

91.3 KXWT FM ODESSA, TX		PROGRAM ISSUES LIST
4th Quarter 2016
Submitted January 2, 2017
Date First Aired	Name of Program	Episode Description	Broadcast Time	Duration
10/3/2016	NEWS	At least one hundred protesters from local areas and across the state gathered in Alpine on Friday - for a march against the Trans-Pecos Pipeline. As Travis Bubenik reports, the protest was also billed as a "solidarity march" with Native Americans opposing an oil pipeline in North Dakota.	3:44 PM	00:04:03
10/6/2016	Nature Notes	The Big Bend's Native Plant Society hosts its fall sale Saturday, Oct. 15. In this episode we hear about the event and talk to a landscape designer about landscaping with native plants.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00
10/5/2016	West Texas Talk	Tonight on West Texas Talk, we speaks with Mando Rayo. He's the self-declared Taco Journalist and co-author of a new book called Tacos of Texas — a printed tour of the recipes, stories, and people behind some of the best tacos the state has to offer. We talk about the quintessential tacos found in Midland and Odessa — and how they change as you move westward toward El Paso. He also tells us about some of the people behind West Texans' favorite tacos, and the sometimes blurry line between tacos and burritos.Mando and his co-author Jarod Neece are bringing their book tour to El Paso on November 19th. You can find more information about the book and their book tour at the Tacos of Texas website.	6:30:00 PM	00:23:17
10/5/2016	NEWS	The commercial space company Blue Origin carried out another successful test flight from West Texas this morning. As Travis Bubenik reports - the company owned by billionaire Amazon founder Jeff Bezos was expecting its reusable rocket to be destroyed during the test - but instead, it landed safely back on Earth for the fifth time.	3:18:00 PM	00:01:26
10/6/2016	West Texas Talk	In this West Texas Talk, lawyers Porscha Brown and Brian Jacobi from the El Paso-based Paso Del Norte Civil Rights Project, part of the Texas Civil Rights Project, spoke with Tom Michael about solitary confinement and other issues present in prisons across Texas.	6:30:00 PM	00:28:12
10/7/2016	Rambling Boy	Lonn Taylor recently came across two books that he now considers required reading for anyone moving to the Big Bend — The Story of the Highlands, by Frank Reeves, and Memories of a Ranch Wife by Lottie Evans Woods. On this edition of the Rambling Boy, Lonn tells us about the books, their depictions of West Texas ranch life.	11:00 AM	00:09:45
10/7/2016	West Texas Talk	For this episode of West Texas Talk, host Rachael Vasquez speaks with Caitlin Murray, director of Marfa Programs and archivist for Judd Foundation, as well as Flavin Judd, son of the late Donald Judd, and curator and co-president of Judd Foundation about the Foundation's new book Donald Judd: Writings – co-published with David Zwirner books – which is a comprehensive collection of Judd's writings.	6:30:00 PM	00:18:37
10/11/2016	West Texas Talk	Witness to an Execution tells the stories of the men and women involved with the execution of deathrow inmates at the Walls Unit in Huntsville, Texas.	6:30:00 PM	00:22:19
10/13/2016	Nature Notes	The Laramide Orogeny was a 40-million-year event that shaped the Rocky Mountains and affected West Texas. Some of the clearest evidence is found in the Dead Horse Mountains, in Big Bend National Park, Kelsch said. In the mountains' limestone rocks, geologists find a system of faults that date back to this time.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00
10/13/2016	NEWS	Houston-based oil and gas company Apache Corporation says it's donating 136-thousand dollars to a water quality study in Reeves County where the company plans to scale up drilling. As Travis Bubenik reports - researchers say the study will help monitor the impacts of industry expansion in the area.	5:18 PM	00:01:26

10/13/2016	West Texas Talk	On tonight's West Texas Talk, Jackson Wisdorf sits down with accomplished singer-songwriter Tish Hinojosa – before her gig at Railroad Blues in Alpine – to talk about her upbringing, inspirations, and successes throughout her career and beyond.	6:30:00 PM	00:27:02
10/14/2016	Rambling Boy	Last year, Carolyn McCartney left a tenured faculty position at Southern Methodist University in Dallas to move to the Big Bend where she now works as a sign painter. On this edition of the Rambling Boy, Lonnn tells us how she does it, why she loves it, and the importance of squirrel hair to her craft.	11:00 AM	00:09:17
