CIVIC ISSUES:

1/01/17 5:00AM 00:12:10

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: With new gadgets and programs being invented every day, the technologies used in solving crimes are changing constantly. We reached out to leading experts on the subject, including a programmer, a 3D printing specialist, and best-selling crime author Patricia Cornwell. Through these interviews, we got the inside scoop on how mobile devices, 3D models, and even “smart home” devices like a refrigerator can be used to crunch the data, solve crimes, and present cases in court. Host: Gary Price. Guests: Lee Reiber, COO for Oxygen Forensics Inc.; Jerry Ropelator, CEO of White Clouds; Patricia Cornwell, bestselling crime author, author of “Chaos.”

1/08/17 6:30AM 00:24:30

WHIO REPORTS: This edition of WHIO Reports focused on a review of the 2016 presidential election. Guests discussed the historic election cycle from the primary to the general including focus on President-elect Trump, the impact of debates and strengths and weaknesses of the candidates. Guests: Dr. Mark Caleb Smith, Director of Center for Political Studies, Cedarville University; Will Garbe, Reporter, DDN; CEDARVILLE UNIVERSITY 251 N Main St, Cedarville, OH 45314 1-800-CEDARVILLE (233-2784) website: <https://www.cedarville.edu/>

1/15/17 5:00AM 00:10:50

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: Later this week, President-elect Donald Trump will become President Donald Trump. With his inauguration looming, the Republican party must feel pretty good about their position moving forward. But how are they doing with minority voters, specifically African Americans? We talk to expert and author Corey Fields about what motivates black Republicans, how they’re treated both at home and within their party, and what the future may hold for the direction of minorities within the Republican voting block. Host: Gary Price. Guests: Corey Fields, Assistant professor of sociology at Stanford University, affiliated member at the Center for the Comparative Studies of Race & Ethnicity, and author of the book Black Elephants in the Room: The Unexpected Politics of African American Republicans

1/15/17 5:30AM 00:12:15

RADIO HEALTH JOURNAL: SEGMENT 1: With recreational marijuana use legal in eight states and 29 permitting medical pot use, there will be more drivers on the road who are potentially under the influence of marijuana. However, police have no way to determine who is dangerous and who is not, as blood levels of marijuana’s active ingredient are often meaningless. Experts discuss the problem and new scientific discoveries about marijuana impairment. Host: Reed Pence. Guests: Dr. Marilyn Huestis, Prof. of Toxicology, Univ. of Maryland

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 2: Japanese internment camps are something we're aware of, but may not fully understand. Photo historian and author Richard Cahan talks about the history of the camps, what makes them so "un-American," and why he says we shouldn't look back at the camps as precedent or a blueprint, but as a black eye we should avoid repeating at all costs. Host: Gary Price. Guests: Richard Cahan, photo historian, former Chicago Sun-Times editor, and author of Un-American: The Incarceration of Japanese Americans During World War II

2/05/17 6:30AM 00:24:30

WHIO REPORTS: This edition of WHIO Reports focused on winter weather in the Miami Valley. WHIO-TV chief meteorologist Eric Elwell discussed the increased difficulty with predicting winter weather forecasts as opposed to other seasons. He along with experts from Greene County Engineering and ODOT discussed weather forecasting equipment and tools, street quality and repairs as a result of weather, as well as discussing the outlook for the season. Guests: Eric Elwell, Chief Meteorologist, WHIO-TV; Bob Geyer, Engineer, Greene County; Scott Kasler, Highway Management Administrator, ODOT; GREENE COUNTY website: www.co.greene.oh.us/; OHIO DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION 1980 West Broad Street, Columbus Ohio 43223 (614) 466-7170 website: www.dot.state.oh.us/

2/12/17 5:00AM 00:10:40

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 2: The news typically shows us stories about the national government being stuck in a gridlock on most of the big, important issues. Sarah Van Gelder, co-founder of Yes! Magazine, went on a trip across America to see how change is being made at the local level and found inspirational stories and examples of community involvement solving big problems while paving the way for a better future. She shares these anecdotes and helpful hints for others out there hoping to make a difference in their area. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Sarah Van Gelder, co-founder of YES! Magazine, author of The Revolution Where You Live: Stories from a 12,000-Mile Journey Through a New America

