

Note to Exhibit C (FCC 2013 Random EEO Audit)

Since February 2011, I have served as WGBH's Talent Acquisition Manager. During the reporting periods covered by the two most recent EEO Public File Reports, I have been responsible for providing notification of full-time job openings to an array of groups and organizations and for publicizing openings by additional methods as reflected in the EEO Public File Reports attached at Exhibit A. I fulfill these responsibilities with the assistance of a Human Resources Assistant.

The Employment Unit broadly publicizes notice of each job vacancy through a standard process. First, the relevant department head or other hiring manager submits a job requisition request through WGBH's applicant tracking system (which is a custom tool built on the Salesforce platform) (referred to herein as the "Salesforce system"). The requisition includes information such as the title of the proposed position, compensation range, and reason for requesting the position.

Once the manager completes the requisition, the system automatically sends it to the Talent Acquisition Manager for review and approval. As Talent Acquisition Manager, I review the requisition to ensure that it contains accurate and necessary information, including the correct title and compensation range, and to ensure an appropriately detailed reason for requesting the position is included. I then send appropriate requisition requests through the Salesforce system to the Vice President of Human Resources and the Chief Operating Officer.

The Vice President of Human Resources and the Chief Operating Officer review the reasons for the requested position, considering factors such as the organization and department's budgets. If the Vice President of Human Resources and/or the Chief Operating Officer approve the position, I input their approval into the Salesforce system. The Salesforce system is integrated with WGBH's web site, www.wgbh.org, and the system for posting the approved position on WGBH's web site is automated. Accordingly, once the Vice President of Human Resources and/or the Chief Operating Officer approve the position through the Salesforce system, the system automatically causes the open position to be posted to WGBH's website. An illustrative screenshot of the page that displays pending job vacancy information to interested members of the public is attached as part of this Exhibit C. Moreover, the job descriptions that are posted to the WGBH website match those that are e-mailed to WGBH's standard list of recruitment sources (discussed further below). However, the Stations' going forward procedure also will include saving copies of online postings while they are displayed on the Stations' websites.

Each Friday, the Human Resources Assistant is responsible for reviewing the Salesforce system and identifies any positions that were created during the week. She then compiles (1) a job vacancy summary of each new position and (2) a list of all positions open on WGBH's web site (including both new positions and positions that were opened during prior weeks, but which have not yet been filled). This information is sent each Friday to more than twenty community organizations and schools by e-mail, which organizations have been selected to ensure wide dissemination of each new full-time job vacancy. The HR Assistant is responsible for maintaining documentation of these weekly e-mails, along with other recruitment of job vacancies. This Exhibit C encloses copies of these weekly job vacancy announcements from throughout the reporting period. The Employment Unit's records of these weekly e-mails are complete except for e-mails sent during May 2012. To my understanding and believe, the e-mails were sent during May 2012, but documentation was not properly maintained during a period of Human Resources staff turnover. As the remainder of the documentation enclosed with Exhibit C demonstrates, however, the Employment Unit widely disseminated notice of job vacancies throughout the reporting period. Further, the Employment Unit is reviewing its procedures to determine what additional steps may be appropriate to ensure that personnel changes in the future do not impact its normal course EEO program implementation efforts.

Further, after a position is approved and posted on WGBH's web site, the Talent Acquisition Manager works with the appropriate hiring manager to identify whether there are any additional potential recruitment sources (including paid ads and media) that should be used in addition to WGBH's standard recruitment sources. Documentation of certain such additional recruitment is contained in his Exhibit C. Please note that during preparation of this audit response, the Employment Unit discovered a gap in records for a period from April 2012 to August 2012. The station is reviewing its processes and procedures to ensure more systematic documentation of these additional recruitment efforts (that go beyond the Unit's standard broad recruitment) so as to ensure documentation is retained and remains readily accessible even during a period of turnover in Human Resources staff.

Based on the Employment Unit's broad recruitment, the Employment Unit considers the applicants. As Talent Acquisition Manager, I sometimes conduct initial screening interviews of potential candidates. I then arrange for the appropriate hiring manager to meet the remaining candidates for in-person, telephone and/or online interviews, depending on the candidate's location and availability.

