The foundation's mission is to educate women under 40 at being proactive with their breast health. Can learn more at <https://www.feelyourboobies.com/what-we-do> . More information at www.bethesdamission.org. The Covid pandemic continues to highlight the growing need for their growing services through Harrisburg and surrounding communities. When it comes to homelessness among our Veterans, a recent report from the U.S. Department of HUD and the Capital Area Coalition on Homelessness sites more than 37,000 homeless veterans are living in the US, with 857 in PA. These statistics have also increased since the pandemic started, but it is hard to track these numbers if some of the veterans are not checking in/going elsewhere for services. Newer to the area, Veterans Outreach of Pennsylvania stands to combat homelessness among Veterans by providing support and services needed to promote an empowered life filled with strength and purpose. A reverse mortgage is similar to a home equity line of credit for those over the age of 60. All proceeds however are income-tax free, and there's no required principal and interest payment for as long as the borrower is living in the home. All members of the military and its families, along with the youth participating in the Buddy Program get to participate for free. Harrisburg native, Justin Cook is an All-State defensive back heading to East Stroudsburg in the fall. He will be having a double major that includes sports medicine because he knows he can't play football forever. He says being part of the Big33 is a very humbling experience he will take with him forever, as playing football is more than just a game, being able to work with the kids in the Buddy Program and meet families who've lost loved ones in the military shows him how far the impact can go for the positive in the community. Most recently, they worked to help 50 people displaced by a cooking fire that destroyed their apartment building in Swatara Township. Help includes shelter, meals, and clothing. In addition, as we prepare for the unofficial start of the summer, the Red Cross offers several tips to be safe in the sun and by the water, and also offers several training classes online and in person to assist people, with things like CPR, first aid, lifeguarding, learn to swim, water safety and more. HOW TREATED: Program

TITLE: How to Talk to Our Kids about Gun Violence in Schools and other Mental Health Issues that can Arise

DATE: June 5, 2022

TIME: 6:00am

DURATION: 14:48

TYPE: People and Perspectives Interview Show

DESCRIPTION: In wake of the latest, and second deadliest school shooting in US history, leading medical groups, including the American Academy of Pediatrics says it's critical to support emotional wellbeing, declaring a national state of emergency in children's mental health. According to experts, a key way to support kids' mental health is for parents and caregivers to have regular check-ins and help them openly express how they're feeling. This is especially important for kids of color: racism and systemic injustices are detrimental to mental health and can lead to chronic stress, anxiety, and depression. A new campaign, "Sound It Out" offers free resources, including a downloadable conversation starter pack to help get the conversation flowing. At SoundItOutTogether.org. And when it comes to those struggling with mental health conditions, some may also be experiencing an involuntary movement disorder called tardive dyskinesia (TD). TD is a chronic condition, associated with taking certain mental health medicines (antipsychotics) to treat conditions like depression, bipolar disorder, schizoaffective disorder, or anxiety disorder. Approximately 600,000 people in the U.S. may be affected by TD but may be unaware. Talkabouttd.com for more info.

ISSUE: Gun Violence

HOW TREATED: Program

TITLE: What a Majority of Americans are Asking Lawmakers to do about Gun Violence

DATE: June 12, 2022

TIME: 6:00am

DURATION: 29:56

TYPE: People and Perspectives Interview Show

DESCRIPTION: As our nation continues to reel from the deaths of 19 students and 2 teachers at Robb Elementary in Uvalde, Texas, the second largest school shooting in US history, the old debate on gun violence returned; is it the guns, mental health, or is the solution arming our teachers. Becky Pringle, who leads the nation's largest teacher's union representing more than 3 million educators, was one of several people that addressed the House Oversight and Reform committee this past week to discuss the path forward for keeping our schools, communities, and streets safe from the epidemic of gun violence. The NEA conducted a poll in 2020, and overwhelmingly it found that parents and educators reject the position that gun violence can be reduced by bringing even more guns into schools. In addressing the House, Pringle said rather than putting the responsibility on individual teachers, our elected leaders need to pass laws that protect children from gun violence and bring an end to senseless and preventable killings. At the hearing, it was also cited that between 2009-2018, 288 school shootings occurred in the US, with only 5 happening during that same period in all other G7 countries combined. After the hearing, the House did pass the Protecting Our Kids Act, which contains 7, separate provisions aimed at addressing gun violence in America. The Senate is still working on its own bill on the matter.

GUEST: Becky Pringle, President of the National Education Association and Lauren Peck, Volunteer with Pennsylvania Moms Demand Action for Gun Sense

ISSUE: Intestinal Bowel Disease Health Awareness

HOW TREATED: Program

TITLE: Taking Steps to Bring Awareness to Crohn's and Colitis

DATE: June 19, 2022

TIME: 6:00am

DURATION: 15:56

TYPE: People and Perspectives Interview Show

DESCRIPTION: When talking about intestinal bowel diseases (IBDs), in particular Crohn's Disease and Ulcerative Colitis, it's reported by the CDC that more than 3 million American Adults are living with these diseases and an estimated 80,000 children are also diagnosed. While these statistics seem large, unless someone one personally suffers from an IBD or knows someone who does, many have really never heard of these diseases or understand what they truly are and mean for a patient. IBDs can be debilitating in nature, and are chronic, incurable digestive diseases. Though the focus is on the digestive track, digestive health affects all things in the body including joints, skin, bones, kidneys, liver, and eyes, and along with the potential of constant exhaustion. Kayden was diagnosed with Crohn's Disease in June of 2021 at age 11. He had been having stomach issues for a year or two prior and hadn't gained any weight during that period, but his pediatrician at the time insisted it was "normal" for boys his age to have loose stool and stomach aches. His mom, concerned it could be Crohn's, as they have a family history, worked to get him a new doctor and eventually get the right tests that led to his diagnosis. In honor of Kayden and other patients in the Central PA, the Take Steps for Crohn's and Colitis walk is being held on City Island in Harrisburg June 25th. More information on Kayden's story and the walk can be found at cctakesteps.org/centralpa2022

DATE: June 19, 2022

TIME: 6:00am

DURATION: 6:18

DESCRIPTION: Due to the stigma around hearing loss, people wait an average of 6 to 7 years before taking action to treat their hearing loss. Changes to our hearing can happen gradually and often we're the last person to know. Hearing loss is more than not being able to hear well. It affects people of all ages and is associated with other health concerns including an increased risk of dementia, falls and depression. 4 out of 5 people who would benefit from hearing aids never experience the life changing benefits they can bring. The Beltone Hearing Care Foundation has a program that donates hearing devices to qualifying individuals in need of hearing help.

Still, up to 75% of adults who have ADHD don't even know they have it. Adults who are concerned should talk to their doctor about it to get more information.
