Politics & Government

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close with Diana Williams

Air Date: 01/10/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Bill Ritter spoke with Connecticut Governor Dan Malloy (D) about politics and the primary election season. Malloy said that he found Donald Trump's candidacy perplexing, disturbing, and entertaining, and called Trump a great showman. Malloy was also asked about his role as the head of the Democratic Governor's Association, which requires him to serve as a surrogate campaigner for democratic seats in Congress. Malloy stated that it is hard to tell what the campaign season will be like this early, but that he currently supports Hilary Clinton in her campaign for President of the United States.

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close with Diana Williams

Air Date: 01/10/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Bill Ritter spoke with political consultant Hank Sheinkopf about the political battle-turned personal between Bill Clinton and Donald Trump. Sheinkopf discussed the theory that Trump will back off of making fun of Clinton's romantic affairs because he doesn't want the entire Clinton family against him, and says that these affairs are a legitimate issue that will be discussed during the presidential campaign. Sheinkopf predicted that Ted Cruz (R) will win the Republican vote in the Iowa caucus, but that Trump could remain a viable candidate by coming in 2nd place. For New Hampshire, Sheinkopf felt that Bernie Sanders (D) would win the Democratic vote, but that the Republican winner could not be predicted. Sheinkopf also discussed Obama's recent gun control moves, saying that they were a smart move because he had the American public's support on this issue.

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 01/10/15

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Joe Torres and New York City Comptroller Scott Stringer discussed the city's search to find 1,000 workers who are owed money from work that they have done for various contractors in the past. Stringer said that so far, 53 workers have received over $350,000 in unpaid wages, but that over $3 million is owed in total. One man was given a check for over $26,000 because he worked for a corrupt company. Stringer explained that when the Comptroller's office legally pursues companies and contractors who haven't been paying their employees properly and following the law, the company is debarred from working with New York City for a certain period of time, and they are forced to pay back the wages to the city, who then distributes them to the workers who are owed. For more information, contact the comptroller's office, or reach out to Scott Stringer via his Twitter account, @scottmstringer.

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close

Air Date: 1/31/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Bill Ritter speaks with Michael Bloomberg, former mayor of New York City, who is considering running for president. Ritter is joined by Douglas Schoen, Political Analyst, and Hank Sheinkopf, Political Analyst, to discuss their views on Bloomberg's decision and its impact on the presidential campaign. Based on last week's debate, Schoen thought that the winner was going to be Ted Cruz before the debate, but now thinks that Marco Rubio was the winner. Sheinkopf believes that Donald Trump was the true winner because he believes that he should've done something large to draw attention. Both men believe that Bloomberg is the complete opposite of Trump and would be a good competitor because Bloomberg has the ability to bring people together and provide real world solutions, particularly those pertaining to the economy. Although neither of them can predict who would win the election, they both agree that Bloomberg would be a beneficial addition to the election. Ritter further questions if Bloomberg's Jewish heritage puts him at a disadvantage in which both men disagree. For final remarks, both Schoen and Sheinkopf believe that both Trump and Clinton have an advantage for their respective parties.

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close

Air Date: 1/31/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Bill Ritter is joined by Matt Katz, Wrote Book on Governor Christie, to discuss the new book, American Governor: Chris Christie's Bridge to Redemption. Katz discusses the impact the Bridgegate scandal had on Christie and his plan to redeem himself as a presidential candidate in the 2016 election. Katz further discusses Christie's comparison to Trump by saying that Christie isn't considered the bully in this election because of Trump's remarks. Ritter also asks Katz to weigh in on the personal aspects of Christie that are mentioned in the book. These include Christie's manner of arguing with his wife and their decision to not have children for seven years. If Christie loses this election, Katz predicts that he will find other professions, such as attorney general, and continue to run for the 2020 presidential election.

WABC-TV/New York, NY

1st Quarter 2016

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close

Air Date: 2/7/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Bill Ritter is joined by Hank Sheinkopf, Political Consultant, to discuss the outcome of the Iowa Caucus and the New Hampshire Primaries. In the Iowa Caucus, Hillary Clinton won by a hair against Bernie Sanders for the Democratic Party and Ted Cruz came in first while Donald Trump came in second for the Republican Party. Sheinkopf believes that this upcoming debate will be Chris Christie and Jeb Bush's last moments if one doesn't defeat the other. For the Democratic Party, Bernie Sanders gained momentum because he spoke about human interest topics such as Wall Street.

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close

Air Date: 2/14/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Bill Ritter is joined by Doug Muzzio, CUNY Political Science Professor, to discuss the New Hampshire Primary. Muzzio discusses that Trump and Sanders are attracting to voters because they understand their anger and anxiety of the future. He also discussed that Sanders' messages of hope and change are similar to Obama's platform in the 2008 election. In comparison to Hillary Clinton, Muzzio believes that Clinton and Sanders are different because Clinton is more pragmatic while Sanders is more optimistic. Despite these two candidates, Muzzio is still unsure who the top two candidates will be for the presidential election.

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close

Air Date: 2/21/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Up Close, Bill Ritter is joined by Rep. Gregory Meeks, (D) New York, to discuss the Congressional Black Caucus PAC endorsement for Hillary Clinton. At the caucus, 90% of board members agreed to support Clinton and Sanders did not receive any votes. Meeks argues that because people are watching the election as a reality TV show, people need to look past the entertainment and acknowledge the substance the candidates are saying. Ritter further discusses Meek's opinion of Bloomberg's decision to enter the race in which he explains how Bloomberg will be popular among people who are unsure who they will vote for based on the two frontrunners of the election. Finally, Ritter asked why Sanders has not resonated with blacks and he explains that the Clintons have been advocates for blacks in America for a while and they do not feel Sander's platform would benefit this community.