10/14/2016	West Texas Talk	On his West Texas Talk, Rachel Monroe sits down with Alfredo Corchado – Author, Journalist, Mexico City Correspondent for the Dallas Morning News and current Lannan writer in-residence – about his works past, present and upcoming.	6:30:00 PM	00:28:24
10/19/2016	West Texas Talk	On a summer night in the early 1990s a small group of friends gather for a dinner party in Los Angeles. Just for fun, someone suggests having a séance with a homemade Ouija board. By the end of the evening, perceptions of reality have been altered, relationships have been damaged, and the guests are forever changed. Three people who were there tell the shocking, funny, and hauntingly tragic story of The Séance. (from KCRW's UnFictional via PRX)	6:30:00 PM	00:22:52
10/20/2016	Nature Notes	Thousands of hikers travel to Guadalupe Mountains National Park each year to witness the display of fall colors in McKittrick Canyon. In this episode we pay a visit to the park, hear about the changing leaves, and other sciency bits about the area.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00
10/20/2016	West Texas Talk	AUSTIN, Texas—In this segment of West Texas Talk, Lorne Matalon speaks with Dr. Michael Webber, deputy director of the Energy Institute at the University of Texas at Austin. Webber is a prolific author, having written hundreds of scientific articles, columns and books including op-eds in the New York Times and features in Scientific American. The topic is the link between energy and water, how stresses on one can damage the other and what solutions exist to ease stresses on water and power in the southwest. Webber explores the connection between water and energy in his latest book titled, “Thirst for Power: Energy, Water and Human Survival.”	6:30:00 PM	00:24:42
10/21/2016	Rambling Boy	Back in 1979, the Library of Congress hired Lonnn Taylor to curate an exhibition about the American cowboy. On this edition of the Rambling Boy, Lonnn tells us about his time perusing the library's many so-called “other items” and the sometimes strange things found therein.	11:00 AM	00:09:03
10/21/2016	West Texas Talk	On this West Texas Talk, Rachel Monroe sits down with Dublin based author, musician, publisher, educator, public speaker, and broadcaster Jonathan Creasy. The main topic of discussion is Creasy's latest work The Black Mountain Letters: Poems and Essays – in which he highlights the renowned artists and instructors at Black Mountain College, one of the most fabled experimental institutions in art education and practice.	6:30 PM	00:27:32
10/25/2016	NEWS	Across the state this election cycle we've already seen increases in the number of early votes cast, and as Travis Lux reports that's held true for large swaths of West Texas, too.	3:18 PM	00:00:55
10/26/2016	West Texas Talk	Tonight on West Texas Talk, University of Texas professor and McDonald Observatory astrophysicist Karl Gebhardt talks black holes, dark energy and the potential for many more galaxies than scientists have previously predicted.	6:30 PM	00:18:55
10/27/2016	Nature Notes	Ranch Road 2810 -- Pinto Canyon Road -- is one of the region's signature back-country experiences. Much of Pinto Canyon is owned by Jeff Fort -- who recently commissioned Alpine scholar Jeff Fort to write a history of the region. This episode is a peek into that book.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00

10/27/2016	West Texas Talk	On this West Texas Talk, Rachael Vasquez sits down with Thollem McDonnas, an acoustic pianist and composer and ACVilla, an experimental filmmaker – known together as Silver Ochre. The duo brought their project Who Are US to Marfa as part of a residency with Marfa Live Arts. Jennie Lyn Hamilton, director of Marfa Live Arts also participated in the interview.	6:30 PM	00:24:17
10/28/2016	NEWS	Q&A over Energy Poll (Travis Bubenik/Lorne Matalon) A mounting understanding - and more importantly - BELIEF among Americans that climate change IS REAL could play a role in deciding who wins the White House...that is, if significant numbers of younger people turn out to vote. That's according to the latest University of Texas energy poll.	5:44 PM	00:04:58
10/28/2016	West Texas Talk	On this West Texas Talk, Tim Johnson sits down with well known west Texas musician and visual artist Terry Allen. They talk about music, art, the re-issuing of Allen's first albums Lubbock (on everything) and Juarez – as well as the continuation of his music and artistic career. Allen is performing in Marfa at the Saint George Hall, on Saturday October 29th. This is the uncut, full-length interview.	6:30 PM	00:32:22
