Brief description of activity and station participation:

We have rethought our hiring philosophy within the news department. Formerly, people who were hired into this department tended to stay within the department, often remaining in entry-level positions (such as studio camera operator) without great potential for advancement. Now, we hire with the idea in mind of providing training opportunities, with the goal of moving people into more prominent news department positions. So far we have moved multiple studio Production Specialists/camera operators into the news department via this route -- some have become photojournalists, news producers, promotion producers, news editors, Directors, and one a reporter. This latter position also is part of our Cub Reporter program which has the potential to provide even more career advancement for that person. We have also instituted the same program within the Production Department. In each case, these employees have the opportunity to pursue jobs that otherwise would not be open to entry-level candidates.