1st Quarter 2016

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close

Air Date: 2/29/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Up Close, Bill Ritter is joined by Rep. Peter King, (R) New York, to discuss his recent decision to support Republican candidate, Marco Rubio, after Donald Trump's recent victories, the iPhone controversy, and the replacement of the late Supreme Court Justice. King strongly supports Rubio because he believes that Rubio's plans regarding homeland security and foreign policy are stronger than Trump's and would therefore make him the strongest candidate against Hillary Clinton. Ritter questions why King decided to endorse Rubio this late in the president campaign in which King explains that he was not going to endorse any candidate while Jeb Bush was in the race. King further discusses that despite his feelings about Trump, he will support the nominee of the Republican Party. Ritter changes topics to discuss the iPhone controversy and King's position on whether or not Apple should comply with the federal government's request. King believes that Apple should provide the code to encrypt the phone involved in the San Bernadino attack because it would be a system only used for this phone, no other iPhone user's privacy will be in jeopardy, and this can be used to protect further attacks from happening. Finally, Ritter asks whether or not King believes Obama should appoint a new Supreme Court Justice and King explains that although the president should not elect a new member in their last term as president, the American people are responsible for electing a president who is capable of choosing a new Supreme Court Justice.

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close

Air Date: 2/29/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Up Close, Bill Ritter is joined by Hank Sheinkopf, Political Consultant, to discuss his opinion of Chris Christie's endorsement and the "Anybody but Trump" approach. Sheinkopf begins by explaining that he did not anticipate Trump's success in the campaign and he does not believe that Christie would be a viable asset to him. Sheinkopf believes that Chris Christie decided to endorse Trump because he wants to remain politically active once his term as New Jersey governor is over. Ritter then asks Sheinkopf to weigh in on the "Anybody but Trump" approach many republicans are taking, in which he explains that they would rather have a Republican candidate who they think can beat Hillary Clinton in the fall. Finally, Ritter asks Sheinkopf his opinion on Bernie Sanders' continuation in the race in which he explains that Clinton's support from African Americans might bring an end to Bernie Sanders.

1st Quarter 2016

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 02/29/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Tiempo, Joe Torres discusses the increase in Latino voters in presidential elections and its impact on the 2016 Election. Torres is joined by Jessica Orozco, Director of Immigration and Civic Engagement of the Hispanic Federation, Roberto Frugone, Northeast Regional Director of the Naleo Educational Fund, and Julio Huato, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Economics at St. Francis College, Brooklyn. Considering the eight percent increase in Latino voters between 2008 and 2012, Orozco believes that this trend will continue to increase because many issues being discussed in the campaign effect the Latino community. Frugone and Huato continue to explain that a large percentage of Latino voters are kept from voting but their efforts are focused on encouraging and educating them to vote because of its impact on the election. Orozco emphasizes the importance of communication and political participation in the Latino community because she believes that if people are aware, they will vote and be more active in the election. Frugone mentions the Naleo Hotline (1-888-VE-Y-VOTA or 1-888-839-8682) as a resource for Latinos to learn how to vote, where to vote in their area, and other questions regarding voting.

Children's Issues & Childcare

Show Name: New York Viewpoint

Air Date: 01/17/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Host Ken Rosato interviewed Candice Anderson, Executive Director of "Cool Culture" and Cecilia Jackson, Principal of PS 307 in Queens, New York. Cool Culture is a program that lets young children and their families go to museums and other cultural institutions for free if they are unable to afford to go otherwise. This helps educate children by raising literacy rates and helping them to learn outside of the classroom and reinforce their schooling. In order to qualify for these benefits, schools pay a small fee so that all of the families in their school are able to access them. In the future, the Cool Culture hopes to continue to build the amount of families that they serve and involve more schools in the program. For more information, call 718-230-4186 visit www.CoolCulture.org. Users can also view Cool Culture's Facebook page at Facebook.com/CoolCulture.

1st Quarter 2016

Show Name: Here and Now with Sandra Bookman

Air Date: 01/17/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman spoke with representatives of the York Street Project, including Executive Director Suzanne Byrne, Education Coordinator Dominique Sherman, and Participant Joshalynn Wynn. The York Street Project is a New Jersey-based organization that was founded in the 1980's by nuns because they saw that young mothers and their children were suffering due to the cycle of poverty that they were stuck in. The organization takes a holistic approach to attacking poverty by providing housing, food, and education to mothers and children at Kenmare High School, St. Joseph's Home, St. Mary's Resident, and The Nurturing Place. For more information, visit YorkStreetProject.org.

Show Name: Here and Now with Sandra Bookman

Air Date: 01/17/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman spoke with Erna J. Blackman, founder of the Butterflies By Blaq, Inc. program. This program provides free hair replacement for children suffering from hair loss due to illness in the form of hats or wigs. Blackman says that the program has helped build self-esteem and confidence for inner-city kids who suffer from hair loss due to a number of reasons, and that the wigs that her organization produces try to match the natural hair that the child had before they lost theirs. It is funded by donations and volunteers, and children who receive wigs and hats through the program are also entitled to participate in the Pink Butterflies Program, which is a series of self-esteem workshops. For more information, call 718-978-2527 or visit ButterfliesBBI.org.