10/31/2016	West Texas Talk	Tonight on West Texas Talk, Jackson Wisdorf sits down with Todd Strauss-Schulson, director of The Final Girls. The Horror-Comedy-Drama which stars Taisa Farmiga, Malin Ackerman, and Alexander Ludwig (to name just a few) follows a group of young adults who get sucked into a cult-classic slasher film called "Camp Bloodbath". The film is screening at the Crowley Theater in Marfa on October 31, 2016 (Halloween) starting at 7:30 pm.	6:30 PM	00:22:21
11/1/2016	NEWS	Texas Parks and Wildlife Commissioners will consider accepting a new 640-acre plot of land for Big Bend Ranch State Park (Reader Written by Travis Bubenik)	3:18 PM	00:01:21
11/1/2016	West Texas Talk	From the podcast Fugitive Waves, produced by the Kitchen Sisters. Robert King Wilkerson was imprisoned at Louisiana State Penitentiary in Angola, Louisiana for 31 years. Twenty-nine of those years he was in solitary confinement. During that time he created a clandestine kitchen in his 6x9 cell where he made pralines, heating the the butter and sugar he saved from his food tray over a tiny burner concocted from a Coke can and a toilet paper roll. King and two of his friends started a chapter of the Black Panthers in Angola Prison during the 1970s. King's case was overturned in 2001 and he was released. He lectures around the world and makes candy -- which he called Freelines -- to bring attention to issues of prison reform and the plight of The Angola Three.	6:30 PM	00:22:14
11/3/2016	Nature Notes	Chronic Wasting Disease was detected in West Texas mule deer in 2012. But there's a new effort to monitor and limit CWD's spread.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00
11/3/2016	West Texas Talk	The 50th annual Terlingua International Chili Cookoff kicked off yesterday. A new book out last month takes us there. It's called The Terlingua Chili Cookbook, and it's full of origin stories, bragging rights, chili-cooking pro-tips, and plenty of recipes. Joining us today on West Texas Talk is the book's author, Tiffany Harelik. We talk about the three main chili religions, divisive chili ingredients, and lessons learned from a year of immersive chili research.	6:30:00 PM	00:26:17
11/4/2016	Rambling Boy	One of the items Lonny Taylor inherited when his father passed away was an old belt buckle. It was custom-made by a guy named Robert W. Driskell. On this edition of the Rambling Boy, Lonny tells us what little is known about the unsung silversmith.	11:00:00 AM	00:08:31
11/10/2016	Nature Notes	Sandhill Cranes migrate to West Texas every winter. This episode tells the story of their near extinction a century ago, and the refuge they find in the Playa Lakes.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00
11/11/2016	West Texas Talk	On this West Texas Talk, Rachel Monroe sits down with poet and Lannan Resident Henri Cole.	6:30:00 PM	00:28:33
11/15/2016	NEWS	New government data shows oil drilling in the U.S. is increasingly concentrated in West Texas and southeastern New Mexico. Travis Bubenik has more...	5:47 PM	00:00:47
11/17/2016	Nature Notes	Geology can often seem abstract. But El Solitario in Big Bend Ranch State Park, is completely transparent -- we can see exactly what the earth was up to. This episode is all about the geology of El Solitario.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00

11/17/2016	West Texas Talk	At least once a year, the theatre department at Sul Ross State University puts on a performance geared toward a younger audience. It's called the Sul Ross Children's Theatre Project, and this year they're performing Maricela de la Luz Lights the World by José Rivera. We're joined today by three of the people behind the production: Sedia Woods, Darius Dentley, and Greg Schwab. Sedia Woods is a Sul Ross student and plays Maricela. Darius Dentley is also a Sul Ross student and plays Riccardo, Maricela's brother. Greg Schwab is a Sul Ross theater professor and directs the play. We talk about their characters, the differences between performing for audiences of varying ages, and the work that goes into preparing a production. Maricela de la Luz Lights the World opened last weekend and continues through Sunday, November 20th. You can find ticket information at the Sul Ross Theatre Department website.	6:30:00 PM	00:20:19
11/18/2016	Rambling Boy	J. Frank Dobie was a folklorist and writer often dubbed "the father of Texas literature." Lonn and Dedie recently went to Oakville, Texas for an event called Dobie Dichos — a gathering of Texas writers to commemorate Dobie's life and works. Today on the Rambling Boy, Lonn tells us about the Dichos, Dobie's impact, and how Lonn's family might have crossed paths with the Dobie forebears.	11:00:00 AM	00:08:51