The Talent Acquisition Manager position was created in February 2011. Prior to that time, recruiting and hiring was done by the Human Resources Business Partners, who had general human resources experience and worked with assigned departments to help the departments manage hiring, employee and labor relations, and other needs.

JOB REQ#: P-0665

DATE POSTED: 08/15/11

TITLE: Senior Digital Editor

DEPARTMENT: Nova

TYPE OF POSITION: Management, Full Time, Project Contract

PROJECT LENGTH (in weeks): 52 weeks

Department Overview:

Now in its 38th season, NOVA has defined science television for the world. NOVA programs can be seen in over 110 countries, and over 25 million Americans tune in each month, making NOVA one of the most watched series in the PBS prime time lineup. NOVA's digital department produces a media-rich web site, maintains a social media presence, and produces other free digital content that supports the national broadcast and expands the NOVA brand with original content for general audiences and educators.

Position Overview:

The Senior Digital Editor will develop the appropriate tone and voice for the site based on the NOVA brand and will ensure development of the strategic vision for editorial content across NOVA digital platforms, including web, mobile and apps. Produce editorial content for the site and other digital platforms as applicable. Identify and assign stories to freelance journalists, science bloggers and internal staff. Conduct editorial review of all content prior to publishing. Curate links to relevant science stories and develop editorial and distribution partnerships to expand the reach and relevancy of NOVA content. Implement and manage a SEO focused editorial approach and develop best practices for the team. Maintain strong editorial social media presence both internally and through a network of journalists and bloggers working on NOVA's behalf. Work with Director of New Media to inform and implement an overall digital strategy.

Skills Required:

The ideal candidate will have at least 7-10 years experience as a science journalist with a proven ability to write under tight deadlines and cultivate a network of writers and bloggers. Producing content for a digital environment, including related social media components, digital partners and multiple platforms, including mobile, is key and expertise with multi-media production is a must. Experience developing and telling stories that incorporate short form video, interactive, infographics and photos is important is also a must have. Proven ability to work in a team environment and supervise editorial work of others. Experience with other digital platforms and content management systems is highly desirable.

Educational Requirements:

Bachelor's Degree.

Hi Alyssa,

I understand you'll be posting the senior designer job. Will you also be posting on other locations (I remember Jonathan Lonian used to do this)? Here's the list of where we posted last time:

- ☒ Coroflot - $265 for one month ✓✓✓
 - ☒ Behance $199 for 1 job posting (never expires) ✓✓
 - ☒ Craigslist - $25 for one month ✓✓
 - ☒ LinkedIn - $195 for 30 days ✓✓✓
 - ☒ AIGA - $195 for 45 days ✓
 - ☒ Design Observer — $265 ✓✓
- Let me know if/how I can help.

Senior Interactive Designer (Boston, MA)

Date: 2011-11-10, 12:33PM EST

Reply to: see below

JOB REQ#: P-0712

DATE POSTED: 11/07/11

TITLE: Sr Interactive Designer

DEPARTMENT: Interactive

TYPE OF POSITION: AEEF, Full-Time, Project Contract

Department Overview:

WGBH Interactive works with the WGBH National Production units to produce a multitude of media-rich websites and transmedia products supporting our national prime-time and children's television series. You would be joining the kids' team of dedicated designers, technologists and producers to create high quality educational websites and mobile apps for kids. We're about serious fun, with benefits (ie. This job comes with a full benefits package).

Position Overview:

We are looking for a Senior Interactive Designer to lead the visual, structural and interaction design across multiple platforms--from desktop to mobile to emerging platforms. This is a great opportunity to work with a multidisciplinary, collaborative team on some of WGBH's best-known brands, including Curious George, ARTHUR, Fetch with Ruff Ruffman and Martha Speaks, and major new projects. Our sites get 15 million visits per month, so if you are looking for somewhere to get your work in front of a massive international audience, this is the right place. It's a collaborative, fun work environment focused on games and engaging interactive experiences for kids and families. And it's engagement with a strong educational backbone. WGBH has been a leader in TV for forty years and this interactive team of designers, producers and developers is leading WGBH into the 21st century. Will you join us?