Show Name: Here and Now with Sandra Bookman

Air Date: 01/17/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman spoke about Family First Nights, a program which promotes theater-going to inner city children and their families, with Sue Frost, an Audience Engagement Committee member for the Broadway League. The organization partners with social service agencies in order to find families that are in need and qualify for the program, then sells the tickets to the family members at a cost of $10 per ticket. The families not only get to experience a Broadway show, but are also given the opportunity to meet the actors and behind-the-scenes crew members after the performance. This experience not only encourages families to see another show in the future, but can also help jumpstart a child's dream to work on Broadway, a dream they may not have realized without the assistance of this program. DESCRIPTION: Ken Rosato interviewed Bill Lerner, co-founder of Billy4Kids and CEO of iPark about Lerner's charity organization, Billy4Kids. This organization collects shoes and distributes them to children in developing regions in order to help prevent them from coming into contact with dangerous parasitic diseases. Lerner started by collecting sneakers at his iPark garages to send to the children, but his company has also started making their own shoes at a factory in China. Lerner has visited seven countries that he brings shoes to and hopes to continue spreading Billy4Kids' influence throughout the developing world. For more information, visit billy4kids.org or email info@billy4kids.org.

PSA Name: Ad Council Seat Belt

Air Date: Jan 1st-March 31st

Time: Length: 30 Seconds

Type: Public Service Announcement

DESCRIPTION: From 2008 to 2012, 1,609 children ages eight to 14 died while traveling in passenger vehicles. A full 50 percent of them were unrestrained at the time of their death. The new Seat Belt Safety campaign pulls from the insight that as a parent, sometimes you have to let your kids have their way. But your kid's safety should never be up for negotiation, no matter how much they push back on the seat belts being uncomfortable, unnecessary for just a "short drive" or any other excuses. The campaign utilizes the concept that "life as a parent is full of compromises, but seat belt safety for my children is not up for negotiation."

PSA Name: Magic of Storytelling 2016

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman spoke about the latest #OscarsSoWhite campaign with Jeff Friday, Founder and President of the American Black Film Festival. He started this film festival after seeing the lack of diversity at the 1997 Sundance Film Festival. He believes that the system is broken and that Hollywood and the movie industry are treated as an exclusive party, rather than an industry. He said that in order to right these inequalities, there should be more people of color and female members of the academy. He also says that people of color in this industry should be supporting each other and respect groups such as the ABFF that are trying to change the composition of the industry.

Air Date: 02/21/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman and David Jones, President and CEO of the Community Service Society of New York spoke about advocacy for low income New Yorkers, many of whom are African American, Latino, elderly, and/or disabled. Jones said that around 1/3 of New York City's population is considered low-income for a variety of reasons, the biggest one being that wage levels haven't kept up with covering the cost of living in New York City. He says that in order to alleviate the poverty problem, the city, state, and federal governments need to continue programs of raising the minimum wage and provide affordable housing and college programs in order to give the poor opportunities for success. He says that the problem stems from politicians failing to see the poor as a strong political force.

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman discussed the science of stress with Jeanne Ricks, author of "Biology of Beating Stress." Ricks encourages people to consciously breathe deeply throughout the day in order to lower stress levels and minimize the impact that stress has on the human body. According to Ricks, stress can cause our predispositions to certain genetically-related diseases to become stronger or weaker. If we are stressed, we increase our chances of getting diabetes, high blood pressure, high cholesterol, or even certain forms of cancer. Ricks also said that most people should be getting short, intense bursts of exercise when they can in order to maintain optimal health. More information can be found of Ricks' websites, NuDay.org and VibroAcousticsNY.com.

DESCRIPTION: Ken Rosato spoke with Todd Crawford, husband of former ABC7 reporter Lisa Colagrossi and Executive Director of The Lisa Colagrossi Foundation. In March 2015, Lisa passed away from a brain aneurysm, which Crawford's organization aims to bring awareness to. Crawford said that although 30-40,000 people a year suffer from a burst brain aneurysm, this is an underreported rate due to cause of death technicalities. An aneurysm is a weakness in one of the brain's blood vessels due to pressure, that can be deadly if it bursts, but can be monitored or repaired if it is diagnosed using a CT or MRA scan. TLCF is running the "Lucky 7 Challenge" as a national fundraiser with the hopes of raising $7 million over the course of 7 months in order to research and bring awareness to brain aneurysms. Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Joe Torres discusses that the Health Insurance Deadline is quickly approaching through the Affordable Care Act. The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services is trying to recruit more Latinos because they rank among the highest rate of people who are uninsured. Torres is joined by Dennis Gonzalez, Executive Officer from the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services, and Danielle Holahan, Deputy Director from the New York State of Health, to explain why Latinos are not signing up for healthcare. Gonzalez discusses that there has been an increase in enrollment in the past two years with a 12% decrease in the number of Latinos uninsured. He believes that the reason why Latinos are not enrolling in the program is because of particular barriers, such as language. Gonzalez plans on addressing these problems to assist people in enrollment through community engagement and resources. Holahan continues to discuss how she also uses community engagement with trusted partners and organizations to help Latinos enroll and understand the benefits of being insured. She also discusses a new plan called the Essential Plan which is a yearlong, low cost program with health benefits. Gonzalez and Holahan both agree that it is very important for Latinos to enroll not only for their health, but also for tax reductions. To enroll before the deadline on January 31st, people can log onto cuidadodesalud.gov or call 1-800-318-2596.

Air Date: 2/7/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Bill Ritter is joined by Dr. Mary Bassett, NYC Health Commissioner, to evaluate the Zika virus and ways to contain it. Bassett stresses the importance of taking extra caution when travelling to areas where the Zika virus is present, especially for pregnant women or women thinking about getting pregnant because of the deformities it can cause in babies. Ritter further questions if this virus is as deadly as the Ebola virus in which Bassett said that it is something we do not have the same level of concern about because Zika is predominantly transmitted through mosquitos and many people do not realize they exhibit the symptoms of fever, rash, joint pain, and conjunctivitis. Bassett explains two main ways New York is controlling the virus are by advising people on how to protect themselves and by controlling the vector by spraying bug repellent.

