SOUTH DAKOTA COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

Sam and Richard Weller

SINCE 1987, South Dakota Community Foundation (SDCF) has partnered with donors, nonprofits and communities to create charitable legacies and strengthen philanthropy in South Dakota. The Weller Family Foundation is one of many legacies SDCF is honored to steward.

SAM F. WELLER FAMILY FOUNDATION

The late Richard “Dick” Weller, son of the late Sam F. Weller, first envisioned a family foundation in 2004. The Foundation was established with SDCF to honor Richard’s father Sam F. Weller and his family, give back to the Mitchell community that gave Sam and his family the opportunity to succeed in business and provide grant money to charities for special projects that are beyond their normal budgets.

Sam Weller was born in Sioux City, Iowa, in December 1901. He graduated from Mitchell High School in 1919 and married Edna Braase in 1927 in Glendale, California. The Wellers moved to Mitchell, where they raised two children, Corinne and Richard. Sam joined the Weller Land Company, a farming operation originally begun by his grandfather in 1890. Sam and Edna were both actively involved in the Mitchell community.

Sam Weller

Sam passed away in March 1978, Edna in February 2008 and Richard in September 2022. Because of Richard’s foresight, the Weller Family will benefit many charitable causes in the Mitchell area for generations to come.

Happy February, readers!

This month is a time to celebrate many things. It is a month to honor loved ones, and here at SDPB, we have so much love for our members. We want you, our readers, to know how much we appreciate what you do for us and others around the state through your support.

February is also a time to observe Black History Month. Pages 8-9 will highlight some of the most anticipated programming we will air to celebrate, including Shuttlesworth about a freedom fighter, various episodes of Independent Lens, and, and Gospel, a two-night exploration of gospel music, the dominant form of African-American religious expression.

Our feature on pages 4-5 is an inside look at our own Politics & Public Policy Reporter Lee Strubinger’s podcast Short Walk, a deep dive into a memorable and devastating event that won’t soon be forgotten. Keeping It Local on pages 6-7 gives a rundown of coverage for high school sports and how you can watch them, including oral interpretations, gymnastics, and wrestling.

Lastly, keep up with our legislative coverage running through March on the SDNet app, and online at SD.net and SDPB.org. Coverage is also available on our SDPB News social media channels on Facebook and X (Twitter); hashtag #SDLeg. Additionally, SDPB TV has special programming and wonderful opportunities for you to show how much you care.

We hope 2024 is off to a great start for you. Enjoy the issue!

Gratefully,

SDPB Releases 9-part Podcast in February

Former South Dakota Attorney General Jason Ravensborg was removed from office in June 2022 after he struck and killed pedestrian Joe Boever in September 2020. During the police investigation, Ravensborg maintained that he did not know what he had hit until Boever's body was found the following day. Investigators told Ravensborg that Boever's face went through his car's windshield, and Boever's glasses were found inside the car. Boever's body was found a couple feet from the side of the road with a flashlight still on. Ravensborg stated that he never saw the body that night. He also denied being distracted by his smartphone, but data indicated that he was on his phone until about a minute before the collision. Ravensborg was charged with three misdemeanors. Ravensborg is the first statewide elected official to be impeached, removed from office, and barred from holding future office in the state.

Events like these are not easily forgotten, but many details have been lost during the other big story at this time, the COVID-19 pandemic. Lee Strubinger, SDPB's Politics & Public Policy Reporter, hopes to fill in some gaps with a podcast he will release this month titled Short Walk.

"It's a bit of a double entendre," said Strubinger about the title of his podcast. "Part of it has to do with Joe Boever, who was walking towards his house along the side of the highway. We don't know why Joe Boever was walking along the side of the road. He probably thought he was going for a short walk out to his truck and back to his house. Without giving away too much, this phrase also comes up later in the series."

Strubinger's interest in this story stems from the fact he has been covering Ravensborg before he announced his run for Attorney General. His intimate knowledge of the case assists in telling the whole story.

"I was there as it unfolded over time. I've covered Ravensborg's political career close to the beginning of it. Part of this podcast is telling the full story of how this attorney general, who critics say had never even tried a jury trial before or had ever won an election before, became the state's top law enforcement official," said Strubinger. "There was also a lot going on at the same time; we were maybe only half a year into the COVID pandemic. Between news that was coming out of that and then this fatal accident, there was so much happening news-wise at that time that it would be helpful for listeners to understand what we all went through at this particular time. This podcast doesn't really go into COVID or any other stuff happening simultaneously; it's just a look at this impeachment process."

Along with learning about the story, Strubinger and the SDPB Journalism team discovered a good deal about the legislative and legal processes.