Skills Required:

You should show strength in interaction and game design for kids, preschool through teen. You should have a strong sense of games design, animation; a command of formal design, typography, interface and information design; and be up to date with web and multimedia design tools and technologies including mobile and touch screen interfaces. Facility with Flash, Photoshop, and Illustrator are essential, as well as responsive design, HTML5 and CSS coding skills. You should have strong communication skills and the ability to work collaboratively, quickly and creatively under deadline. In order to be considered, you must provide an online portfolio or samples of work which include mobile projects. The ideal candidate: • lives and breathes kids culture, from books to movies to games, and this informs the approach to design • is a trend-spotter and thought leader, able to push the team in new directions • knows how to view things from the perspective of a child, making the work both appealing and understandable by kids • can deliver great and playful work at the crossroads of education and fun • values the importance of gaming and it's ability to engage and teach simultaneously • is familiar with, and willing to discuss, design decisions in WGBH's kids' work (can be seen at: interactive.wgbh.org/kids)

Educational Requirements:

You should possess a BFA/BA degree in graphic design.

Please apply online via WGBH Careers Page at <http://www.wgbh.org/about/P0712.cfm>

JOB REQ#: P-0704

DATE POSTED: 11/3/2011

TITLE: Sr Developer

DEPARTMENT: Nova

TYPE OF POSITION: Management, Full-time, Project Contract

PROJECT LENGTH: 52 Weeks

Department Overview:

NOVA pioneered the science documentary series in the U.S. and remains the gold standard for engaging, accurate, and thought-provoking coverage, seen on TV by over 25 million people each month. Working with WGBH's Interactive department, NOVA has developed a cross-platform presence and reaches more than a million visitors monthly on its website. Come and exchange ideas with a smart and passionate team that produces one-third of PBS content and creates innovative public media.

Position Overview:

NOVA Labs is a trailblazing initiative that will create an interactive experience for users to work with real-time scientific data and contribute to ongoing research for research institutions such as NASA. Think of it as a startup within a large and well-respected education icon in the community. The Lead Developer will define and architect the NOVA Labs platform. Working with a small cross-functional team chosen to work on this project, the Lead Developer will:

- Collaborate with the team in a fast-paced environment
- Gather requirements from WGBH technical stakeholders
- Write technical specifications and testing procedures
- Interface with vendors and distributors
- Write code

The Senior Developer for <http://pbs.org/nova> works closely with interactive designers and NOVA producers to create several highly trafficked, user-friendly, engaging and educational web sites and other products. The primary role of the Senior Developer will be to architect a new NOVA Labs platform, an interactive experience for users to work with live scientific data and contribute to ongoing research. As part of a cross-functional team, the Senior Developer's role will include requirements gathering, writing technical specifications (including testing procedures) and interfacing with vendors and distributors (i.e. PBS.org) as well as writing code. Responsible for maintaining a working environment that leverages the potential and diversity of the department's entire staff. Provide direction and leadership in such a way as to nurture, create and maintain an environment that is (1) free from discrimination, intolerance and harassment and (2) provides employees with equal access to opportunities for growth and advancement including professional development whenever possible.

Skills Required:

• Skills and qualities required to complete a Bachelor's Degree in Computer Science • More than 5 years of work experience solving problems for web-based environments • Advanced mastery of Internet technologies, including jQuery and the Django and Zend frameworks • Experience developing cross-platform HTML, CSS and JavaScript • Experience developing and implementing web-based APIs and working with cloud services (particularly Amazon) • Demonstrated ability and experience effectively communicating technical concepts to non-technical colleagues • Candidates should be prepared to share and discuss code samples. We are a Macintosh shop that creates web sites for users on many platforms and browsers

Educational Requirements:

A Bachelor's Degree in Computer Science or equivalent.

