ISSUE:

What is being done to ensure on-campus housing is safe?

Discussion of Issue:

Ensuring the safety of students on campus is one of the university's priorities. Since the closure of Belmont Hall, the dorms have seen more people living in the new housing options on campus. The resident assistants live on-campus and monitor residence life and are involved in the safety operations in the dorms.

Programming: KTSC-FM addressed this issue through several different kinds of programs, including public affairs discussions, news stories, and PSA'S. The following are illustrative examples of such programming:

- a. T-Wolf Talk                      02/07/16                      7:30 a.m. – 7:45 a.m.
Quatisha Franklin, the director of the Health Education and Prevention program on campus discussed the most commonly abused drugs in the community. She explained how her office is responsible for helping students who are addicted to drugs and/or alcohol. Additionally, she provided information about available resources to help individuals struggling with their addiction and what support groups are available on campus to help students be accountable and stay on a clean path. (Local).
