Nixlot's passion began as a search for a solution to being bullied in school. Nixlot is the child of Haitian immigrant parents; his lack of grasp on the English language made him a prey in his community and school. He became the target of several gang attacks because of how poor he was as well.

Because Nixlot, grew up in a Christian home he knew that there would be no fighting so, instead of building his mind and muscles to retaliate, he decided to try bodybuilding, and by the age of seventeen, he had already won eight bodybuilding titles under the World Physique Federation and was qualified to represent the United States at the World Championships in Brussels Belgium and Slovenia twice.

He has since appeared on several national media platforms and has spoken at a number of different schools, churches and media platforms on the effects and solutions to bullying, mental health and wellness. From elementary schools to colleges such as Temple University, he is currently contouring bodies worldwide as he continues to prepare for more international competition. What many people don't know is that Nixlot suffers from a rare heart disease which the doctors told him that he would never heal from when he was just fifteen.