Please submit your resume to: Alyssa_Mullen@wgbh.org and to the WGBH job site at <http://www.wgbh.org/about/employmentOpportunities.cfm>

Caption Writer (Los Angeles, CA)

Date: 2011-11-22, 9:40AM PST

Reply to: see below

Job Requisition #: P-0668

Posting Title: Caption Writer

Department: Media Access Group - LA

Position Type: AEEF, Full Time, Temporary

Project Length: 12 Weeks

Department Overview:

The Media Access Group creates captions, subtitles and descriptions for a variety of media clients, including PBS and commercial television networks, movies, DVDs, digital media and environmental installations. The Media Access Group (MAG) is a pioneer in making media accessible for people with sensory disabilities. The Caption Center (TCC) was the first captioning agency in the world. We helped pioneer the development of line-21 closed captioning for viewers who are deaf or hard of hearing and we remain on the forefront of caption technology. Our audio description unit, Descriptive Video Service (DVS), provides important information about the visual elements of a program through the use of an additional narrative audio track.

Position Overview:

Caption Writers transcribe the audio portion of a program and create a timed text track intended for use by deaf and hard-of-hearing viewers. Individuals work independently to carefully transcribe, time and place captions for the deaf and hard-of-hearing audience for a variety of media and clients including, but not limited to, network broadcast, home video/DVD and first-run feature films. Caption writers retain responsibility for maintaining MAG style preferences and consistencies. Caption writers are responsible for meeting MAG deadlines in our continued efforts to provide excellent customer service. This position will be on our night shift, working from 4:00PM to midnight, with a total of 40 hours per week.

Responsible for supporting diversity and inclusion in the workplace and interacting in a way that is free from discrimination, intolerance or harassment.

Skills Required:

Candidates must demonstrate superior language skills on tests administered by The Caption Center, including proofreading, editing, grammar, spelling and typing. Candidates must be able to type 60+ wpm for extended periods and work under tight deadlines and have a commitment to detail, quality and productivity. 1-3 years of work experience. Familiarity with Windows XP, MS Word, Softel. Familiarity with computers and Windows-based software is required. Draft. Able to work the night shift, from 4:00PM to midnight.

Educational Requirements:

Bachelors degree or equivalent experience required.

JOB REQ#: P-0640

DATE POSTED: 06/23/11

TITLE: Content Producer

DEPARTMENT: NOVA

TYPE OF POSITION: Management, Full Time, Temporary

Department Overview:

Now in its 38th season, NOVA has defined science television for the world. NOVA programs can be seen in over 110 countries, and over 25 million Americans tune in each month, making NOVA one of the most watched series in the PBS prime time lineup. NOVA works closely with the WGBH Interactive department to produce a media-rich web site and other free digital content that supports the national broadcast and extends the NOVA brand with original content.

Position Overview:

WGBH seeks an experienced content producer to create content for NOVA Education's innovative new project, NOVA Labs. NOVA Labs will be a virtual research platform for teens to engage in science by working with authentic data and taking part in "citizen science" projects. Individual Labs in a range of STEM research areas will encourage scientific thinking and be supported by NOVA's rich media library, explanatory text, interactives, games, a social media platform, and more. The Web Content Producer will report to the NOVA Labs Editorial Director, and work closely with the entire team. Responsible for maintaining a working environment that leverages the potential and diversity of the department's entire staff. Provide direction and leadership in such a way as to nurture, create and maintain an environment that is (1) free from discrimination, intolerance and harassment and (2) provides employees with equal access to opportunities for growth and advancement including professional development whenever possible.

Skills Required:

Strong research and writing skills are essential; also good organization, communication, and interpersonal skills. Solid working knowledge of web development technologies, and facility with nonlinear editing and other multimedia applications. At least some scientific background.

experience working in science media or education is a must.

Alyssa,

Can you please post the Content Producer for the NOVA Labs on LinkedIn and charge to WEB39STG?

This is somewhat urgent since we're supposed to start labs next week and we don't have a candidate we are 100% about.

Also, would it be possible to repost on the WGBH site so it doesn't look so outdated?

