Hackers are attempting to infiltrate social media accounts in order to target friends of account holders by posing as the person and pushing programs that allege to provide financial assistance. The hackers claim completion of a simple application will allow them to help with a variety of expenses.

Arkansas Attorney General Rutledge has the following tips to help keep personal information secure on social media:

- Use a unique password for each social media site.
- Be sure to set privacy settings to the most secure available. Ensure that information is only shared with friends,.
- If you receive a friend or follow request from an individual who you think you are already connected with, double-check your friends or followers list
- If your profile is publicly viewable, do not post information that would let someone know that your house was empty or that you are home alone and make sure children and roommates are being safe as well.

Think carefully about what information you post online. An electronic record of what you say will likely be online forever. Follow the "Front Page Rule." Remember that employers, universities and even attorneys often check other social media sites for information that you have posted online.

The Arkansas Department of Transportation (ARDOT) will hold a public involvement meeting in Barling to discuss the planning study on improving I-49 between State Highway 22 and Interstate 40 in Sebastian and Crawford Counties.

The public is invited to visit any time during the scheduled hours to view displays, ask questions and offer comments. The meeting will follow an open house format and will be Thursday, April 26 from 4 until 7pm at the Sacred Heart of Mary Catholic Church, 1301 Frank Street. For more information, contact the ARDOT's Public Information Office at 501-569-2000

The most common scam reported to the Attorney General's office in 2017 was the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) scam, in which scam artists intimidate Arkansans by posing as the IRS and demanding payment immediately. To protect themselves, Arkansans need to remember that the IRS will never call and demand payment, require taxes be paid in a certain way, ask for credit or debit card numbers or threaten to bring police or other agencies to make an arrest for unpaid taxes.

A seemingly innocent mobile phone application is now being used by child predators to exploit children. Recent news reports explain a dark side of the lip syncing app, Musical.ly, where predatory users manipulate keywords and hashtags to create secret video groupings of app users, often children, engaging in inappropriate behavior at the encouragement of other users. Some tips for children and families to remember when posting online and using apps.

- Do not respond to messages that are inappropriate. Encourage children to tell an adult if they ever encounter anything that makes them feel uncomfortable.
- Parents and guardians should consider using available parental controls offered at no cost by most providers and/or downloading a monitoring service app that allows them to view the child's smartphone activity.
- Children should never arrange a face-to-face meeting with someone they met online as they may not be who they say they are.
- Follow the "Front Page Rule," which reminds social media users not to put anything on a social media site they would not want to see on the front page of a newspaper.
- Assume that status updates, photos and videos posted on social networks are permanent. Just because a profile is deleted or information is removed, older versions can continue to exist on other sites.
- Make a unique password for every social media site. Consider making the passwords stronger by adding numbers or special characters. Having strong, unique passwords for each site helps prevent hackers from taking over social media accounts to send spam, scam friends or use information against the owner of the account.

The most common scam reported to the Attorney General's office in 2017 was the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) scam, in which scam artists intimidate Arkansans by posing as the IRS and demanding payment immediately. To protect themselves, Arkansans need to remember that the IRS will never call and demand payment, require taxes be paid in a certain way, ask for credit or debit card numbers or threaten to bring police or other agencies to make an arrest for unpaid taxes.

1. Erin E. Murphy, expert on DNA and forensic evidence, Professor of Law at New York University

Ms. Murphy discussed the privacy and legal concerns raised by the Golden State Killer case, in which a notorious serial killer was captured via DNA submitted to a publically available genealogy website. She noted that that the type of DNA testing used by genealogy sites is a much broader and more powerful tool than the version permitted in criminal justice databases. She also discussed recent advances that will make DNA testing much faster and even more useful to law enforcement.

2. David Ballard, PhD, Director of the American Psychological Association's Center for Organizational Excellence

The #MeToo movement has gripped the nation for months, but a recent study from the American Psychological Association found that in its aftermath, corporations have taken weak steps, at best, to prevent sexual harassment and inappropriate conduct. He said most policy and training changes have been aimed at limiting the liability of the company, rather than to effect real change. He found that organizations with women in senior leadership roles were much more likely to have taken new steps to prevent harassment and to encourage employees to report it.

Arkansas Attorney General Leslie Rutledge will host the Never Forgotten – Arkansas Takes Action event on Tuesday, July 17 at the Benton Event Center. The event was established to raise awareness of the challenges associated with missing persons cases and recognize Arkansas's missing children and adults. From 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., a panel discussion will be held for the families of missing persons on available resources to assist them with locating their loved one. Participating agencies include Arkansas State Police, Arkansas State Crime Lab, Arkansas Crime Information Center, FBI, the Morgan Nick Foundation and others

With the summer heat and humidity, be aware of the condition of elderly members of your family and neighbors. Due to physical and financial limitations, our elderly community is more susceptible to heat stroke and heat exhaustion. A simple phone call or quick drop by visit to check their housing is cool enough, they're drinking plenty of water and staying out of the midday heat could save a life.

With kids home for the summer, parents need to know about dangerous phone apps available that allow their kids to actively conceal information, photos and texts from their parents. These apps can easily be downloaded onto any mobile device and have unassuming icons designed to mislead a casual observer. One popular app appears to be a calculator and even functions as such until a specific code is entered.

Arkansas Attorney General Leslie Rutledge and Common Sense Media shared the following tips for parents

- Talk to teens about using phones responsibly and respecting privacy.
- Remind teens that taking and/or sharing embarrassing or revealing pictures often comes back to haunt people.
- Do a spot check to see which apps have used the camera. This will reveal any camera apps disguised as something else. (On iPhones go into Settings -> Privacy -> Camera)

There are also apps available to help parents monitor their child's device. Apps like SecureTeen Parental Control or Parental Control Board are helpful to parents to know who kids are texting, what music they are buying and many other things.

The Attorney General's office also produces materials for students of all ages, along with parents and guardians to learn more about online and internet safety. The website is consumer@arkansasag.gov.

A panicked phone call from a person claiming to be a relative needing money right away to get him or her out of some sort of trouble pulls at the heartstrings of elderly Arkansans, but this is more than likely a scam. Con artists continue to disguise themselves as close relatives or favorite grandchildren caught in serious trouble and in need of money wired immediately, often to a location out of the country. With wire transfers similar to cash, the money cannot be retrieved.

Arkansas Attorney General Rutledge recommends the following strategies to avoid falling victim to the "favorite grandson" scheme:

- Resist pressure to act quickly.
- Never give or wire money based on any unsolicited phone call.
- Verify the family member's location by directly calling another family member or the grandchild.
- Do not send money to an unknown account or entity.
- Ask the caller for his or her name, and if they cannot provide it, hang up immediately.
- Have a plan in place when family members are traveling to easily identify whether or not a need is genuine.

For more information and tips on how to avoid a scam, call the Arkansas Attorney General's Office at (800) 482-8982 or visit ArkansasAG.gov or facebook.com/AGLeslieRutledge.