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close

Air Date: 2/14/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Programs

DESCRIPTION: Bill Ritter is joined by Dr. Richard Besser, Chief Health and Medical Editor for ABC News, to discuss the Zika virus based on his recent trip to Brazil. Ritter asks Besser how Zika is different from Ebola in which he explains that Zika has been around for a while but the number of cases have grown significantly in South America, specifically in Brazil with 1.5 million cases. Olympic athletes, such as Hope Solo, are hesitant to participate in the games if the number of Zika incidents persists around the time of the Olympics. Besser explained that although people may not consider Zika symptoms with the disease, it is still important for pregnant women, or women trying to get pregnant, to take caution because it will be harmful for the baby. He believes that prevention is key to staying safe because it will benefit both the mother and babies.

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Up Close, Bill Ritter is joined by Dr. Dyan Hes, Pediatrician, and Dean Zilbeman, Son of Dr. Dyan Hes, to discuss his mother's decision to forbid him from playing tackle football because of the high risk of head injuries and concussions. Hes explains that although trying to explain the harmful effects football can have on an athletes brain was challenging, her son eventually understood her reasoning and agreed that it would be best to not play. Hes gives athletic patients the advice that they should consider a backup plan if a professional career doesn't work out and the consequence of getting injured will inhibit their performance in daily tasks. Ritter further questions if being a pediatrician was beneficial when convincing her son not to play in which Hes explained that because she has had significant experience with head injuries, she was able to see, understand, and explain the consequences of a concussion.

Air Date: 1/31/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Quality of Life & the Environment

DESCRIPTION: Bill Ritter is joined by Kathryn Garcia, NYC Sanitation Commissioner, to evaluate the outcome of the blizzard. Garcia discusses that she thinks that the department handled the storm well based on the adjustments made during the storm. She further elaborated on how the department prepared and managed the storm, which included having all hands on deck and gathering the necessary routes, equipment, and salt for the city. Ritter asked Garcia what happened in Queens and why it was difficult to get snow plowed. She answered by explaining how Queens experienced more snowfall than other parts of the city and how trucks were not able to get through the narrow streets which therefore caused them to fall behind when plowing. To avoid challenges like these for future blizzards, Garcia explains the department's new Critical and Sector Plan to ensure that side streets are prioritized so trucks can get through and make the area safe and clear.

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Up Close, Bill Ritter is joined by Senator Charles Schumer, (D) New York, to discuss President Obama's recent Supreme Court Justice nomination, his predictions of the presidential campaign, leg room on airplanes, and housing in New York City. Schumer believes that although Republicans advocate for the new president to appoint a Supreme Court Justice, they will acknowledge that Merrick Garland is an impeccable nominee with qualifying credentials. Schumer also advocates for hearings and believes they are important because it is what the American people want. Ritter questions if Schumer thinks there will be a contested convention in which he explains that it will be difficult to do and he thinks that Trump is going to be the nominee. Changing topic, Schumer advocates for more leg room on airplanes and the Section 8 program for people of lower income to find housing in New York City.

PSA Name: #GetalarmedNYC

Air Date: Jan 1st- March 31st

Time: Length: 30 Seconds

Type: Public Service Announcement

DESCRIPTION: #GetAlarmedNYC is the largest smoke alarm giveaway and installation program in the country. The fire and life safety initiative will provide free installation of 100,000 Kidde combination smoke/carbon monoxide alarms to tens of thousands of city residents, targeting communities that are the greatest risk of fire according to statistics and analysis done by the FDNY. The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) estimates that nationally, the risk of dying in a home fire is cut in half when there is a working smoke alarm. In New York City, the FDNY's Bureau of Fire Investigations has determined that up to 70 percent of fire deaths in recent years have occurred in residences where there was no working smoke alarm. Funding for this program is being provided by the City Council and the FDNY Foundation. Kidde, the fire safety product manufacturer, will contribute alarms. Additionally, the American Red Cross will provide organizational support and volunteers. The volunteers will work with fire safety educators from the Foundation, install alarms in private homes and apartments and provide fire prevention education information.

Air Date: 01/24/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: In this segment of Tiempo, Joe Torres announces “Bronx Youth Heard,” a free after-school program that teaches students about journalism. At the end of this semester, students publish stories about issues affecting their community for their teenage audience. Torres is joined by David Cruz, Program Director of “Bronx Youth Heard,” and Arlenis Peña, Former Student from “Bronx Youth Heard,” to discuss the program and how it works. Cruz explains that this 12 week journalism program teaches students how to craft stories and understand the values of the news. The first six weeks is dedicated to learning how to craft stories and the remaining six weeks is focused on assisting students on writing and publishing their stories. Peña continues by discussing her opinion piece written in the newspaper about the difficulties of immigrant students transitioning from high school to college. From the program, she learned that writing news is not easy but she enjoyed writing stories because she was able to express herself and connect to readers. Cruz encourages all students to join the program because this isn’t just for journalists and this program teaches a multitude of skills that can be applied to any profession. To learn more about “Bronx Youth Heard” for high school students, people can visit their website at norwoodnews.org or call 718-324-4998.

WABC-TV/New York, NY

1st Quarter 2016

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close

Air Date: 3/13/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Bill Ritter speaks with Commissioner Bill Chong, NYC Youth and Community Dev., to discuss the Summer Youth Employment Program, the largest and oldest summer job program in the country. Chong explains that they receive about 130,000 applications and each applicant is entered into a lottery so everyone has an equal opportunity. From personal experience, this was Chong's first job which exposed him to community service and basic working skills. Based on previous involvement, Chong noticed that there are more girls than boys in the program and he believes that they are more prepared for the work force. In closing, Chong values this program because it not only allows teens to stay out of trouble, but also lessens learning loss during summer break. For more information, visit the NYC Summer Jobs Program website at www.nyc.gov/dycd or call 311.

