Section I. Issues

The station has identified the following topics as significant issues facing our community in this quarter:

Dr. Poland discussed the status of the coronavirus pandemic and what must happen before lockdowns and physical distancing can be eased. He offered recommendations on what to disinfect in homes, whether surgical masks are useful for the general public, what to do about summer vacation plans, and other steps to take to avoid the virus.
- B. Rural Concerns: The community has an extremely large population living in rural areas that are affected by the Coronavirus. As the coronavirus pandemic spreads across the country, those living in rural areas, are increasingly threatened. Prof. Johnson said that people in rural areas are often more reliant on their neighbors than those who live in urban areas, via through such things as volunteer fire departments and shared educational resources. He said hospitals and doctors are almost always further away in rural areas. He also discussed the potential impact to agriculture and other areas of the rural economy.
- C. Crime: Many members of the community have fallen victim to robocall scams, according to recent police reports. From fake cures for coronavirus to phishing emails and phony websites, scammers are taking advantage of consumers' fear as the virus spreads. Ms. Mahoney talked about the way authorities have handled a recent wave of robocalls. She explained how consumers can recognize the signs of a spoofed phone number, or a text or social media message sent by a scammer.
- D. Domestic Violence: As the population of the community has been forced to stay home, police reports show an increase in the number of domestic violence calls. Ms. Kubista-Owen said cases of domestic violence and child abuse are becoming more frequent, more severe and more dangerous. She offered advice to those dealing with abusive relationships and said that resources are still available to help victims, despite the pandemic.
- E. Senior Citizen Health: The community has a decent size of retirement age and senior citizens. Dr. Hamilton discussed a wave of encouraging new research suggesting ways to prevent Alzheimer's disease and cognitive decline. He discussed the importance of exercise in generating the growth of new brain cells, and said that it can even result in significant increases in IQ.
