VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: We've heard a lot about the famous generals and other heroes of the Civil War, but very little has been written about the women who fought as hard as the men for their beliefs. We talk to an author who researched these women, about the jobs they did, how they risked their lives to find and carry intelligence from the enemy to their generals, and even how they used their "feminine wiles" to get the information they needed to gain advantage in the war. 12/21/14 5:00AM 00:10:26

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: In the winter of 1914, British and French soldiers spent their days hunkered down in cold, wet trenches, battling the German army which was dug in only 75 yards away. World War I was one of the bloodiest -- and some say the most unnecessary -- wars in history. Yet, one event occurred on Christmas Eve of that year that has never happened before or since in war. We talk to a historian and author about the World War I Christmas Truce and how it affected the soldiers who fought there, and how we can use this event as a lesson for future conflicts. Host: Gary Price. Guest: Stanley Weintraub, historian, author of "Silent Night: The story of the WWI Christmas Truce." (www.amazon.com). COMPLIANCY ISSUES COVERED: war, faith, government, politics, culture

12/28/14 5:00AM 00:10:47

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: It was right after Thanksgiving in 1950, when U.S. troops found themselves out-numbered by North Korean and Chinese soldiers in the frigid and unforgiving terrain near the Chosin Reservoir. The enemy destroyed the bridge over a 4,000-foot-deep chasm that was their exit to safety, but it did not scare off the brave men who were hell-bent on making it back to the coast. We'll hear how they used their ingenuity and raw determination to bring as many soldiers back alive in spite of overwhelming odds. Host: Gary Price. Guests: Stanley Weintraub, historian and author of "A Christmas Far from Home: An epic tale of courage and survival during the Korean War." COMPLIANCY ISSUES COVERED: war & military, government, politics

CULTURE ISSUES:

10/05/14 5:00AM 00:11:30

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 2: Back in the 1870s and 80s, the north and south poles were as mysterious and intriguing as the moon and planets are to us today. Many expeditions tried – and most failed – to reach the North Pole, leaving many courageous sailors and their ships encased in the snow and ice. We talk to an author whose new book chronicles one of those voyages about the adventure of arctic expeditions, and the men who risked their lives to find out what was actually on the top of the world. Host: Marty Peterson. Guests:

11/02/14 5:00AM 00:09:30

VIEW POINTS: SEGMENT 1: These days, it’s nothing to send a message, photo or business data right from your cell phone. In the near future, however, don’t be surprised if your pill bottle cap will remind you to take your meds, or give you pollen counts for your usual route to work – and suggest an alternate one. You could even have your umbrella provide weather reports, and your watch tell you where there’s likely to be icy patches on the sidewalk. We talk about these “enchanted objects,” and an experiment called “The Array of Things” with two tech specialists, and find out how our lives will be changed by giving everyday things “superpowers.” Host: Gary Price. Guests: David Rose, faculty member at the MIT Media Lab, author of “Enchanted Objects :Design, human desire and the internet of things,”

It really wasn’t that long ago when just seeing a few pictures move for a very few seconds was as exciting as 3-D movies are to us today. But who made the pictures first come to life? Was it Thomas Edison? Or someone else? We talk to an author about how two very different men – one a millionaire, the other an artist and a murderer – joined forces to make pictures move. Host: Marty Peterson.