Thanks,
Kristine

Hi Kristen,

Please see link to the Salesforce applicant tracking system – <https://wgbh.secure.force.com/openpositions>

Also, we had to create a new title in Lawson/Salesforce, which takes 24 hours to upload, so your position will be posted tomorrow afternoon on wgbh.org.

Sarah Vershon will contact you to give you a tutorial on our Salesforce applicant database.

The cost to post on Linked In is $195 per job.

Associate Developer (Boston, MA)

Date: 2011-12-19, 11:01AM EST

Reply to: see below

JOB REQ#: P-0736

DATE POSTED: 12/16/11

TITLE: Associate Developer

DEPARTMENT: Interactive

TYPE OF POSITION: Management, Full-Time, Project Contract

Department Overview:

The American Archive Content Inventory Project is an historic effort to locate, identify and inventory public media materials nationwide, so that we can prepare a pathway for the preservation of the rich cultural history of public television and radio into the digital age.

Position Overview:

Help WGBH preserve the history of public broadcasting in a digital age by processing and organizing data collected from Radio and TV stations from across the country. We are looking for an associate developer with a passion for public media, and an interest in writing code for managing data. We use Ruby and similar scripting languages to ingest program inventories into a Ruby on Rails application based on the Blacklight discovery platform. There are a lot of records (1 million and counting!) and the data comes from over 100 stations, so efficiency and flexibility are key skills. As part of a cross-functional team, the Associate Developer will: â€¢ map incoming data to existing PBCore schema â€¢ write scripts to normalize and standardize data formats â€¢ maintain our Ruby on Rails app for searching and viewing data records â€¢ write scripts to validate data and report on progress. Come and exchange ideas with a smart and passionate team that produces one-third of PBS content and creates innovative public media. WGBH is centrally located in a bright, sunny building that includes open floor plans, with its own parking garage, cafeteria (the food is actually good!), health club access, and more.

Skills Required:

To perform the required duties, the Associate Web Developer must possess the skills and qualities required to complete a Bachelor's Degree in Computer Science, and more than 1 year of work experience solving problems for web-based environments. The Associate Web Developer must be able to demonstrate familiarity with data manipulation and scripting tools including XML, Ruby and csv files. Experience with Solr or related technology is desirable. Experience working with virtual servers (Amazon AWS and/or VMWare) is a plus. WGBH Interactive is a Macintosh shop that creates web sites for users on many platforms and browsers. Candidates should be prepared to share and discuss code samples.

Educational Requirements:

Bachelors degree in Computer Science or equivalent experience

Please apply online via the WGBH Careers Page at <http://www.wgbh.org/about/employmentOpportunities.cfm>

Hi Alyssa,

Since we have had a hard time filling this position in the past (the open BDA Associate position), can we add any of these sites? Start with DICE, AITP and Tech Jobs Board (one week only)?

Brian-

In addition to the DICE website (I don't have the cost on that) below are some other websites that we can post my open position to as well. I would start with DICE and the AITP & Tech Jobs Board, and then if we get no takers, maybe the WITI board. I would need the cost approved, of course.

DICE - www.dice.com (unknown cost)

AITP <http://www.aitp.org/> (Assoc. of Info Tech Professionals) Emailed org to ask price – looks Free
Tech Jobs Board <http://www.computerwork.com> 1 week – Job Posting - $85
WITI <http://www.witi.com/> (women in technology) Non-Members: 60-Day - Job Posting - $295.00

Job Requisition #: P-0660

Posting Title: Digital Content Manager

Department: Digital Marketing Products/Svc

Position Type: Management, Full Time, Staff

Department Overview:

Candidate will be part of the Digital Marketing Products and Services team dedicated to increasing engagement and awareness for WGBH.org and other local online and national priorities by providing valuable marketing engagement tools and finding ways to convert online audiences to lifetime members and/or donors to the institution. This team collaborates with local and national teams to maximize engagement and revenue in three key digital areas: Platform strategy and execution: recommend and drive technology due diligence and platform strategy specializing in one-to-one relationship building which includes four core platforms: CRM, marketing automation, e-mail, social media, digital analytics and integration with CMS Direct Marketing Strategy and Execution: recommend and execute digital marketing and social media/community management (online, email, mobile, social) to increase one-to-one relationship engagement and revenue. Aggregate data across platforms to recommend strategies and to maximize effectiveness for local, national and CDP Engagement and Content Strategy and Execution: recommend and execute digital content and new media strategies to help drive engagement and increase one-to-one relationship building and revenue

Position Overview:

This role will report to the Director of WGBH Online and will be responsible for managing a staff of producers and editors. The Content Manager for WGBH Online is responsible for helping to drive the overall content and promotional strategy of wgbh.org and provide hands-on leadership to the team in order to create, curate and maintain online content and promotions. The content manager will be responsible for helping the online team meet it's key performance indicators (KPI) driving up traffic, customer satisfaction, development goals and other marketing metrics. This position requires someone who can closely collaborate with the immediate and extended team, working closely with WGBH's online content teams, television and radio production units, as well as fellow online marketing managers, to create value for WGBH's online content, brand, build new audiences, and promote WGBH's ongoing programming and initiatives. Beyond wgbh.org, the Content Manager will build and maintain WGBH's presence on third party online platforms, social networking sites, and online content partnerships.

Specific duties for this position include:

- Manage and develop team of content producers and editors which includes growing the teams content strategy and execution skills while promoting efficiencies
- Build online content strategy based on a methodical metrics driven approach. Use data and feedback to continually improve content and promotional offerings
- Curate, maintain and update online content that promotes and expands the reach of WGBH's programming and initiatives
- Build new online content for local/national television, radio, and other areas as determined by the Director of WGBH Online
- Create and execute promotional campaigns that support WGBH's marketing and development/membership goals using web content, e-mail, social media and other online tools
- Manage web presence, daily posting, and interactivity of radio's locally produced news programming (talk shows, news segments, partnerships with production units)
- Work with Online Marketing team to create new revenue opportunities including tiered membership content; including playlists, streams, special offers, etc.
- Expand WGBH's online partnerships, leverage existing partnerships for new content and forging new partnerships to deepen WGBH's reach into the community
- Oversee and maintain online functions related to TV and radio programming, such as schedules, program pages and playlists
- Coordinate with TV and radio, on-air promotion of wgbh.org

Skills Required:

- Qualified candidates must have at least 5 years of online and offline content management and marketing experience.
- Ideal candidate should have experience managing a team and developing a team in order to quickly and efficiently meet objectives based on metrics
- The position requires close attention to detail and the ability to balance concurrent tasks under tight deadlines. Candidates must be able to build strong cross-departmental relationships, prioritize responsibilities and work well under time pressure. They must possess excellent interpersonal skills, with the ability to work constructively with different personalities. Familiarity with WGBH and public media a plus
- Should be an effective team leader with strong coaching skills, ability to set priorities to help their team focus on critical issues, develop staff and team capabilities, and react quickly to address performance gaps.
- Ideal candidate should be able to present ideas to team and to groups and to do it in a convincing manner
- Ideal candidate is one who is not afraid to ask questions or challenge preexisting assumptions.
- Person of conviction/passion/intensity
- Sense of humor/thick skin
- Able to participate in the creation of this role, as well as make significant contributions in the future.

Educational Requirements:

College degree required.

Senior Interactive Designer (Boston, MA)

Date: 2012-01-05, 2:50PM EST

Reply to: see below

JOB REQ#: P-0712

DATE POSTED: 11/07/11

TITLE: Sr Interactive Designer

DEPARTMENT: Interactive

TYPE OF POSITION: AEEF, Full-Time, Project Contract

Department Overview:

WGBH Interactive works with the WGBH National Production units to produce a multitude of media-rich websites and transmedia products supporting our national prime-time and children's television series. You would be joining the kids' team of dedicated designers, technologists and producers to create high quality educational websites and mobile apps for kids. We're about serious fun, with benefits (ie. This job comes with a full benefits package).

