To supplement and enhance the educational value of the network's "Teen NBC" programs, NBC has a website (www.nbc.com/tNBC) specifically dedicated to teens. The design of this site not only brings teens to the website for entertainment, but provides a valuable means of amplifying the educational content of the shows by bringing teens to a new level of exploration for the subjects presented in the shows.

Highlights of the website include the feature "How Do You Rate?" which allows viewers to explore in depth many of the difficult issues TNBC characters face each week, including substance abuse, sexual harassment, peer pressure, competition, violence, conflict resolution and many critical family issues. Teens take quizzes and surveys to see how they would handle these situations, and through video clips, compare their responses with each show's resolution. "How Do You Rate?" will also collect data and allow teens to see how their answers compare with other teens on the site.

Other features of the website include the "Take A Stand" section which encourages teens to get involved in community service by profiling teen volunteers and voluntary organizations across the country, and the "College Connection" section which features links for teens to get information on college scholarship opportunities.