Show Name: Here and Now with Sandra Bookman

Air Date: 03/13/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman spoke with Sharon-Frances Moore, President of Shances, a company that provides professional etiquette classes to students ages six and up. Moore began teaching these classes in when she was in college, but shortly after, began teaching classes for major industries such as entertainment and corporate business. Her business provides lessons for dressing correctly for different professional situations, eat meals, and act at cocktail hours. Moore says the classes give confidence to students because they are prepared to be appropriate for any situation that comes their way. The classes apply to everyone because, as Moore says, everyone's life is always evolving, and you never know where you could find yourself. Moore is working to provide more classes to low-income students, asking people to donate via her GoFundMe page at www.GoFundMe.com/Shances. For more information about Shances, visit www.Shances.com.

Women's Issues

Show Name: Here and Now with Sandra Bookman

Air Date: 01/10/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman interviewed President Phil Andrews and Vice President Sharon Davis about the Long Island African American Chamber of Commerce (LIAACC). This organization was established in 2010 with a mission to bring services to business and business owners in the African American community by educating the public about how to run businesses. The organization also focuses on informing minorities and women about grants and contracts that are available to help them fund their businesses, and they provide fundamental training and mentoring through a series of 3-day workshops to certify businesses. For more information, visit LIACC.org.

Show Name: Here and Now with Sandra Bookman

Air Date: 01/10/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman interviewed Lawrence E. Walker, director of the documentary titled, "Sweet Georgia Brown: Impact, Courage, Sacrifice, and Will." Walker's film tells the little-known story about the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps (WAAC), which was made up of African-American women who served in the US military during World War II as military base employees and nurses overseas. Walker credited the development of these troops, although segregated, to First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt and Mary McLeod Bethune. The documentary will have a showing at Kean University in New Jersey on November 19, and other showings will be announced on PureHistory.org.

Air Date: 02/21/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman spoke with Dr. Jennifer Mieres, a cardiologist and spokesperson for the American Heart Association about her belief in a domestic approach to preventing heart attacks and heart disease. Dr. Mieres says that there is new research saying that people, especially women face an increased risk of heart disease if they face stress and lack of sleep on a regular basis, and that they face a much higher risk of heart disease due to microvascular diseases, which are much more common and catastrophic for women. Dr. Mieres said that African American women in particular face a higher risk of undetected heart problems because they tend to have more weight problems and live more sedentary, stressful lifestyles. PSA Name: Grace Institute Recruitment

Air Date: Jan 1st-March 31st

Time: Length: 15 Seconds

Type: Public Service Announcement

DESCRIPTION: Grace Institute was originally created as a tuition-free program aimed at helping educate and find employment for women in need. Throughout the 20th and 21st centuries, over 100,000 women at Grace Institute have learned skills needed to successfully enter the workforce. Grace Institute has continued to serve as a market leader in workforce development and has launched new administrative and customer support trainings to serve the legal, healthcare, nonprofit, and hospitality industries. It was championed by Former Secretary of State Hilary Clinton, Facebook COO Sheryl Sandberg and Marie Wilson, founder of the Ms. Foundation for Women.

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 3/13/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Tiempo, Joe Torres is joined by Maria Aponte-Gonzalez, Founder of Latina 50 Plus, and Yvette Martinez, Co-Founder of ¡Retumba!, to talk about Latina 50 Plus, an organization to honor Hispanic female pioneers over 50. Aponte-Gonzalez decided to create this organization to specifically honor Latina women over 50 years old who have dedicated years in education, law, medicine, and community service. The main effort is to also help women go back to school and the organization has two scholarships to help these women do that. They anticipate having mentoring programs, more conferences, and partnerships with younger Latina women. There is a Latina 50 Plus event on Sunday, March 13th from 12 PM – 4 PM at the Bronx Museum of the Arts at 1040 Grand Concourse in the Bronx.

Law & the Judicial System

Show Name: Eyewitness News: Up Close

Air Date: 01/17/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Bill Ritter spoke with New York City Corrections Commissioner Joseph Ponte about the recent changes to the city's correctional system, especially at Rikers Island. After an investigation led by the Department of Justice, Ponte and his team developed a 14-point plan to deal with the many problems with the corrections system. Ponte says that while there have been improvements in the recruitment and hiring processes, this has caused other problems, such as overcrowding in recruitment classes. However, many corrections officers feel that these changes are making their jobs harder and more dangerous. While the number of violent incidents ending in injuries has decreased since the plan went into effect, the amount of incidents overall has increased. Ponte feels that in order to most effectively reform the prison system in New York City, we must stop putting offenders in prison who are truly in need of mental health, or drug and alcohol treatment.

Show Name: Here and Now with Sandra Bookman

Air Date: 01/17/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman spoke with Jacques Jiha, Ph.D. and Commissioner of the New York City Department of Finance about deed fraud, which has been a major problem for many New Yorkers recently. Deed fraud is when people use fraudulent documents in order to take property from homeowners by forging signatures and approaching homeowners, especially the elderly and immigrants. These crimes are common in Brooklyn and Queens, where property values tend to be very high. While originally, there wasn't much that could be done to remedy these situations, safeguards have been put into place recently in order to help people keep their homes. Jiha said that if this happens to you, it is important to quickly file a claim with the sheriff's department, hire an attorney, and review your title insurance policy. For more information, visit NYC.gov/Finance or call 311.

