ISSUES OF CONCERN TO KDWN
ADDRESSED IN RESPONSIVE PROGRAMMING IN THE 2ND QUARTER, 2014

1. ELECTION/POLITICS: Politics is heating up as Nevada approaches the mid-term elections. Small business tax considerations remain at the forefront as enterprises struggle to maintain their store fronts. State revenue declines are still a drawback to recovery as well as maintaining balanced state, county and city government budgets.
2. ECONOMY/TOURISM: Job loss in Nevada is still creating a ripple effect that is only further complicating the economic downturn. While tourism is starting to bounce back, visitors are spending less money.
3. HOUSING: Home prices are lower which has been good for buyers but not sellers. The foreclosure crisis is still severely impacting Nevadans. Apartment rents are down but more units are still vacant.
4. EDUCATION: Local educators stress that the system can not withstand further budget cuts for education without adversely impacting classroom instruction. Plans are being considered to make for a better K-12 and higher education system in the state.
5. CRIME: There has been a rash of gun violence in the Las Vegas valley as well as home invasion style break-ins. Drunken driving remains an area of concern.
6. HEALTH: Health care reform talk on Capitol Hill has Nevadans concerned as it could affect their coverage and how much they pay for it.
7. CHILDREN: Child abuse and endangerment crimes have been in the spotlight with questions raised if they may be linked to a poor economy.
8. TRANSPORTATION: Nevada is looking to maintain its roads while building for the future. Changes at the DMV include the new driver's privilege cards for non-citizens. Will I-11 become a reality?
9. ENVIRONMENT/ENERGY: Green energy is catching on as more grants are being given to help move such projects along and put people to work. Renewable energy, such as wind power, in the Southern Nevada area is also getting added attention.
10. COMMUNITY OUTREACH: This encompasses lifestyle choices, including issues involving the gay and lesbian community.