11/18/2016	West Texas Talk	Former Texas State Representative Sissy Farenthold is a longtime progressive political icon. Her career in politics began in her hometown of Corpus Christi, TX, where she worked to fulfill the legal needs of Latinos across South Texas. She was the only woman member of the Texas House in the late 1960's, at a time when Democrats controlled the state government, and went on to run for governor twice in 1972 and 1974. Both gubernatorial bids were unsuccessful. On this episode of West Texas Talk, we talk to Farenthold about her take on this year's presidential election — "I was stunned," she says — and about where she thinks her Democratic Party should go in the years ahead (Farenthold was a Bernie Sanders supporter.)	6:30:00 PM	00:28:40
11/21/2016	NEWS	Native American groups and some Big Bend-area residents gathered to protest the Trans-Pecos Pipeline near Marfa yesterday. Travis Bubenik reports protesters had a brief encounter with police - but the scene was otherwise mostly calm.	3:18:00 PM	00:01:21
11/21/2016	West Texas Talk	On this edition of West Texas Talk, Lorne Matalon speaks with Mexican energy analyst David Shield in Mexico City. The Scotland-born Shields is widely followed in Mexico and abroad as one of the most credible sources of information on Mexico's energy sector. For the first time since Mexico nationalized its oil and gas market in 1938, an act that resulted in the expulsion of foreign energy companies, Mexico's domestic energy market is opening up for both competition and foreign investment. The reform was introduced in 2013 to rescue an under-performing energy sector, one that has battled inefficiency, corruption and most recently a low price environment. Matalon and Shields also discuss electricity which on average costs 25% more than electricity in the United States for both residential and commercial customers.	6:30:00 PM	00:28:20
11/22/2016	West Texas Talk	For some time now, a unique collaboration between the non-profit National Parks Arts Foundation and the National Park Service has been embedding artists in scenic public lands across the U.S. On this episode of West Texas Talk, we chat with the two latest artists-in-residence at Big Bend National Park. Artists Nicholas Collier is the first veteran to take part in the program. A former Marine who served in Afghanistan, Collier attended universities in Virginia and Florida before coming to Far West Texas. He has worked before in a variety of sculptural mediums, but is now focusing on portrait and landscape photography. Pennsylvania-born songwriter and sound artist Russell James Pyle comes to Big Bend from ten years in New Mexico, where he performs as a solo artist and previously performed with the Albuquerque folk band "The Porter Draw." He has a background in "eco-psychology" and will be creating experimental sound art and more traditional songs during his time in West Texas.	6:30:00 PM	00:28:37

11/23/2016	West Texas Talk	In this edition of West Texas Talk, Lorne Matalon is in Mexico City interviewing Attorney Miriam Grunstein, chief energy counsel at Brilliant Energy Consulting and professor at the Universidad Autónoma de Nuevo León. Brunstein researches energy law and international transactions. Her legal publications include books and articles on energy law related to hydrocarbons. She also served as a consultant on energy regulation to the Mexican Senate, the state-owned energy monopoly Pemex and Mexico's Federal Electricity Commission.	6:30:00 PM	00:20:06
11/24/2016	Nature Notes	A century ago, most archeologists believed human beings had only occupied the Americas for about 3,000 years. Then, a series of finds on the Llano Estacado changed that view. One of the most significant finds occurred just 6 miles southwest of Midland. The discovery – called the Midland Site – included ancient human remains. It opened a window into the Ice Age world.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00
11/25/2016	West Texas Talk	In this West Texas Talk, Rachel Monroe sits down with american poet, author, literary critic, educator, and Lannan writer-in-residence, Garth Greenwell.	6:30:00 PM	00:26:42
11/29/2016	West Texas Talk	On this segment of West Texas Talk, we speak with security analyst Alejandro Hope in Mexico City about a Mexico that is hunkered down waiting for the new U.S. administration to formally assume power. During the U. S. presidential campaign, President-elect Trump said he'd either rework or scrap the North American Free Trade Act (NAFTA) and expand the border wall. NAFTA's end would damage the Mexican economy and the idea of expanding the existing wall is considered an insult. Between 2008 and 2011, Hope held a number of executive positions at the Center for Investigation and National Security (CISEN), Mexico's civilian intelligence agency.	6:30:00 PM	00:26:15