Position Overview:

We are looking for a Senior Interactive Designer to lead the visual, structural and interaction design across multiple platforms--from desktop to mobile to emerging platforms. This is a great opportunity to work with a multidisciplinary, collaborative team on some of WGBH's best-known brands, including Curious George, ARTHUR, Fetch with Ruff Ruffman and Martha Speaks, and major new projects. Our sites get 15 million visits per month, so if you are looking for somewhere to get your work in front of a massive international audience, this is the right place. It's a collaborative, fun work environment focused on games and engaging interactive experiences for kids and families. And it's engagement with a strong educational backbone. WGBH has been a leader in TV for forty years and this interactive team of designers, producers and developers is leading WGBH into the 21st century. Will you join us?

Skills Required:

You should show strength in interaction and game design for kids, preschool through teen. You should have a strong sense of games design, animation; a command of formal design, typography, interface and information design; and be up to date with web and multimedia design tools and technologies including mobile and touch screen interfaces. Facility with Flash, Photoshop, and Illustrator are essential, as well as responsive design, HTML5 and CSS coding skills. You should have strong communication skills and the ability to work collaboratively, quickly and creatively under deadline. In order to be considered, you must provide an online portfolio or samples of work which include mobile projects. The ideal candidate: • lives and breathes kids culture, from books to movies to games, and this informs the approach to design • is a trend-spotter and thought leader, able to push the team in new directions • knows how to view things from the perspective of a child, making the work both appealing and understandable by kids • can deliver great and playful work at the crossroads of education and fun • values the importance of gaming and it's ability to engage and teach simultaneously • is familiar with, and willing to discuss, design decisions in WGBH's kids' work (can be seen at: interactive.wgbh.org/kids)

Educational Requirements:

You should possess a BFA/BA degree in graphic design.

Please apply online via WGBH Careers Page at <http://www.wgbh.org/about/P0712.cfm>

Alyssa:

Is it possible for us to place an add in Cynopsis for an editor? As you probably know, the response to our posting was underwhelming and Sam quite rightly pointed out that the kind of editor we're looking for may not be someone who's inclined to check the WGBH website. It's possible we might find a NY based editor with the skills and experience we need who would jump at the chance to move to Boston. (There may be other/better places to advertise- Cynopsis is the site that comes to mind for reality positions.)

Thanks.

Senior Developer -- NOVA/WGBH for NOVA Labs (Boston, MA)

Date: 2011-12-05, 9:37AM EST

Reply to: see below

Lead Web Developer -- NOVA/WGBH

NOVA pioneered the science documentary series in the U.S. and remains the gold standard for engaging, accurate, and thought-provoking coverage, seen on TV by over 25 million people each month. Working with WGBH's Interactive department, NOVA has developed a cross-platform presence and reaches more than a million visitors monthly on its website.

Position Overview

NOVA Labs is a trailblazing initiative that will create an interactive experience for users to work with real-time scientific data and contribute to ongoing research for research institutions such as NASA. Think of it as a startup within a large and well-respected education icon in the community.

The Lead Developer will define and architect the NOVA Labs platform. Working with a small cross-functional team chosen to work on this project, the Lead Developer will:

- Collaborate with the team in a fast-paced environment
- Gather requirements from WGBH technical stakeholders
- Write technical specifications and testing procedures
- Interface with vendors and distributors
- Write code

Requirements:

- Skills and qualities required to complete a Bachelor's Degree in Computer Science
- More than 5 years of work experience solving problems for web-based environments
- Advanced mastery of Internet technologies, including jQuery and the Django and Zend frameworks
- Experience developing cross-platform HTML, CSS and JavaScript
- Experience developing and implementing web-based APIs and working with cloud services (particularly Amazon)

• Demonstrated ability and experience effectively communicating technical concepts to non-technical colleagues
• Candidates should be prepared to share and discuss code samples. We are a Macintosh shop that creates web sites for users on many platforms and browsers.

