b) Initiative: Participation in a Program Sponsored by Educational Institutions:

On March 20, 21 & 22, 2019 Blueberry Broadcasting hosted a high school student that is interested in pursuing a career in radio broadcasting. The student was provided the opportunity to visit our business and learn first-hand what our employees experience on a day-to-day basis. He was able to observe activities, ask questions and gain a better understanding of what is expected daily. He was able to experience all aspects of our facilities. He spent quality time with our Director of Programming & Operations, our Digital Support team, On-Air and production.

On July 31st, 2019 Blueberry Broadcasting News Director and On-Air Personality Ric Tyler was invited to speak to a group of student campers at the New England School of Communications media camp. The summer camp hosts students from Maine and from across New England for several days of informative sessions. Ric began his animated and interactive discussion challenging the students with questions that drew an understanding of the ratings process that is so crucial to television and radio. He touched on such points as diaries, people meters, telephone reminders to participants and the flaws inherent in the system. They then delved into the concept to exploiting the flaws in an effort to accrue the needed ratings to make for a successful career in broadcasting. He then led the future broadcasters in a thesis of how many broadcasters enter the profession with hopes of garnering love/affection/adulation, money and/or power/responsibility. They then studied the early broadcast careers of two former colleagues to explain how attempting to move into larger markets may require them to sacrifice one of the aforementioned attributes and the risk of losing positions in their climb to larger markets. In his final moments, he set a timer on his mobile device for the "lightning Round" to answer any questions as quickly and honestly as possible.
