work and raise a family – but that all changed on May 31, 1921. In a matter of hours, the town was burnt to ashes and its estimated that up to 300 people were murdered. Historian Scott Ellsworth tells the largely untold story of the 1921 Tulsa Race Massacre.

1:47 10:25

Host: Gary Price

Guests: Dr. Scott Ellsworth, lecturer, Department of Afroamerican and African Studies, University of Michigan, author, Death in a Promised Land, The Ground Breaking: An American City and Its Search for Justice.

SEGMENT 1: A SHIFTING SUBURBIA: THE IMPACT OF COVID-19
Time Duration

Synopsis: Congested roads. Crumbling parking lots. Vacant strip malls. These are some of the challenges that suburbs across the country are facing today. What to do with the vacant retail and office space? How do you make people less dependent on cars and more active? Architect June Williamson is a proponent of mixed-use developments that create more efficient suburbia. This vision creates a 15-minute suburb where basic amenities and activities are walkable, and spaces bring people together rather than dividing them with large, empty lawns, lots and physical structures.

1:47 8:39

Host: Gary Price

Guests: June Williamson, architect, associate professor of architecture, City College of New York, co-author, Retrofitting Suburbia: Urban Design Strategies for Urgent Challenges.

SEGMENT 2: WORKING WITHIN THE OIL SECTOR
Time    Duration

Synopsis: The oil and gas industry employs millions of workers. In 2018, 6.7 million Americans worked within the traditional energy sector. Yet, when we often hear about the industry, it's entangled in political and environmental news. Rarely does it look at the workers themselves and the challenging and physical barriers of the job. In 2013, Michael Patrick Smith moved from Brooklyn, New York to Williston, North Dakota to work as an oil swamper. He joins us this week on Viewpoints.    12:35    9:05