This is a full-time position, starting in mid-January 2012, for a 52-week employment contract, with a high likelihood of renewal plus full benefits. No travel is required. We work hard but believe in work/life balance.

Come and exchange ideas with a smart and passionate team that produces one-third of PBS content and creates innovative public media. WGBH is centrally located in a bright, sunny building that includes open floor plans, with its own parking garage, cafeteria (the food is actually good!), health club access, and more.

Please submit your resume to: Alyssa_Mullen@wgbh.org and to the WGBH job site at <http://www.wgbh.org/about/employmentOpportunities.cfm>

About WGBH:

Our Mission

WGBH's mission is an enduring, empowering call to action, one we're proud to wear on our sleeve -- and even on our building. Next time you enter our One Guest Street studios, look up! You'll see it wrapped around the outside of our facility, 90 feet across:

"WGBH enriches people's lives through programs and services that educate, inspire, and entertain, fostering citizenship and culture, the joy of learning, and the power of diverse perspectives."

Our Commitments

WGBH makes a commitment to:

- Foster an informed and active citizenry
- Make knowledge and the creative life of the arts, sciences, and humanities available to the widest possible public
- Reflect the diversity of our audience, inviting a sense of inclusion and a better understanding of each other
- Improve, for all people, access to public media
- Be a trusted partner to parents and educators, providing programs and services that promote the healthy development of children
- Serve the individual not just as a spectator but as a participant, able and willing to learn new skills through our programs and services

- Location: Boston, MA
- This is at a non-profit organization.
- Principals only. Recruiters, please don't contact this job poster.
- Please, no phone calls about this job!
- Please do not contact job poster about other services, products or commercial interests.

Freelance Drupal Developer

Date: 2011-12-06, 10:53AM EST

Reply to: your anonymous craigslist address will appear here

My company is looking for a freelance Drupal developer to work on some development projects. We need someone who can produce quality work quickly and at a low cost. The ideal person would be:

Local to New England
Flexible with hours
Able to work on-site
Experienced with Drupal 7

The projects you are working on would be Drupal 7 based in an externally hosted environment. The websites that are being produced will be relatively static, information based websites that provide information about our company as a whole. (About Us, Services we offer, etc.)

We are NOT looking for overseas development teams or development houses. We want to hire an individual who will be accountable to the technology manager for production of work.

Forward your resume with a thoughtful cover letter, examples of recent work, 3 references and hourly rates for consideration.

JOB REQ#: 4812

DATE POSTED: March 18, 2010

TITLE: WCAI Station Manager [Radio] - Cape & Islands Station (Cape & Islands)

TYPE OF POSITION: Management, Full Time, Project Contract (52 weeks)

Department Overview: The Cape and Islands NPR stations, WCAI 90.1FM, WNAN 91.1FM and WZAI 94.3FM are listener-supported public radio stations serving Cape Cod, Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard, and the south coast. Founded by local residents, the stations are a service of WGBH Radio with locally produced and nationally acquired programs. The Cape and Islands stations strive to celebrate the uniqueness of the communities that they serve while discussing common issues.

Position Overview: The Station Manager is responsible for all aspects of the operation of the WCAI network of stations, WCAI, WNAN, and WZAI, serving Cape Cod and the Islands with a service of WGBH Radio. The Station Manager plays a key role in strategic planning particularly as it pertains to expansion of the membership base, major donor cultivation, leading a capital campaign and relations with the local business community. This position requires experience and skills in four key areas: executive management, broadcast management, community relations and resource development. The Station Manager reports to the General Manager of Radio and works in conjunction with the WGBH's Development Department. Responsible for maintaining a working environment that leverages the potential and diversity of the department's entire staff. Provide direction and leadership in such a way as to nurture, create and maintain an environment that is (1) free from discrimination, intolerance and harassment and (2) provides employees with equal access to opportunities for growth and advancement including professional development whenever possible.

Requirements: Extensive experience including previous supervisory experience, financial management, strategic planning, fundraising, community relations and major donor cultivation is essential. Previous broadcast experience and knowledge of both the Cape and Islands and the public radio system is desired.