1st Quarter 2016

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 01/31/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Tiempo, Joe Torres discusses the free workshops in our area to help Latinos with their taxes under the Prepárate Para Un Futuro Mejor (Prepare for a Better Future) campaign. Torres is joined by Emmanuel Diaz, Multicultural Initiatives Manager from H&R Block, and Jeffrey Melo, Coordinator from Hispanic Access Foundation New York, to discuss how tax preparation for Latinos is different from tax preparation for anyone else. Diaz responds by saying that it is not about the law but rather the tendency Latinos have to rely on close family and relatives for information rather than professionals. In order to educate and assist members of this community, Diaz and Melo discuss how they host these workshops in places, like churches and community centers, to make this a safe space for open discussion. At the workshops, consultants evaluate each person's current situation (i.e. marital status) and explain the necessary documents for tax preparation. In accordance with this, they emphasize the importance of not using fake social security numbers by educating them about the benefits they provide and the repercussions they may cause in the future. Diaz and Melo hope that they can not only assist and educate Latinos about taxes, but guide them towards becoming citizens of the United States. For more information, viewers can visit hispanicaccess.org, pormifuturo.org, or call 1-800-206-9096.

Show Name: Here and Now with Sandra Bookman

Air Date: 02/14/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Host Sandra Bookman spoke with New York City's first female District Attorney, Darcel Clark. As a Bronx native, she has created a list of goals that she would like to accomplish during her four-year term as the Bronx district attorney. She would like to fix the backlog in the Bronx courts in order to benefit both crime victims and those accused, change policies at Rikers Island so that it becomes a safer place for inmates and employees, and standardize the Bronx conviction review board. In order to accomplish this, she plans on getting the opinions of different types of employees in the judicial system. She hopes that her goals will be accomplished by the time her four year term ends in 2020.

1st Quarter 2016

Show Name: Here and Now with Sandra Bookman

Air Date: 02/14/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman spoke with Courtney B. Vance, who is currently playing Johnny Cochran on American Crime Story: The OJ Simpson Trial. Vance spoke about how important he feels this series is because it depicts one of the defining trials of the 20th century. The series doesn't delve into whether Simpson is guilty or innocent of the crime, but it details the legal process that occurred before and during the infamous trial. He hopes that the miniseries will encourage the public to talk about the issues surrounding this case in order to ease racial tensions across the United States.

Show Name: Here and Now with Sandra Bookman

Air Date: 02/28/16

Length: 60 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Host Sandra Bookman spoke with Professor Matthew Johnson, Psychologist at John Jay College, and Jeffery Deskovic, Executive Director of the Jeffery Deskovic Foundation for Justice. Deskovic founded this organization after he was released from wrongful imprisonment from age 16 to 32. Deskovic was convicted when he was 17 of rape and murder after a 7 hour interrogation and coerced confession. He was exonerated after DNA evidence proved him innocent and identified the actual perpetrator. His organization, along with Johnson, work to change New York State's laws regarding recording interrogations, with their goal being to achieve the passage of legislation that requires video recording of all police interrogations. While anyone can be a victim of this type of coercive interrogation, minorities are usually the ones affected by it. Johnson will be holding a public panel discussion on March 3rd with Deskovic as one of the panel's speakers regarding the laws directing interrogation techniques and policies at John Jay College. Problems of the Disadvantaged & Homeless

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 01/10/15

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Joe Torres sat down to speak with Westchester County Executive Rob Astorino (R) and Shirley Acevedo Buontempo, founder and executive director of Latino U College Access to talk about their new partnership. Astorino said that language barriers shouldn't play a role in keeping people from going to college, so Spanish speakers are made available to students and their families in order to help them fill out the FAFSA form so that the students can receive financial aid. He says that he hopes that this program will encourage people to continue to live, work, and open businesses in Westchester County. Buontempo added that it is critical for families to use the government-sponsored FAFSA form early because government aid is often distributed on a rolling basis. A FAFSA workshop will be taking place on January 17th at the White Plains Library from 1-5pm. More information on the workshop can be found at CollegeGoalNY.org, and information on the FAFSA form can be found at FAFSA.gov.

DESCRIPTION: Sandra Bookman and David Jones, President and CEO of the Community Service Society of New York spoke about advocacy for low income New Yorkers, many of whom are African American, Latino, elderly, and/or disabled. Jones said that around 1/3 of New York City's population is considered low-income for a variety of reasons, the biggest one being that wage levels haven't kept up with covering the cost of living in New York City. He says that in order to alleviate the poverty problem, the city, state, and federal governments need to continue programs of raising the minimum wage and provide affordable housing and college programs in order to give the poor opportunities for success. He says that the problem stems from politicians failing to see the poor as a strong political force.

Issues of Local Relevance Involving Other States or Countries

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 01/10/15

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Joe Torres interviewed Charlie Minn, a documentary filmmaker who has focused greatly on the life of Joaquin “El Chapo” Guzman about El Chapo’s recent re-capture and possible extradition to the United States. Minn says that he believes that if El Chapo is not extradited to the United States, there is a great possibility that he will escape again. Minn says that from his time learning about the drug lord, he learned that more than half of Mexico trusts El Chapo and loves him more than actual government officials because he provides for the poor despite his responsibility for the deaths of over 80,000 innocent Mexicans. Minn addressed the Sean Penn scandal surrounding El Chapo’s capture, and said that the media should emphasize the innocent victims of crimes rather than the criminals because it gives them the fame that they want, while failing to respect the victims and their families. For more information, visit CharlieMinn.com or EsElChapo.com.

