Randy Turner, Program Director for 92.9 / 96.5 WBPM

News

92.9 and 96.5 WBPM’s morning newscasts are prepared and presented by NBC Radio News, an outside contractor. Their reports air weekday mornings 625am, 655am, 725am, 755am and 825am.

Traffic Reports from Metro Traffic and Weather Forecasts from Accuweather follow the same schedule with additional presentations in afternoon drive.

The WBPM air staff present Weather Forecasts hourly.

When major headlines occur, we insert either local updates or network radio newscasts into our programming.

EVENTS WBPM HAS PROMOTED AND / OR PARTICIPATED IN DURING FOURTH QUARTER 2023

WBPM's Randy Turner was the event announcer for the annual Harry Chapin Run and Walk Against Hunger at Croton Harmon High School on Sunday October 15th from 7am to Noon.

WBPM teamed up again with the Sawyer Motors Foundation In Saugerties for Christmas Wish. We invited people to write in about a family they know ... or.. their own family ... who is having a hard time getting by. The people at Sawyer reviewed the entries and selected 8 families to get $500. Bob Miller recorded calls with each family and those were played for 3 to 4 days on the air.

WBPM's Randy Turner aired station created PSA Messages on the following topics:

Voter Registration

Blood Donations / NY Blood Center and Red Cross

Family Emergency Plan

Emergency Kit Preparation

Personal Safety

Safe Highways / Slow Down

Fire Safety / Smoke Detector Replacement

Food Bank Donations – ask what they need

Suicide Prevention

Mental Health Awareness

Covid Booster / Dispose of old test kits

Ulster County Toys for Tots 2023

WBPM promoted (and participated in some) Toys For Tots collection events with the Ulster County Marine Corps League.

WBPM aired a recorded message from the Ulster SPCA asking for people to adopt animals because they're maximum capacity. Oct 20 to Nov 10

WBPM advance promoted a Thanksgiving Food Drive to benefit the Hudson Salvation Army from Oct 23 to Nov 4. WBPM's Bill Williams was on site with them at Shop Rite in Hudson from 10am to 5pm on Saturday November 4th. He did two on air event breaks each hour of the event. They filled a 16-passenger school bus, donated by Pulcher Transportation Incorporated, with 3,330 pounds of non-perishable food which will be distributed to more than 200 residents in Columbia and Greene Counties. The remaining food will be used in the organization's food pantry and used in their soup kitchen. Around 300 families utilize the food pantry weekly and about 164 meals are served daily in the soup kitchen. WBPM also supported this with two email blasts to our VIP Listener Club and it was published on our Facebook page.

WBPM aired special Community Calendar announcements about the Poughkeepsie Public Library / Operation Warm coat distribution event on Nov 18th.

GUESTS ON BOB MILLER'S MORNING SHOW

Public Affairs Program

“51%” from WAMC / National Public Radio

Saturday mornings 7:30 to 8am

This is a program about many subjects and topics ranging from the environment and health to kids and politics, the arts and more from a women's perspective.

Date Show # Guest and Topic

OCTOBER 1 1783

On this week's 51%, we speak with science journalist and Brave the Wild River author Melissa Sevigny about the two women who risked their lives to botanize the Grand Canyon in the 1930s.

OCTOBER 8 1784

The World Health Organization says roughly 1 in 6 people grapples with infertility. On this week's 51%, we speak with the editors of Infertilities: A Curation, to broaden our perception and understanding of what is commonly called a “women's issue.”

OCTOBER 15 1785

On this week's 51%, WAMC's Samantha Simmons speaks with Olympic runner Alexi Pappas about how she went about adapting her book, Bravey, for a younger audience.

OCTOBER 22 1786

On this week's 51%, we sit down with “defensive living” experts Joy Farrow and Laura Frombach to discuss modern ways women are protecting themselves in the face of gender-based violence.

OCTOBER 29 1787

On this week's 51%, we speak with Dr. Elizabeth Lucal about how women can reduce their risk of cervical cancer, and why we still know so little about ovarian cancer.

NOVEMBER 4 1788

On this week's 51%, we speak with artists who have found healing through creativity. Author Brittany Means comes to terms with her childhood growing up on the road in her new memoir Hell if We Don't Change Our Ways, and pianist and composer Robin Spielberg meditates on resilience for her new symphonic record, By Way of the Wind.

NOVEMBER 12 1789

On this week's 51%, we speak with award-winning international reporter Amanda Sperber to learn how news outlets and foreign correspondents can better serve the communities they cover.

NOVEMBER 19 1790

On this week's 51%, we speak with estate attorney Megan Harris-Pero about why having an estate plan is particularly important for women, and what they should keep in mind when putting a plan together.

NOVEMBER 26 1791

On this week's 51%, we speak with Dr. Sophia Choukas-Bradley about the impacts of social media on teens and young adults.

DECEMBER 3 1792

On this week's 51%, we speak with psychiatrist and human rights advocate Dr. Robert Okin about the state of homelessness in the U.S., and the many obstacles faced by unhoused women and families. Dr. Okin spent two years interviewing and photographing unhoused individuals struggling with mental illness in San Francisco.

DECEMBER 10 1793

On this week's 51%, we speak with Amy Brittain of The Washington Post about the paper's recent analysis of infant mortality in home births across the U.S.

DECEMBER 17 1794

On the latest 51%, we speak with biologist and wildlife photographer Kirsten Hines about her new book Wild Florida, documenting the state's diverse population of birds, mammals, reptiles, and insects.

DECEMBER 24 1795

On this week's 51%, we hear from comedian, writer, and TV host Samantha Bee about her latest standup tour "Your Favorite Woman: The Joy of Sex Education."

DECEMBER 31 1796

On this week's 51%, we speak with Claudia Coenen, a certified grief counselor and thanatologist, about how to cope with grief during the holiday season. We also hear from the executive director of No Kid Hungry New York about the state of food insecurity in the U.S.