11/30/2016	NEWS	The Texas Department of Transportation has a new way to discourage drivers from using their phones while on the road. TxDOT has set up Safe Phone Zones at 55 Safety Rest Areas and Travel Information Centers across the state.	4:49:00 PM	00:00:45
11/30/2016	West Texas Talk	In the latest of our station's astronomy series of West Texas Talks, host Mark Glover sits down with Karl Gebhart of the McDonald Observatory to talk about a wide range of astronomical topics.	6:30:00 PM	00:26:04
12/1/2016	Nature Notes	The Marfa Plain sits at a crossroads, geographically speaking -- where the Great Plains reach an arid limit. This episode is all about some of the grasses that comprise this plain.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00
12/1/2016	NEWS	Guadalupe Mountains National Park got its first snow of the season this week. The park posted pictures of the light snow that reportedly fell on Tuesday and didn't stick. The National Weather Service says there's a wet weekend ahead with the arrival of a cold front tomorrow through Saturday - and now a LIGHT possibility of some rain mixed with snow in the Guadalupe Mountains again tomorrow night.	5:18:00 PM	00:00:30
12/1/2016	West Texas Talk	Rudy Garza used to dream about visiting Marfa. But as a barber based in San Antonio, never managed to find the time until this past weekend. On this episode of West Texas Talk, he sits down with Elise Pepple to talk about barber culture, his most memorable cut, and his impressions of the town he wanted to visit for so long.	6:30:00 PM	00:21:03
12/2/2016	Rambling Boy	The first adult book Lonnn ever read was The Adventures of General Marbot. He was seven years old. This week on the Rambling Boy, Lonnn tells us about the book's author, John W. Thomason Jr — a widely published Texan whose career in the Marines took him all over the globe and was the inspiration for both his stories and his professional drawings.	11:00:00 AM	00:09:02
12/7/2016	NEWS	Marfa-based Chinati Foundation is working on a Master Plan for the organization. Representatives from Chinati presented a draft version of the plan at a public meeting Tuesday night. Our Rachael Vasquez caught up with Chinati Foundation Director Jenny Moore afterwards.	5:18 PM	00:01:09
12/8/2016	Nature Notes	A few centuries ago, the confluence of the the Rio Grande and the Rio Conchos was a hub of Native American life, a center in a complex interplay of diverse societies. Archeological remains and ruins there clue us into what life was like for thousands of years.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00

12/8/2016	West Texas Talk	All this week, Marfa Live Arts has been facilitating a monologue and scene study workshop at Marfa Jr. High. Seventh and eighth graders have been bringing personal experiences to life through monologues which will be performed by local adults at 7pm at the Crowley Theater on Friday (12/09/16). Today on West Texas Talk, we're joined by several who have participated in this collaborative project.	6:30:00 PM	00:23:36
12/9/2016	Rambling Boy	On this edition of The Rambling Boy, Lonn Taylor takes a look at the old-fashioned traveling tent show – in particular, Harley Sadler's.	11:00:00 AM	00:08:58
12/9/2016	West Texas Talk	On this edition of West Texas Talk, Jackson Wisdorf sits down with Joel Holmberg, Dwyer Kilcollin Anna Mayer, and Thomas Mcdonell. They are four of the eight artists showcasing their works at Grey Goo Gardens, the last of four exhibitions conceived for Arturo Bandini's year-long installation in the courtyard of Ballroom Marfa. The Opening Reception is Friday, December 9, 2016 from 6-9 pm at Ballroom Marfa – The exhibit runs through February 5, 2017.	6:30:00 PM	00:23:13
12/13/2016	NEWS	Mexico will likely slow the pace of cooperation with the U.S. on immigration and drugs should the incoming Trump administration substantially expand the current border wall. Mexican senators have proposed legislation that could trigger the review—and possible cancellation—of dozens of treaties on key issues like trade, border security and water sharing among others should the wall be expanded. Our Fronteras Desk Correspondent Lorne Matalon has the story - from Mexico City.	3:45:00 PM	00:03:30
