CIVIC ISSUES:

10/07/12 8:00AM 00:23:40

WHIO REPORTS: This program kicked off a series of special programs focusing on election issues we'll see on the ballot in November. With early voting starting some people have already made their choices in the election. This show focused on State Issue Two. It deals with proposed changes in the state system for setting up new legislative districts in Ohio. The boundaries are re-drawn every ten years after the census to reflect changes in population here and across the nation. An Ohio-based group collected petition signatures to put the issue on the ballot. This ballot issue is a constitutional amendment. Our guests include: Gary Leppla, Voters First Ohio; Kevin DeWine, Protect Your Vote Ohio; Jackie Borchardt, Dayton Daily News Columbus. VOTERS FIRST OHIO 545 E. Town Street, Columbus, OH 43215 614.733.VFOH (8364) website: <http://votersfirstohio.com>; PROTECT YOUR VOTE OHIO 88 East Broad St. Suite 1770 Columbus, Ohio 43215 614-204-2242 <http://protectyourvoteohio.com/>; DAYTON DAILY NEW COLUMBUS 34 S 3rd St, Columbus, OH 43215 614-224-1608 www.daytondailynews.com

11/25/12 9:00AM 00:12:43

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 2: It used to be that cocktail parties were formal affairs, where men wore suits or tuxes, and a woman dressed up in her best frock or evening gown. When hosts served wine at dinner, it was very, very important to pair each course with it's own, special bottle. How things have changed! We talk to a cocktail aficionado about cocktail culture and history; and a humor columnist about how wines have gotten less fussy, and more "macho" – and are even being paired with food truck fare. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Lesley Blume, author of "Let's Bring Back: The Cocktail Edition," (www.lesleymblume.com); Joel Stein, journalist, humor columnist for TIME Magazine, author of "Man Made: A stupid quest for masculinity," spokesperson for Stark Raving Wines, (www.thejoelstein.com) (www.starkravingwines.com) COMPLIANCY ISSUES COVERED: popular culture; arts & literature; consumerism

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 2: At Christmas, 1937, a very special movie was scheduled to open across the country, ushering in a new era in animated features. Unfortunately, “Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs” only managed to open in one theater that December, but it soon became a worldwide hit. We talk to an author and film expert about why this Disney movie is so special, the ups and downs Walt Disney and his staff went through to create it, and the innovations in film animation that made “Snow White” a much beloved film even 75 years after its premiere. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: J.B. Kaufman, film historian, author on staff of the Walt Disney Family Foundation, author of “The Fairest One of All: The making of Walt Disney’s Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs,” (www.waltdisney.org). COMPLIANCY ISSUES COVERED: arts & entertainment, commerce, technology, communication

ECONOMY ISSUES:

10/14/12 9:00AM 00:10:46

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: Although the economy is rebounding, many people are still feeling stress over their jobs, mortgages, retirement situation and all of the other things that have been affected by the downturn. One of the ways people deal with stress is to use money as a way to feel in control, raise self-esteem or deal with grief and loss. We talk to a best-selling author and a psychiatrist about how people can get into financial and emotional trouble when their lives are wrapped up with making, spending and hoarding money. Host: Christopher Michael. Guests: Hill Harper, actor, “CSI: NY,” best-selling author of “The Wealth Cure: Putting money in its place,” (www.manifestyourdestiny.org); Dr. David Reiss, psychiatrist in private practice in San Diego, CA (www.dmrynamics.com). COMPLIANCY ISSUES COVERED: finance, mental health issues, consumerism, family issues

GREENE COUNTY / MIAMI COUNTY REPORTS: Guest David Goldston, Director, Government Affairs for the Natural Resources Defense Council in DC, discussed what the proposed sequestration cuts would mean for the Miami Valley in these areas:

ISSUE & DESCRIPTIONDATETIMELENGTH

- The National Park System: According to the National Parks and Conservation Association there are 300 million yearly visitors to our national parks; visits that support more than $31 billion in spending and about 258,000 jobs. The sequester cuts could force closing national parks, park campgrounds and visitor centers, which would negatively impact the economy and private sector jobs tied to the park system which includes more than 400 national parks, monuments and sites.
- National Wildlife Refuges & Fish and Wildlife Conservation: About 45 million people visit national wildlife refuges yearly, visits that generate $4.2 billion in economic activity and 35,000 jobs, according to Defenders of Wildlife. For each 1 percent cut, in refuge visits there would be a loss of nearly $17 million in economic activity.
- National Forests: Our National Forest System covers a vast diversity of land ranging from alpine tundra to tropical rainforests, wetlands to grasslands. While we often think of the beauty we experience in forest lands, it might surprise some to know that 66 million Americans rely on water originating from the forest system, according to American Forests
- Clean Water: Water is essential to life, to healthy communities, a prosperous economy and clean environment. America's water treatment infrastructure is crucial to the delivery of clean drinking water we all enjoy every day. Yet the sequestration cuts would reduce federal funding that communities use to replace aging or broken water and sewage systems, either delaying the work or raising the cost to local taxpayers. NRDC says many American cities have water supply pipes that are, on average, 100 years old.
- EPA Health Research: Some health and environment research conducted by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is unique and could be cut under sequestration, according to NRDC. The 8.2 percent mandated sequestration reductions will slice into critical research to understand and reduce diseases and disabilities like scientific research into possible environmental sources causing asthma and autism could be delayed or eliminated. The cuts also would affect the EPA's air monitoring programs, which are necessary for researchers and the public to understand how local activities such as oil and gas drilling may lead to air emissions of toxic contaminants linked to birth defects, asthma, heart disease, and cancer. Also potentially impacted is the EPA's research into the many new nanotechnologies used in consumer products, pesticides and industrial products. It could be difficult for the EPA to fulfill its responsibilities under the law to perform safety assessments needed to safeguard the public from potential harmful effects on reproduction and brain development.

EDUCATION ISSUES:

10/07/12 9:00AM 00:12:11

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: Back in the early part of the 20th century, one-room schoolhouses were a common sight in many rural areas. Those buildings are gone, but the concept of having more than one grade in a classroom, and students having the same teacher for two, three or more years is gaining converts. We talk to three educators about the benefits and challenges of "multiage" classrooms and "looping" students and teachers for several years. Host: Christopher Michael. Guests: David Marshak, educator, researcher, author of "Kids Need the Same Teacher for More Than One Year," (www.kidsneedthesameteacher.net); Jenny Williams, kindergarten and 1st grade facilitator, Santa Clarita Valley International Charter School, CA (www.scvicharterschool.org); Michael Kelly, Asst. In this show we talked to the people on the front lines, The Salvation Army. We talked about their holiday fundraising: The Red Kettle Campaign. Each year volunteers ring bells outside stores and collect money. We talked about how much money is raised and how that money goes to help families in need. We also talked about how anyone can get involved helping the Salvation Army all year long. Guests include: Maj. Barb Duperree, Salvation Army; Maj. Tom Duperree, Salvation Army. SALVATION ARMY1000 North Keowee Street Dayton, OH 45404 (937) 528-5100 http://www.use.salvationarmy.org	12/02/12	8:00AM	00:24:30
VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 2: If Hurricane Sandy taught us anything, it's that it pays to prepare for the worst, and hope for the best. There was nothing that could be done about the billions in property damage, but so many didn't have to die, and many businesses could have stayed up and running with the right emergency plan. We talk to two disaster specialists about what individuals and companies can do to be more prepared in the event of a natural or man-made disaster. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Braxton Southwick, author of "A Letter to My Friends," and a prepper featured in National Geographic Channel's "Doomsday Preppers," (www.channel.nationalgeographic.com); Nicolas Dubus, IT Director, CableOrganizer.com. COMPLIANCY ISSUES COVERED: disaster planning, commerce, technology, terrorism, gun issues, public health, religion	12/02/12	9:00AM	00:11:46
RADIO HEALTH JOURNAL: SEGMENT 1: Many states delayed implementation of provisions of the Affordable Care Act, thinking they might not have to do it at all should a Republican President be elected. Now that President Obama has been reelected, states may have to scramble to set up health insurance exchanges, or accept Federal help. The Supreme Court has also allowed states to refuse Medicaid expansion, a major means to cover the currently uninsured. Experts explain the negotiations that will determine how the law is implemented.	12/02/12	9:30AM	00:13:23
