

QUARTERLY ISSUES/PROGRAMS LIST

There follows a listing of some of the significant issues responded to by Station WXLV, Greensboro, NC, along with the most significant programming treatment of those issues for the period of 4th quarter, 2015. The listing is by no means exhaustive. The order in which the issues appear does not reflect any priority or significance.

Program Title	Issue/Program Segment	Date	Time	Duration	Narration of Type and Description of Program/Segment
Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Nurse Anesthesiology	10/3/15	7:30am	28:30	Michael Rieker of Wake Forest Baptist Medical Center talked about their Nurse Anesthesiology curriculum and about the high demand today for that profession, especially in smaller towns and rural areas.
Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Women to Women	10/10/15	7:30am	28:30	June Basden and Misty McCall of the Community Foundation of Greater Greensboro talked about that organization's "Women to Women" program in which professional women come together to discuss ways to get involved in philanthropic efforts to benefit less fortunate women in the community.
Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Social Security Disability	10/10/15	7:30am	28:30	David Daggett and Griff Shuler of the Daggett Shuler law firm educated viewers about how to collect on social security disability benefits. Given the red tape involved it is advisable to contact an attorney for assistance in securing these benefits which are owed to you by law.
Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Hunger Crisis	10/24/15	7:30am	28:30	Clyde Fitzgerald, executive director of the 2 nd Harvest Food Bank gave an update on food shortages and told viewers that childhood hunger is on the rise in the Triad area. Clyde has initiated a number of programs to deal with the problem including summer lunch programs and weekend backpack lunch programs for low income students.
Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Distracted Driving	10/24/15	7:30am	28:30	David Daggett of the Daggett Shuler Law Firm talked about the dangers of distracted driving. He advised viewers not to talk on cell phones while driving or to text while driving. Daggett has launched an ad campaign including billboards to encourage drivers to change their behavior.

Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Thanksgiving Fund	11/7/15	7:30am	28:30	Mary Lacklen, a local restaurant executive, talked about her role as board member for the Community Foundation of Greater Greensboro's Thanksgiving Fund, which is used to provide meals and assistance to families in need.
Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Tech Night	11/14/15	7:30am	28:30	David Mounts, Chairman and CEO of INMA, talked about his company's commitment to teaching young people about technology and data analytics in hopes that they will eventually pursue a career in a STEM field (Science, Technology, Engineering & Math). Tech night is just one of the many activities INMAR sponsors that also allows adults to meet with INMAR staff to learn how to use their computers more effectively.
Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Workforce Development	11/14/15	7:30am	28:30	Bryle Hatch, director of Workforce Development for Randolph Community College talked about how the college offers curriculum that is tailored to the needs of local employers so as to better insure job placement after graduation.
Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Alzheimer's Awareness	11/21/15	7:30am	28:30	Kathy Long, who works at the Williams Center, discussed adult day care services provided to watch over Alzheimer's patients while giving family caregivers a respite. The Williams Center is operated through Senior Services, Inc. which also provides over one thousand hot meals to homebound seniors each day.
Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Diversity and Development	11/28/15	7:30am	28:30	King Shotobi of Nigeria, Philanthropists Bob Brown and Keith Grandberry discussed economic development efforts underway between Nigeria and American companies. Also discussed was the Black Philanthropy initiative of the Winston-Salem Foundation and why it is important for African American business leaders to give back to the community.
Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Distance Learning	12/5/15	7:30am	28:30	Jennifer Jones of Alamance Community College reported on how the college is expanding its digital and distance learning courses in order to better serve and accommodate students who need to take courses via the internet so they can also work a part-time or full-time job.

Triad Today (Community Affairs)	Help for Terminal Patients	12/12/15	7:30am	28:30	Sheila Jones, director of marketing for Mountain Valley Hospice and Palliative Care let viewers know that if they have a family member who has been diagnosed with a terminal illness they should make an appointment right away to learn more about hospice care, which can be administered in the home.