"There's this weird grey area in the criminal courts that this particular case fell under in terms of charging him with something higher than what he got. That's what the prosecutors were saying. There was criticism about that," Strubinger continued. "I think we all learned something new. Impeachment of a constitutional officer is something we've never gone through as a state before, which is part of why I wanted to do a podcast about this. To see across a 9-episode span, how did this all play out? We set a precedent here, so we saw first-hand what this totally new thing looks like, and now we've gone through it together as a state."

Another goal for this podcast is highlighting South Dakotan, Joe Boever.

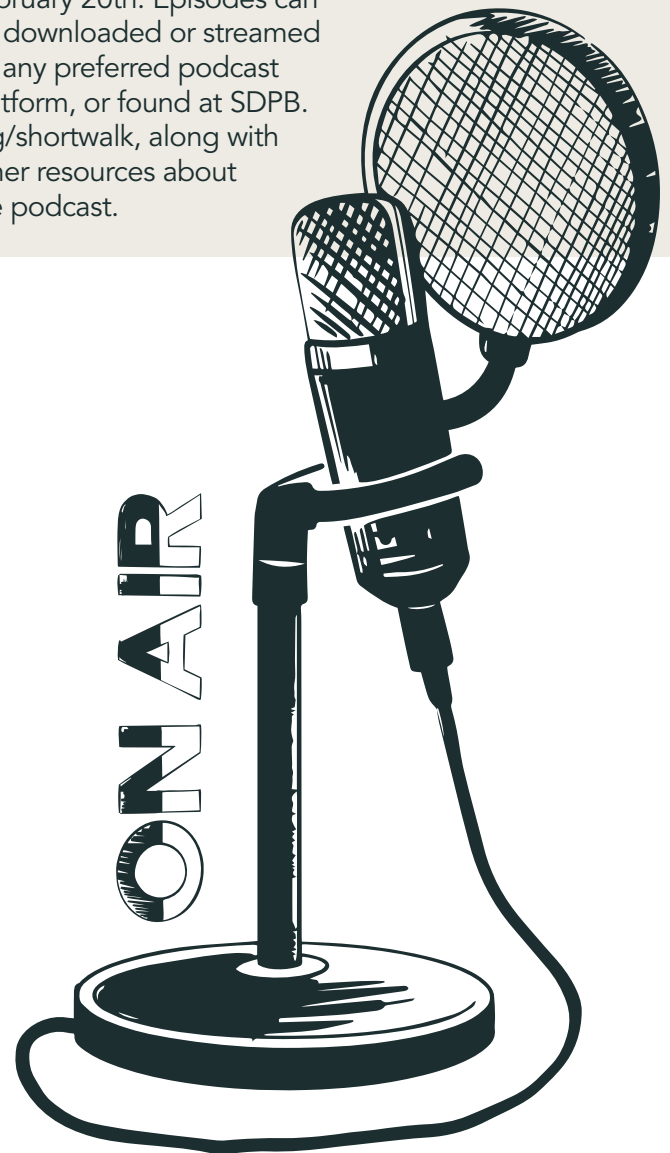

"The heaviest part of the podcast is thinking about the death of Joe Boever. The unsatisfying part of the whole story, as I saw it play out, was the way Joe Boever was just a name in the paper, a name we read aloud, or an image we saw on television without really knowing who he was. I devote some of this story to letting people know who Joe Boever was, what his interests were, and what his struggles were in terms of things that we all struggle with as we go through life. That's one of the things I'm proud of, actually feeling like we get a chance to know who this South Dakotan was whose life was unfortunately taken way too early."

Every detail of the nine-part podcast has been carefully planned.

"Because I was there during the House impeachment panel process and the subpoenaed testimony that occurred during that time, I know where a lot of new information came from. SPPB has been covering Ravensborg ever since he ran for the United States Senate in 2014, and we have a unique opportunity to tell this in a rich audio format. It's a fascinating story that feels like a true crime story. It has political intrigue and nice music underneath it to carry us through that whole journey," said Strubinger.

Short Walk spans nine half-hour episodes available Tuesday, February 20th. Episodes can be downloaded or streamed on any preferred podcast platform, or found at SDPB.org/shortwalk, along with other resources about the podcast.

Elevate

Sioux Falls, SD – "Elevate," a groundbreaking short film celebrating BIPOC creatives and community connection, is set to premiere on South Dakota Public Broadcasting on Thursday, Feb. 1 at 8:00 pm CT (7:00 pm MT). Follow the journeys of four remarkable artists (Sonja Hernandez, Taylor Yocum, Moses Idris, and Kyrie Dunkley) who amplify their voices through expressive works rooted in culture, heritage, and locality.

Filmmakers Letishia and Jonathan Kelley embarked on this project with a vital purpose—to spotlight creatives and artists of color within the Metro Sioux Falls Area. Overcoming hurdles in funding and visibility, the filmmakers deeply value the trust placed in them by these artists.

