DESCRIPTION OF ISSUES: Happy Trails Farm Animal Sanctuary has a summer tour season. Director Annette Fisher says people can come see the farm animals that have been rescued around the state. The sanctuary is the only in the state that takes in farm animals and then puts them up for adoption.

Happy Trails Farm Animal Sanctuary 2013 TOUR SEASON

Visit the sanctuary. Meet the rescued animals. Up close. Personal.

Get to know their stories. Check out our facilities. See our progress. Your tour fee directly supports the animal rescue programs of Happy Trails. It pays for things like grain, hay, straw, veterinary expenses, medications, hoof trimming, shelter repairs, and any special needs of each animal.

What to Expect

Farm animals live outdoors, so dress for the weather. Tours take place rain or shine. Be prepared to give a pig a belly rub. Hug a mini horse. Pet a retired cock-fighting rooster. See 1,000 lb.

farm pigs. Play with the goats. Look up in wonder at the big draft horses. Hear some heart-warming stories of rescue and rehab. Meet the animals in person. Get a hands-on tour.
