He is a decorated combat leader and private sector innovator who has served on advisory groups for presidents, governors and businesses. Home Base is a national nonprofit dedicated to healing the invisible wounds of war for Veterans of all eras, Service Members, Military Families and Families of the Fallen through world-class, direct clinical care, wellness, education and research – all at no cost to them – regardless of era of service, discharge status or geographical location. The program was founded by Massachusetts General Hospital and the Boston Red Sox. Since 2009, Home Base has served more than 30,000 Veterans and their Family Members and trained over 85,000 clinicians across the nation, and we remain at the forefront of discovering new treatments to ensure a brighter future for Warriors and their Families. WOUNDED WARRIOR PROJECT: Dr. Erin Fletcher has a decade of experience in veteran mental health care at Wounded Warrior Project. She currently serves as director of Warrior Care Network, a partnership between Wounded Warrior Project and four world-famous treatment facilities helping advance treatment and research for invisible wounds of war. Tonya Oxendine served 30 years in the U.S. Army, reaching the high rank of Command Sergeant Major. After service, she struggled with depression, isolation, and PTSD. It led her to nearly drive off a bridge in an attempted suicide. Tonya used her last ounce of strength to seek help and is now thriving. She credits the care and support she received from Wounded Warrior Project programs for her recovery; she's taken part in Warrior Care Network, Project Odyssey, and WWP Talk. Wounded Warrior Project began in 2003 as a grassroots effort by a group of veterans and friends who wanted to give back to the first wounded warriors returning from the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan. The group provided backpacks filled with comfort items to those recovering in the hospital. That simple act of kindness evolved into a national non-profit whose mission for the past 20 years has been to honor and empower post-9/11 wounded warriors.
