The Taylorville Street and Sewer Department workers will see a three percent in their next paycheck after a city council vote at Monday night's special city council meeting. The board voted 6-0 to give the AFSCME Council 31 Local 3349 the three percent raise in 2017.

Taylorville mayor Bruce Barry says the raise is retroactive and this ends negotiations with the union for the time being.

TUES            E                    BarryAFSCME1            :08

Barry says he's pleased that both sides have a resolution in this matter for now, and that he hopes other negotiations can start to get settled.

TUES            R                    BarryAFSCME2            :14

Also discussed at Monday's meeting was a mathematical error made in the city's appropriations for the 2017-2018 fiscal year. The error was an over-calculation and has been corrected. A public hearing will be scheduled for prior to the next city council meeting so residents can view the city's appropriations for the coming year. The next regularly scheduled board meeting is scheduled for July 17th at 7 p.m.

The city of Pana is saving for bike trail repairs and restarting a recycling program. The Pana City Council approved a motion to withhold $25,000 from an old bike trail fund for tressel work on the Lincoln Prairie Bike Trail at Monday night's city council meeting. The recycling program, a partnership between the city of Pana and Pana Township, restarted again this week.

Pana mayor Don Kroski (Craw-ski) says that withholding the money gives the city a jumpstart for when it will be needed for the bike trail repairs.

WED                      T                      KroskiBikeTrail1                      :36

With the recycling program, Kroski says the county used to run the program, but it was cut because of the cost to run the program. So the city and the township formed a partnership to bring it back.

WED                      Y                      KroskiBikeTrail2                      :28

Other action items at Monday night's meeting included the hiring of a part-time zoning and code officer at the Pana Ordinance Office, and the approval of a contract with Benton and Associates for spillway and water operations at Pana Lake.

The Taylorville City Council took action to prevent future computer system crashes at Monday night's city council meeting. That was one of the many action items and purchases approved at the meeting held at the Taylorville Municipal Building.

Taylorville Mayor Bruce Barry says after the computer system crash at the City Clerk and City Treasurer's office last month, the city wants to prevent another crash in the future.

TUES                      U                      BarryWeird1                      :19

Barry says the city wants to keep this business locally, and the city is still negotiating a final monthly price with CTL.

TUES                      I                      BarryWeird2                      :12

In addition, there were some questions about two recent city financial commitments. Alderman Martin Vota questioned the need to give $5,000 to the Greater Taylorville Chamber of Commerce for Chillifest, along with the purchase of a pre-owned truck for the street department. Barry says for Chillifest, the hotel tax fund's money should go towards one of the biggest hotel tax money generators each year.

TUES                      O                      BarryWeird3                      :35

For the truck purchase, Barry says it would have cost the city four times as much to buy new.

TUES                      P                      BarryWeird4                      :38

Other items at Monday's meeting included passing an ordinance allowing golf carts to be driven on Taylorville city streets, along with honoring Alivia Kent, a Taylorville girl who recently won a national championship in gymnastics. The next city council meeting will be held on Tuesday, September 5th at 7 p.m. at the Taylorville Municipal Building. The meeting will be pushed back one day because of the Labor Day holiday.

As governing bodies across the state continue in a holding pattern while they wait on Illinois lawmakers to pass a budget, one Christian County agency is running out of money to function. Although the Christian County Health Department has received some grant money to extend its budget, Christian County Public Health Administrator Nancy Martin says the department will be out of money in three to four months.

Martin says the department would avoid a complete shutdown at all costs.

WED

Martin says every health department across the state is having to deal with the same budget issues. She says other departments have made some changes that she hopes the Christian County Health Department won't have to make.

Martin says for now, it is just a game of wait-and-see, like most state funded agencies are doing right now as they wait to see if the budget bills become law.

In a quick Christian County Board meeting Tuesday night, it was mainly housekeeping items on the agenda at the meeting. But one Christian County Board member turned in her resignation letter Tuesday.

The board voted to take 10 health insurance benefits out of department budgets and put into the general funds to help the county's budget deficit. The county has 10 employees that don't take the county's health benefits, which allows the board to put this money there. District 4 Board Member Becky Edwards says this action doesn't mean a department can't hire a new employee that would require health insurance benefits.

WED                      T                      EdwardsMeeting1                      :29

The board also voted to accept the resignation of District 1 Board Member Ashley Linton. Linton still lives in the county, but has moved out of her district, and moving out of the district meant Linton had to resign. Linton says even with her move, she hasn't lost her passion to help and serve others.

WED                      Y                      LintonMeeting1                      :24

Linton wants to thank all of her constituents for their support through her time in office. She did not rule out a possible run for a county board seat in 2018, but as she said, she is going to take a break from politics for the time being.

The Christian County Court System and Christian County Sheriff's Office are working together to incorporate video teleconferencing in for some criminal court appearances. The system was tested for the first time during court proceedings on Wednesday.

Christian County Resident Circuit Judge Brad Paisley played a big role in putting the system in place. He says video court appearances have been in the works since the beginning of the year, and there is no cost to the Christian County taxpayers for implementing the service.

WKND                      E                      PaisleyVideo1                      :25

Paisley says the use of video will save some Sheriff's Department manpower needed to transport those people from the jail to the courthouse. There are also safety issues that can be resolved through video court appearances.

WKND                      R                      PaisleyVideo2                      :39

Paisley says defendants have the right to be in court for certain types of appearances, but he hopes when the video system can be used, it will streamline court proceedings.

Christian County's newest board member was sworn into office at Tuesday night's county board meeting. Venise (Denise with a V) McWard is filling the seat vacated by Ashley Linton, and she will serve Christian County's first district.

McWard, a Stonington native, says the support she has received from her friends and family has been overwhelming.

WED                      E                      McWardBoard1                      :21

McWard will be up for re-election next spring, so she looks forward to meeting her constituents during the next several months.

WED                      R                      McWardBoard2                      :19

Other actions items at Tuesday's meeting included motions to approve the purchase of a Jumping Jack Compactor for the highway department, and two culvert projects were approved. The board also approved the contract with AFSCME for the county's probation officers, giving the officers an equity adjustment in their pay making it more in line with the other probation officers in the Fourth Judicial Circuit.

Illinois now has a budget, but it's the state's backlog of bill that has the Christian County Health Department in a dire financial situation. The department has nearly depleted its reserve the past two years that Illinois has not had a budget, and now the department needs the promised state money to come through.

Nancy Martin is the county's public health administrator. She says other counties have had to cut back services, but she's doing everything she can to not have to cut back on services in Christian County.

MON                      E                      MartinBudget1                      :38

Martin says the health department plays an important behind-the-scenes role for quality of life in Christian County.

MON                      R                      MartinBudget2                      :38

Martin says just under 400 thousand dollars of their 560 thousand dollar operating budget this year comes from grant money, and the department does not receive any county tax dollars. She says they do accept donations, for more information, you can give a call to 824-4113.

CTI is wrapping up its projects to offer its services to all residents of Taylorville, but once it is done, the company isn't going to stop there. The company recently announced plans to expand its services into Montgomery County and provide cable, internet, and television services for residents of Hillsboro.

CTI President Billy Williams says the company has been looking at where to expand to for at least six months. He says he has had previous conversations with Hillsboro area leaders, and that the timing was right.

Some students in need in Christian County are receiving free dental care thanks to a new program that has come out of Taylorville Memorial Hospital's community health needs assessment.