2/12/17 6:00AM 00:29:04

Luther King Jr., Stokely Carmichael, and countless others. Weeks later, Meredith had recovered and rejoined the walk, giving history an enduring image of persistence and determination. We talk to historian Ann Bausum about the history and impact of the march. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Ann Bausum, historian and author of the book, The March Against Fear: The Last Great Walk of the Civil Rights Movement and the Emergence of Black Power

2/26/17 5:00AM 00:11:30

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: Since the election, protests for issues on both sides of the political spectrum have grabbed headlines. A women’s march, a march for life, a march for science, the list goes on. But can these protests make a difference, and if so, where? We talk to political science experts about movements that have succeeded in the past and how change may come about, specifically when it comes to the electoral college system that some feel over-values certain states over others. Host: Gary Price. Guests: David Cannon, Professor and Chair of Political Science at the University of Wisconsin-Madison; Jasmine Farrier, Professor of Political Science at the University of Louisville

2/26/17 6:00AM 00:29:00

MIAMI VALLEY VOICES: Cory Frolik, CMGO Dayton reporter, on new projects and construction in downtown Dayton

3/05/17 6:30AM 00:24:30

WHIO REPORTS: This edition of WHIO Reports focused on U.S. immigration policy in America. Guests discussed the Trump administration executive order for a travel ban on immigration from select countries. The effects of the initial implementation of the ban were discussed as well as the idea of a merit-based system and potential revisions for a more effective strategy on immigration policy. Guests: Kathleen Kersh, Attorney, Advocates for Basic Legal Equality, Inc.; Ramadan Alhaddad, Arabic translator; Robert Wood, Republican Party Chairman, Greene County; Josh Sweigart, Reporter, DDN; ADVOCATES FOR BASIC LEGAL EQUALITY, INC. 130 West Second St., Ste. 700 East, Dayton, OH 45402 (937) 228-8104 website: www.lawolaw.org/

3/12/17 5:00AM 00:11:16

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 2: The Bill of Rights may seem like they were simply added on to the end of the Constitution. Civil liberty lawyer Burt Neuborne offers a different outlook on the document. Neuborne dives into the structure of the Bill of Rights and explains how James Madison used organization skills to ensure the first ten amendments to the United States Constitution build on each other and establish a logical system of government. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Burt Neuborne, Norman Dorsen Professor of Civil Liberties, Bennan Center for Justice at New York University and former national legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union

CULTURE ISSUES:

1/01/17 5:00AM 00:09:27

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 2: We see it everywhere: time travel. The concept has dominated our books, movies, and television for decades. We even saw a time travel ethics question dominate our primary election coverage. So what is it about these stories that we find so irresistible? We talk to Dr. Travis Langley, a pop culture psychologist, to uncover what lies underneath the fantasy we've all indulged from time to time: traveling backwards and forwards through time. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Dr. Travis Langley, author of a series of pop culture psychology books including, "Doctor Who Psychology: A Madman with a Box."

1/08/17 5:00AM 00:12:00

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: With "La La Land" tapping into theaters around the country and a strong contender for this year's Oscars, we wanted to re-visit one of the quintessential American art forms: jazz. And nobody sings jazz better, or more distinctly, than Sheila Jordan. We talk to Jordan and her biographer about Jordan's rise, the racism that jazz musicians – both black and white – experienced, and the need to preserve from poverty to her career singing with some of the most famous jazz musicians of the 20th century this music for future generations. Host: Gary Price. Guests: Sheila Jordan, jazz singer, teacher and composer. Ellen Johnson, singer, musician, author of Jazz Child: A portrait of Sheila Jordan

1/22/17 5:00AM 00:10:28

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 2: It's a common goal to get back to the creative passions of your youth and write that novel... but something always seems to be holding us back. We talk to two experts about the roadblocks on the way to finishing your masterpiece and how to overcome them. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Danielle Krysa, author of the book Your Inner Critic Is a Big Jerk: And other truths about being creative, David W. Berner, radio host, professor at Columbia College Chicago, author of Night Radio conduct. We talk to a librarian and author about where nursery rhymes came from and how they were used before they ended up in Mother Goose books. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Chris Roberts, librarian, author of Heavy Words Lightly Thrown: The reason behind the rhyme.