12/13/2016	West Texas Talk	Storytellers from across the country converged on Midland this weekend for the 2016 Midland Storytelling Festival. Today on West Texas Talk, Elise Pepple sits down with two of the festival's storytellers, Charlotte Blake Alston and Donald Davis. They share a few stories and talk about how they got into professional storytelling, muse not only on the magic of storytelling but also why it's so important.	6:30:00 PM	00:19:29
12/14/2016	West Texas Talk	Jessica Koslow is the chef and owner behind the famous Los Angeles restaurant Sqirl. She's also the author of a new cookbook called Everything I Want to Eat, which has been showered with all kinds of complimentary quotes. Oliver Strand at the New York Times, for example says: "I want to eat everything in Everything I Want to Eat," and "Ms. Koslow's cooking defies easy categorization. The Venn diagram of Sqirl is the intersection of health food and diner food and Michelin-starred kitchens..." On this edition of West Texas Talk, Elise Pepple sits down with Koslow and her creative partner Scott Barry to talk about food memories, dream projects, their other obsessions and their impressions of West Texas.	6:30:00 PM	00:24:38
12/15/2016	Nature Notes	The javelina is the New World answer to a pig. But they aren't technically pigs, they're peccaries -- relatives of boars and hippos. This episode is a profile all about the javelina.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00
12/16/2016	Rambling Boy	In this week's edition of Rambling Boy, Lonn takes us back to the Big Bend of the 1890s through El Paso Public Library's archive of files from Murphy & Walker, a general mercantile store in Marfa.	11:00:00 AM	00:09:01
12/16/2016	West Texas Talk	I Love Dick is an Amazon television series about the mutual attraction that married couple Chris (played by Kathryn Hahn) and Sylvère (played by Griffin Dunne) have for a man named Dick (played by Kevin Bacon) — the founder of the fictional Marfa Institute. It's based on the 1997 novel by Chris Kraus of the same name. The pilot premiered on Amazon back in August, and the team is about to wrap up filming on location in Marfa this weekend. Tonight on West Texas Talk, host Elise Pepple sits down with Sarah Gibbons — co-creator, executive producer, and writer of I Love Dick. They talk about how the show came to be, why Sarah found the Kraus' original novel so compelling, and how to produce art outside of the typical "male gaze."	6:30:00 PM	00:24:17
12/21/2016	NEWS	If you're rushing to get to your destination by Christmas Eve, you'll have plenty of company. As Gail Delaughter from Houston Public Media reports, Texas travel numbers could break records this holiday season.	4:18 PM	00:00:58
12/22/2016	Nature Notes	The exhibit at Clayton's Overlook, at the Chihuahuan Desert Nature Center south of Fort Davis, provides a key to the volcanic history of the Davis Mountains. It also shows how geology has shaped the region's history and culture.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00

12/23/2016	Rambling Boy	Lonn Taylor loves Christmas cards — for many reasons. But he suspects they're waning in popularity and is sometimes tempted to quit mailing them. On today's installment of the Rambling Boy, Lonn tells us a bit of history about the first Christmas cards, why he hopes someone creates a Christmas card archive for future historians, and why he plans to keep sending them out.	11:00:00 AM	00:07:24
12/29/2016	NEWS	This week we're looking back at some of the most notable reporting that came out of our local newsroom in 2016 - and you can't talk about this year's big stories without talking about the death of Supreme Court Justice Antonin Skuh-Lia back in February. Skuh-Lia died at the Cibolo Creek Ranch south of Marfa on February 13th - and almost within SECONDS of his death making the news - it shot Marfa and Presidio County into the international spotlight. And almost just as quickly as the news spread - so did conspiracy theories about his death and criticisms of the way local authorities handled the RESPONSE to his death. Just a day after Skuh-Lia's death - with all that in mind - our former General Manager Tom Michael filed THIS report - looking at the complexities of such a high-profile situation in rural Far West Texas.	3:44 PM	00:02:37
12/29/2016	Nature Notes	Hawks, golden eagles, peregrine falcons – birds of prey have intensity and focus. What would it be like to hunt with one of these West Texas raptors? The practice of falconry – hunting with birds of prey – is 4,000 years old. In the West Texas town of Dell City, the sport has a modern-day practitioner -- Randy Rakes.	7:45 AM, 4:44 PM	00:05:00