The film unfolds against the backdrop of Sioux Falls, breathing life into neighborhoods deserving of recognition. Through artistic expression, the protagonists create a platform for visibility, unity, and connection, fostering a sense of community.

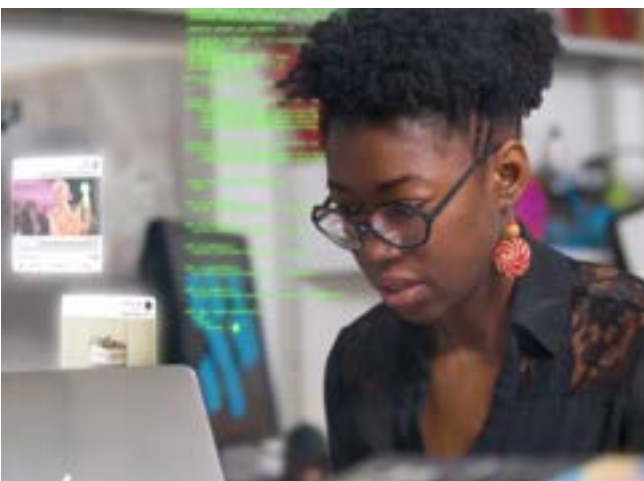

SDPB1: Thursday, February 1, 8pm (7 MT)

Shuttlesworth

This documentary explores the life and legacy of an unrelenting freedom fighter who inspired liberation movements all over the world. Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth was raised in the crucible of segregated Birmingham but he was forged by its attempt to kill him. When the KKK planted a bomb underneath his bed and he emerged unharmed, he was sure he was saved by God to lead a Movement. His work not only ended legal segregation but led directly to the Civil and Voting Rights Acts - and inspired freedom movements around the world.

SDPB2: Friday, February 2, 8pm (7 MT)

Independent Lens Coded Bias

Follow M.I.T. Media Lab computer scientist Joy Buolamwini, along with data scientists, mathematicians, and watchdog groups from all over the world, as they fight to expose the discrimination within facial recognition algorithms now prevalent across all spheres of daily life. From discovery to exposure to activism, Buolamwini goes public with her findings and undertakes an effort to create a movement toward accountability and transparency, including testifying before Congress to push for the first-ever legislation governing facial recognition in the United States and starting the Algorithmic Justice League.

GOSPEL

HOSTED BY HENRY LOUIS GATES JR.

PREMIERES
MON FEB 12 9/8c

From the blues to hip-hop, African Americans have been the driving force of sonic innovation for over a century. Musical styles come and go, but one sound has been a constant source of strength, courage, and wisdom from the pulpit to the choir lofts on any given Sunday: the gospel. In the two-part, four-hour docuseries, Henry Louis Gates, Jr. speaks with dozens of clergy, singers and scholars about their connection to the music that has transcended its origins and now spreads “the good word” all around the world. The series features interviews with notable names including Dionne Warwick, U.S. Senator Raphael Warnock, Rev. Otis Moss III, Professor Michael Eric Dyson, and awe-inspiring musical performances of Gospel favorites “Can’t Nobody Do Me Like Jesus,” “Total Praise,” and others from talents including The Belle Singers, Cory Henry, Celisse, and more.

Local USA Firsthand: Segregation

Chicago is one of the most segregated big cities in America, and it comes at a cost. The Metropolitan Planning Council found that segregation costs the region $4.4 billion in lost income, 83,000 fewer bachelor’s degrees, and about 200 lives cut short by homicides every year. In Local USA *Firsthand: Segregation, explore the impact racial divisions have on individuals, the city, and the region with reported stories, expert talks, and community discussions.

SDPB2: Monday, February 12, 8pm (7 MT)

POV Unapologetic

Meet Janaé and Bella, two fierce abolitionists whose upbringing and experiences shape their activism and views on Black liberation. Through their lens, POV *Unapologetic provides an inside look into the ongoing movement work that transformed Chicago, from the police murder of Rekia Boyd to the election of mayor Lori Lightfoot.

KEEPING IT LOCAL

Every Single Note

Born out of the Lakota Music Project, the Music Composition Academy encourages middle school and high school students to create original compositions for string quartet and wind quintet. Coached by professional composers from South Dakota and around the country, every note in the compositions is written by the students...many of whom have very little musical experience. The MCA project hopes to encourage students in what is possible with music composition, while also giving them validation with performances of their compositions by members of the SDSO.

Celebrating 30 Years at SDPB

If you've called SDPB with a question or concern, you've likely spoken to Teri Roetman. Teri [above left] has worn several hats in her time at SDPB, but she is most known for putting a smile on our faces and keeping us organized. We would be lost without Teri! Congratulations on 30 years, Teri!