2/05/17 5:00AM 00:10:35

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 2: We encourage our children to read... but what are they reading? We talk to two authors, one for children and one for young adults, who discuss juggling their desire to entertain with the necessity of teaching young people about ethics, history, and tougher topics like drugs and addiction. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: Linda Fairstein, author of Into the Lion's Den: The Devilin QuickMysteries; Ellen Hopkins, author of The You I've Never Known

3/12/17 5:00AM 00:10:20

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: Mark Greaney is a New York Times bestselling author perhaps best known for collaborating with Tom Clancy on three books, but Greaney's own spy series has been ongoing since 2009. He joins the show to talk about his Gray Man series, where he gets his inspiration, and to separate the true elements he learned from real US operatives from the fiction he imagines when writing. Host: Gary Price. Guests: Mark Greaney, author, Gunmetal Gray

3/12/17 5:30AM 00:12:13

RADIO HEALTH JOURNAL: SEGMENT 2: Many people sing badly and think they're tone deaf, but a surprisingly low proportion of them truly can't tell one note from another. They not only can't sing, they also can't enjoy music, may have trouble with certain forms of language, and may be unable to communicate emotion in their speech. Experts discuss. Host: Reed Pence. Guests: Dr. Psyche Loui, Asst. Prof. of Psychology and Neuroscience, Wesleyan Univ.; Dr. Dominique Vuvan, researcher, International Laboratory for Brain, Music and Sound Research. Compliancy issues covered: culture; communication; education

3/12/17 6:00AM 00:29:37

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: You may know Charlton Heston from Ben Hur, The Planet of the Apes, or The Ten Commandments. But biographer Marc Eliot tells us about Heston’s other side. He was a soldier, a liberal, and a conservative in his 84 years. He walked with Dr. King and became president of the NRA. Eliot discusses how his politics impacted his career... and his legacy. Host: Gary Price. Guests: Marc Eliot, biographer and author of “Charlton Heston: Hollywood’s Last Icon”

3/26/17 5:00AM 00:10:35

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 2: It has been decades since Bob Marley’s death, but his music is still played and his face still shows up on tee shirts. From “One Love” and “Jamming” to “Buffalo Soldier” and “Three Little Birds,” you’ve heard his iconic music, but what about his life and career made such an impact? We talk to two Marley experts, James Henke and Vivien Goldman to uncover what made Marley tick and how his message became so prominent. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests: James Henke, rock journalist and author of “Marley Legend;” Viven Goldman, adjunct professor at Rutgers University and author of “Exodus: The Making & Meaning of Bob Marley’s Album of the Century”

ECONOMY ISSUES

1/22/17 5:00AM 00:11:06

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: Many people remain in bad situations because they are afraid to quit, but they shouldn’t. Our guest says that if you take the time to carefully plan just how and when you’ll walk out the door, it’s easier to deal with the anxiety, fear and depression that can follow such a big decision. We’ll hear about steps anyone can take – and those they shouldn’t – when it’s time to quit and move on. Host: Gary Price. Guests: Peg Streep writes non-fiction, is a blogger at Psychology Today.com and the author of the book, “Quitting: Why we fear it, and why we shouldn’t, in life, love and work,” now out in paperback.

EDUCATION ISSUES:

2/19/17 5:00AM 00:11:18

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: Often, philosophy is so dense and hard to fully process that it feels impossible to understand and enjoy. Thomas Cathcart and Daniel Klein are trying to fix that problem. Their book, Plato and a Platypus Walk Into a Bar explains some of the deepest thinkers of all time, like Immanuel Kant or John Locke, with humor. Both authors join the show to tell stories, crack jokes, and clarify some of the big ideas of philosophy. Host: Gary Price. Guests: Thomas Cathcart and Daniel Klein, philosophers, humorists, and authors of Plato and Platypus Walk Into a Bar... Understanding Philosophy Through Jokes