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 02/21/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Tiempo, Joe Torres discusses the United States and Cuba resuming commercial air traffic. Torres is joined by Ross Kenneth Urken, Personal Finance Editor of “TheStreet,” and Cynthia Carris Alonso, “Author & Photographer of “Passage to Cuba.” Urken and Alonso believe that having the ability to travel to Cuba on commercial flights will bring a greater attraction to the area. Details regarding the process are still being developed but include airlines submitted proposals to the Department of Transportation and getting approval from the Cuban government. Torres also discusses the current embargo in place in Cuba which includes the terms and conditions Americans must comply with when travelling to Cuba, such as following a tour based itinerary and getting visas for travel. Torres also questions their opinion of whether or not Cuba current development is suitable for Americans in which they discuss that currently Americans can rent out Casa Particulars (i.e. Air B&Bs) but several accommodations, such as Internet access, need to be developed. Urken and Alonso believe that the increase in tourism will allow people to travel beyond Havana, Cuba and also economically help other areas because of the nine international airports currently present there. Upcoming events for the “Passage to Cuba” are on Tuesday, February 23rd at 92nd, St. Y Lexington Ave at 92nd Street starting at 7 PM and on Thursday, February 25th at Mid-Manhattan Library, 455 5th Avenue starting at 6:30 PM.

1st Quarter 2016

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 3/20/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Tiempo, Joe Torres is joined by Senator Bob Menendez (D) NJ to discuss the new legislation to help Puerto Rico with their debt crisis, President Obama's upcoming trip to Cuba, and the presidential election. Menendez discusses that Puerto Rico needs individuals with financial experience to come together and devise a plan that can get approved and maintain sovereignty for the citizens of Puerto Rico. He argues that this is important because without restructuring debt, there will not be enough money for Puerto Rico and negatively impact its future. Menendez is not in favor of President Obama's recent trip to Cuba because he believes that Cuba does not promote any elements of democracy or human rights and America should not visit a country like this one. Finally, Menendez discusses the large impact Latinos will have on the upcoming election because of the relevancy of issues affecting this community.

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 3/27/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Tiempo, Joe Torres is joined by Ben Greenzweig, Co-Founder/Co-CEO of Momentumevents.com, and Vita Echevarría, Consultant at Travelucion.com, to discuss President Obama's Historic Trip to Cuba. Both men anticipate commerce between America and Cuba companies because many Americans want to travel to Cuba. Also, Greenzweig discusses the summits that bring people together who are interested in going to Cuba and those who can educate them about entering into the marketplace. Echevarría believes that the Cuban government will get credibility and commercial benefits by entering into this shared economy with The United States and Cuba. Joe Torres also asks them about the embargo in which they discuss that it will not be lifted during Obama's administration but anticipates several, major changes as a result of this historic visit.

Immigration

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 01/10/15

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Joe Torres interviewed Angela Fernandez, Executive Director of the Northern Manhattan Coalition for Immigrant Rights and Jessica Orozco, Director of Immigration and Civic Engagement Hispanic Federation about efforts to help legal residents of the United States become citizens in order to vote in the 2016 Presidential election. The NMCIR provides free immigration services, which can cost hundreds or thousands of dollars, every Thursday at their offices on 53rd Street and Broadway. The organizations hope to combat the recent rise in anti-immigrant sentiments by helping legal residents gain the right to voice their opinions by voting in elections, and the NMCIR has seen a major increase in the amount of applicants visiting their office over the last 6 months. The group is able to provide a relatively quick turnaround period of 3-6 months to many citizenship applicants. For more information, those who are interested in the program should visit NMCIR.org.

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 01/17/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: Host Joe Torres interviewed Favio Ramirez-Caminatti, Executive Director of El Centro del Inmigrante, Lenni Benson, Founder and Executive Director at Safe Passage Project, and Barbara Camacho, Pro Bono Manager of Fragomen Worldwide about recent issues in the immigrant community. El Centro works to provide needs to immigrant families, especially in the Staten Island area, and provides 15 "Know Your Rights" workshops per week in order to teach immigrants about their rights when dealing with police and immigration police. There has been a spike in attendance at these classes recently due to the federal government's immigrant raids and crackdown. Safe Passage brings pro bono lawyers, students, and volunteers to immigration court to help young people, especially children navigate the system. The representatives said that it is important for people to know that they do not have to open the door for immigration police and that they should ask for any "warrants" to be slid under the door so that they can be proven legitimate. They said that these raids are detrimental to the community because they create a culture of fear and cause people to be afraid of going to work, school, hospitals, and other places that they need to get to in order to stay functioning in society. For more information, visit elcentronyc.org, SafePassageProject.org, or Fragomen.com.

1st Quarter 2016

Show Name: Tiempo with Joe Torres

Air Date: 01/24/16

Length: 30 minutes

Type: Local Public Affairs Program

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Tiempo, Joe Torres discusses the Supreme Court's agreement to hear President Obama's immigration plan which will protect immigrants from deportation. Torres is joined by Christopher Cabanillas, Immigration Attorney from Cabanillas & Associates, and Jose Perez, Legal Director of Latinojustice PRLDEF. Torres asks how this law will impact DAPA (Deferred Action for Parents of Americans) in which Cabanillas discusses how it will enable people who have been in America for a period of time to not live in fear of deportation and continue to contribute to society. Perez continues by discussing how President Obama put DAPA in place in November of 2014, along with several executive orders, to evaluate the eligibility of these candidates. As a result, Texas filed a law suit seeking to stop the President and the Department of Homeland Security from "Prosecutorial Discretion" or the Federal Government's ability to decide who needs to be removed and who can stay. Texas won their argument with concerns of additional costs and whether or not President Obama is creating law instead of enforcing law. The upcoming Supreme Court order will decide whether justice will prevail to take up Obama's immigration act. They anticipate that this plan will be approved by the summer of 2016.

