EARTH ODYSSEY WITH DYLAN DREYER

CRUISING THROUGH COSTA RICA [EDD501]

Today on Earth Odyssey, host Dylan Dreyer takes us on an adventure to Costa Rica to explore the incredible creatures that call this tropical oasis home. First up, we'll travel to the jungle forests to spend the day with a group of mantled howler monkeys. Mantled howler monkeys are the largest known New World monkeys, producing some of the loudest sounds in the forests. While the mantled howler isn't the noisiest of the nine howler monkey species, its vocal demonstrations can still be heard from miles away. We'll find out that howler monkeys can live to be about twenty years old in the wild. We'll also learn that howler monkeys have a prehensile tail which acts as a fifth limb that can grasp branches. Next, we'll take to the skies to meet one of the world's most iconic and exotic bird species, the great green macaw. Also known as the great military macaw, these incredible birds have a lifespan of about fifty years in the wild and eighty in captivity. We'll discover that macaws have specialized tongues containing a scaly exterior and a bone. Currently in danger of extinction, we'll also learn about protection and reforestation efforts in Costa Rica to help save the great green macaw.

[Educational Message: In this episode, we visited Costa Rica to learn more about the brilliant wildlife that flourishes there. Despite its small landmass, Costa Rica is an entire world of its own and continues to be an oasis for so many of Earth's most spectacular fauna and flora.]

WILD CHILD

A WILD ZOOTOPIA! [WLC308]

Today on Wild Child, host Sheinelle Jones takes us across the world to find our planet's most incredible zoo residents. We'll learn that when it comes to creating comfortable home zones, most zoos design their living spaces to be as close to an animal's natural environment as possible. First up, we'll discover more about a unique animal from down under, the grey kangaroo. We'll learn that at birth, joeys are only about the size of a jellybean. Grey kangaroo joeys will use their mother's pouch for about eleven months, even after growing to be about three feet long. In the wild, grey kangaroos like to browse open grassland and woodland areas. We'll find out that when feeding, kangaroos move with all four feet on the ground using their tail as support. Next, we'll learn about a fascinating but endangered species, the red panda. Red pandas are excellent tree climbers with semi-retractable claws like a cat. Red pandas and giant pandas share a love of bamboo, but their species are not actually related. We'll find out that studies show red pandas are most closely related to raccoons. We'll also learn that red pandas have been identified as both nocturnal and crepuscular, sleeping for up to 17 hours a day.

[Educational Message: Endangered animals are so rarely seen in the wild, their daily lives and habits