Episode premieres Thursday, Feb. 8th at 8pm (7 MT) on SDPB1 or view it online at SDPB.org/Watch.

WRESTLING OFFICIATING IS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Nate Wek, Sports Content Producer

Wrestling season is coming to an end in South Dakota. For the Slykhuus family, it's a part of life, but not in the same way it is for most. They're wrestling officials, meaning they have the best seat in the house for prep wrestling in South Dakota. This year, Clark Slykhuus ushered in his 21st year of being a wrestling ref with a meet in Parker. While he loves what he does, this event became more special because he got to share it with his nephew Maddix, who was officiating his first-ever event. Maddix's dad Cory, who is an older brother to Clark, also has close to two decades of wrestling officiating experience under his belt.

Maddix, who is now 19-years old, and a pre-nursing major at the University of South Dakota, grew up wrestling for Tea Area, but for his father Cory and uncle Clark, they grew up wrestling in Scotland for local legend Jim Kocer. With Clark and Cory jumping into the officiating scene, Maddix grew up watch his uncle and dad from the sideline. They'd take him to various wrestling events, including state tournaments.

Fast forward to 2023 and Clark, Cory, and now Maddix are working as wrestling officials in South Dakota. And while there are challenges in being a referee in today's culture, being able to remain a part of the sport, while doing it together, is a memory they'll remember forever.

MATTHEW MOEN, FRIENDS BOARD MEMBER

SUPPORTER SPOTLIGHT

Every month, we dedicate this space to getting to know an individual or organization that is actively supporting the mission of South Dakota Public Broadcasting.

Matthew Moen, former Distinguished Professor emeritus at the University of South Dakota and new Friends of SDPB board member, sat down with us to tell us about why he chose to join the board and take part in serving the state through his support.

"I joined the board just a few months ago," states Matthew, "so I'm just getting started. I'm a new member of the board and anxious to learn more about it and start helping out."

Matthew shares that SDPB aligns with his interests and values, which is one of the perks of being a supporter.

"The most direct alignment would be the excellent coverage of the legislature. I have a Ph.D. in legislative studies, so that's a direct connection. It does so many wonderful features chronicling the life of particular communities and Dakota Life, which I think is both fun and insightful. It has a real range of programming, but all united by the common theme of serving the citizens of the state."

"It's an enriching educational experience. Having spent my life as an educator, we're always in the business of grasping for more knowledge, and public broadcasting provides it."

Respectful is how Matthew describes public broadcasting and explains his reasoning.

"It's respectful of civility. It's respectful of complexity. A lot of things are complicated, and it deals with the complexity. Its productions also recognize that we as people are imperfect. We mix things up, we mess things up, maybe accidentally or intentionally. There is a sensitivity to getting it right about how people are and what they're trying to do. [SDPB] is good at discerning genuine motivations."

Matthew praises the ability to bring unbiased and thought-through information and education to the state.

"What I like so much is that [SDPB] brings quiet, reasoned dialog. We're in an era where there is more screaming about problems than fixing the problems people face. One of the wonderful niches of South Dakota Public Broadcasting is that it occupies that civil, reasoned public space to discuss how we can improve people's lives. It takes us out of the less hopeful dialog that we see. That's a wonderful public service."

Uncover Hidden Gems and Treasures... in the Black Hills of South Dakota

LAKOTA LAKE

Nestled in the heart of the Black Hills, just south of Keystone, lies a Wilderness Preservation Community. Enveloped by parklands valuing nature, wildlife, and comfort, it offers a gateway to miles of USFS lands for lifelong exploration. A brief stroll leads to the exquisite Lakota Lake. With 18 homesites on an 80-acre preserve, discover the Wine Cave within an ancient gold mine, where your wine awaits at the perfect temperature. Also, a charming Guest House can be reserved for a nominal fee by lot owners, while the rustic Rendezvous Lodge beckons for gatherings. As Lakota Lake Encampment nears completion, it alters everything... and nothing at all.

CANYON RIM RANCH

Embracing the spirit of preserving both land and history, this covenant-protected wildlife ranch graces the stunning Black Hills. With a mere 39 homesites scattered across 2,700 acres, tranquility reigns supreme. Leave the city's hustle behind and embrace a simpler existence. Wander, pedal, or ride horses to uncover the lore of the Red Canyon, once traced by the legendary Deadwood/Cheyenne Stagecoach line, evoking echoes of yesteryears' Cowboys, Native Americans, and Settlers. A cozy Saloon Social Club invites gatherings, complemented by equestrian facilities and the nostalgic Founders Cabin picnic spot. Additionally, 4,500 adjacent acres of public lands promise a lifetime of exploration.
