ECONOMY

“Fish Farms” (WRAL Documentary)

Air Date: 07/17/21 04:30PM 30 Minutes

It has been called one of North Carolina’s best kept secrets, an industry that is not very visible to the average person but is all over the state and generates around $60 million a year in revenue. The industry is called aquaculture, which simply put, is the farming of fish. From the mountains to the coast farmers are raising finfish like trout, catfish, striped bass and even Russian sturgeon. In our state’s coastal waters farmers are raising oysters and clams. How much is the industry growing? What does it mean for commercial fishing? What is its future in North Carolina? “Fish Farms” goes inside the fascinating world of aquaculture to answer those questions and takes viewers inside an industry few ever see. WRAL News Anchor Debra Morgan hosts the documentary.