DESCRIPTION: On this episode of Tiempo, Joe Torres discusses Mayor DiBlasio's State of the City Address to create a more equal city. Torres is joined by Daniel Altsculer, Director of Research and Civic Engagement from Make the Road New York, and Natalia Aristizabal, Lead Organizer from Make the Road New York. In general, Altsculer and Aristizabal believe that DiBlasio has increased benefits for immigrants and is trying to provide affordable housing which should be affordable for primarily lower to middle income citizens. Altsculer further discussed the MIH plan which creates and preserves 2,000 new units by rezoning and creating new housing. In addition, Aristizabal discusses the benefits DiBlasio provides for immigrants, such as an ID card, and how the banks should consider accepting since it is acceptable according to NYPD standards. Torres also discusses education as a result of this address in which Altsculer explains that although overcrowding has always been an issue in large cities, there needs to be a larger emphasis on community initiatives and discipline so students are able to learn and drop out or end up in prison.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Tuesday, January 26, 2016

- Car Trouble: On a suburban street outside an ice-cream shop, a woman makes it clear she is having trouble changing her flat tire. Watch how people respond when our actress is dressed in a sexy outfit. What will responses be when she is wearing a traditional Muslim hijab?
- Online Predator: At a café, a 16-year-old boy is waiting to finally meet up with a girl he met online – a girl he thinks is his age. But when she turns out to be an older woman in her 40's, he can't decide whether he should leave with her. Will fellow patrons say anything?
- We're Having a Girl: While out to eat, a pregnant wife tells her husband the exciting news that she is having a girl. The only problem? He already has two girls and wants a boy. What will fellow diners do when they witness his very obvious displeasure?
- Diet Pills: Three teenage girls are out to lunch when two of them start to peer pressure the third into taking diet pills. As they try to convince their friend to take the pills because appearance really matters, our pressured teen is skeptical. Will bystanders say anything?
- Sore Loser Dad: A father/coach is buying ice cream for a group of little leaguers after a hard-fought game – for everyone except one boy – his own son. He tells the boy that his strike out cost his team the game; therefore, he gets no ice cream. The child is visibly upset, telling his dad that he tried his best. The dad/coach does not want to hear it.

- Will anyone agree to buy recreational marijuana for underage teens at a store licensed to sell to those 21 and older? The teens are not only asking customers but also anyone who passes by.
- A Good Samaritan brings a homeless man into a bar and gives the bartender $20 to buy the man a meal. Once the Good Samaritan leaves, the bartender pockets the money and tells the homeless man that he needs to get out. How will other customers react?
- A 16-year-old girl with a guitar is at a café studying when an older man approaches her, claiming to have a music studio in his home. When he invites the teen back to his house to "jam," will bystanders say anything?
- What will Portlanders do when they spot someone trying to saw off the lock on a bike in a park? What will responses be if the man is white and if he is black? What if it's an attractive woman?
- Portland has been called one of the greenest cities in America. So how will people react when they see the "What Would You Do?" actor carelessly littering?

LAST DANCE

A divorced mother of four, two wealthy doctors and a twisted love triangle that ends in murder -- was the killing of a prominent doctor a random act of violence or the result of a deadly obsession by an ex-boyfriend? On a quiet summer morning, Dr. Joseph Sonnier is found brutally murdered in his stately north west Texas home. Who could have wanted to kill a so-called renaissance man beloved by his small community? Police are stumped until they receive a tip out of the blue, leading them to the man who pulled the trigger. After two trials, will justice be served?

SEARCH FOR BIOLOGICAL FAMILIES

- For 44 years, Donald DJ Williams, who was discovered just four days after Christmas, on December 29, 1971 in a nativity scene in a Houston church as a baby, knew nothing about his biological family. After watching a "20/20" last November where Slaton helped solve a decades-old mystery, DJ turned to Slaton and ABC for help. Will DNA testing bring DJ closer to the truth? Vargas and DJ return to the church where he was abandoned with hopes of a breakthrough.
- Growing up as an only child, Gina Lozada of Long Island always wanted a sibling. Yet after her father died, Gina's mom revealed a family secret -- that her dad had fathered a son with another woman before they were married. For almost three decades Gina ran into dead-ends while searching for her brother, but she never gave up hope. Will a strange encounter with a New Jersey man at an Atlantic City casino be the turning point for Gina in her life-long quest to find her sibling?
- Mississippi native Amanda Holdiness, 31, has always wanted to meet her biological father. The only problem is her mother, Vivian, refused to reveal his true identity saying she was all Amanda ever needed. Vivian finally gave Amanda a name last year, and, after watching "20/20" and Slaton solve another case, she turned to Slaton to help find him. They traveled to Florida and Louisiana. Will it prove to be successful journeys?

WHAT THE CAMERA DIDN'T SEE

Nique Leili was found dead near her suburban home a week after going missing. Her family immediately suspected husband Matt, who filed for divorce within days of her disappearance. He claimed Nique was "crazy" and that she stormed off. Matt, who had installed 21 cameras and other surveillance devices in his home to keep watch on the spouse he did not trust, refused to help police. It took nearly four years for prosecutors to determine there was enough evidence to charge Matt and take the case to trial. Jim Avila reports.

THE WOLFPACK

A family with seven children lived together in a small apartment for more than a decade, but almost no one knew they existed. The children were raised in four small rooms, homeschooled by their mother and trapped by their father, who allowed them to leave the apartment for rare, closely supervised outings. In January 2010, one son, Mukunda, a middle child who was 15 at the time, found the courage to break free. The story of the Angulo family was revealed through the award-winning documentary "The Wolfpack." Elizabeth Vargas had the first broadcast interview. In an update, 20/20 reports how the lives of three brothers have changed since.
